"THEY DESIRE A BETTER COUNTRY." BY CHRISTINA G. ROSSETTI. I would not if I could undo my past, Tho' for its sake my future is a blank; My past, for which I have myself to thank For all its faults and follies first and last. I would not cast anew the lot once cast, Or launch a second ship for one that sank, Or break by feasting my perpetual fast. I would not if I could; for much more dear to remembrance than a hundred joys.

Is one remembrance than a hundred joys. More than a thousand hopes in jubiles; Marer the music of one tearful voice That unforgotten calls and calls to me, Follow me here, rise up and follow here." What seekest thon far in the unknown land?

What seekest thou far in the unknown land? I hope I follow joy gone on before, In hope and fear persistent more and more, As the dry desort lengthens out its sand. Whilst day and night I carry in my hand The golden key to ope the golden door Of golden home; yet my eye weepeth sore For the long journey that must make no stand. And who is this shat velled doth walk with thee?

Lo, this is Love that walketh at my right; One exile holds us both, and we are bound To self-same home joys in the land of light. Weeping thou walkest with him; weepeth he? Some sobbing weep, some weep and maker

A dimness of glory glimmers here Thro' veils and distance from the space r mote, A faintest far vibration of a note

Reaches to us and seems to bring us near, Causing our face to glow with braver cheer, Making the serried mist to stand afloat, Subduing languor with an antidote? nd strengthening love almost to cast out fear, Till for one moment golden city walls Rise looming on us, golden walls of home, Light of our eyes until the darkness falls; Then the othe outer darkness burdensome I hear again the tender voice that calls, "Follow me bither, follow, rise and come." A HOME IN THE OCEAN.

tinoi Ledge Light—The Mountainous Wayes at Cohasset Ledge—The Great Weil under the Lighthouse—Isola-tion in a Storm—Dining in a Whale's Belly. (Correspondence of the Journal of Commerce.)

Let us visit Minot Ledge Lighthouse now, while this storm is at full power. This ledge is covered by water, except for a short time at a very low tide. It rises in Boston bay, about twenty miles from Boston, and one mile and a half from Cohasset. Into it are hung up against the wall of the tower. fitted and bolted down the stones of the tower, which are dovetailed and bolted into each other in such a fashion that no stone can be moved without lifting tower and ledge with it. The tower, light and all, is 114 feet in height; yet over it, clean to the very top, the waves are dashing. Does not their thunder make your very heart tremble? But ese keepers tell you there is no danger? For forty feet the tower is built up solid, except the well, which is in the centre, 38 et deep. It holds a supply of water for one year. The water keeps good and pure. The well holds 2,000 gallons. It is rather warm in the summer, and in the winter becomes. as one of the keepers says, "a kind of porridge ice." We will suppose we enter the tower from a boat. To do so we should either climb a ladder forty feet long, fixed nto the side of the tower, or be swung up in a chair. At the top of the ladder are two sets of oaken doors, against which are now beating the hungry waves. Between the outer doors and the inner is an entry about three feet long. Entering this room (which is the cellar), from the doors are dining room and everything cosy, comfortable A table well set—hot cakes and hot coffee and boiled fish-"Of course we will." And down we sit, not waiting a second invitation. Well, is not this a singular situation? It seems like dining in a whale's belly. Stormed about and dashed about and poured about by the remorseless sea, and eating a relishful meal the institution of the Improved Order of Red quite at our ease. It is certainly one "new Men, is 1813, they adopted this day as an annual thing under the sun" to some of us. thing under the sun" to some of us.

glass walls of this room probably have the same effect. There is another walk and balcony without, but we will not try it. It is only on calm, clear evenings that being out there is agree-able. But within, not all the cold and frost and storms of winter, at its worst, can affect one's bodily comfort. One is as thoroughly protected as if he was in his tomb.
