Saturday, May 1, 1869. THE TRIALS OF OFFICE. It is generally regarded as a most enviable hing to be appointed to a responsible or lucrative office under the Government. The siege of Washington, which has been beeaguered for two months past by a hungrier invasion than ever threatened the Capital in the days of the Rebellion, attests how highly men prize the glory and emolument of public office. In the distribution of office, however, the President has not been always guided by the amount of importunity or pressure, but by his general sense of the fitness of things. And so it has come to pass that, in various parts of the country, quiet, orderly, unoffending gentlemen have been selected for positions in which they suddenly find themselves plunged into a sea of troubles, by the myriad seeking to be fed with the "five loaves and two small fishes" which they have to dis tribute in the shape of subordinate appoint-but the head that wears the commission of any important office does not rest at all. The single case of the worthy and excellent gentleman who has been appointed Collector of this Port will suffice for illustra tion. No sooner was it rumored from Wash by the time that he actually received his commission he was beset by a great company A RE YOU A CONNOISSFUR IN MEERSCHAUM A Pipes and Cigar Tubes? Men of all ages and conditions; men who could scarcely write, seeking first-class clerkships; blind men, desiring inspectorships; lame men, de manding to be made runners; men, upon which he was peculiarly unfitted; and all oining in the one grand idea that nobody's everybody, in fact, claiming the position for oining in the one grand idea that nobody's claims should be considered until somebody's claim was satisfied.

Now Mr. Collector Moore had less than bundred offices to dispose of. He could make about ninety vacancies by clearing out the Bread and Butter Brigade of the late An drew Johnson, a duty in which any honest Republican would engage with sincere pleasure. But the applicants were numbered, not by hundreds, but by thousands. Day after day they poured in their applications, some based on political services, some on political promises, some on military services, some on personal and pressing necessities, some on the score of friendship, some on one thing and some on another, but each petitioner presenting claims superior to those of all four thousand anxious seekers after Custom House favors. At the Custom House, Mr.

Moore was double-locked in his private room, and guards were stationed in the anteroom, and guards were stationed in the antewas little better. Letters slipped themselves into his dressing-gown and crept beneath his dinner plate. His door-steps, his entry, his porture his stell-season was been found. parlors, his staircases, were beset with patient intruders upon his privacy. For two weeks, Mr. Moore was not permitted to eat a meal in mr. Moore was not permitted to eat a meal in peace. No wonder that his spare form grew thinner, and his features more sharp and anxious. He could oblige less than one man in every forty, and the task of refusing or disjunction of the counter to be sold at $350 a set, goods that sold the counter to be sold at $350 a set, goods that sold the counter to be sold at $350 a set, goods that sold the counter to be sold at $350 a set, goods that sold the counter to be sold at $350 a set, goods that sold the counter to be sold at $350 a set, goods that sold out at $250. appointing the thirty-nine hundred whom he would have been glad to oblige, has been the hardest duty that is likely to devolve upon NEW FRENCH BREAKFAST AND DEMI TOILET bim during his term of office. The offices from Fig. Altra pize necks, 14 to 18% inches; a case just of the pize of less all been filled, and the weary appears to less all been filled, and the weary have at last all been filled, and the weary

Collector rests from his labors.

The appointments have been made with an anxious regard to the fitness of the applicants, preference being constantly given to honorably discharged soldiers. More than half of the offices have been filled from this class and we congretulate Mr. Moore not class, and we congratulate Mr. Moore not class, and we congratulate Mr. Moore not only that, his Herculean task being now ended, he may now resume his domestic attention of the control of the contr ended, he may now resume his domestic! ended, he may now resume his domestic peace and quiet, but that the task has been done to well. His case is only a specimen of what many others are enduring, but we lite it as a marked library state of the sales o cite it as a marked illustration of the trials and troubles of public office.

The slarm was caused by the giving-way of a portion of the fifth floor of Joseph S Finch & Co's bonded warehouse on Chestnut street, Co's bonded warehouse on Chestuat street. South Pittsburgh, and the precipitation of about three thousand barrets of whisky from the fifth story to the ground.

In the afternoon the superintendent of the distilicry was in the bonded warehouse, and noticed this they was in the bonded warehouse, and noticed that one of the steam pipes by which the boller is betted was leaking. He called the attention of one of the workmen to the matter, and said that he would go down town and procure some material necessary to repair it. The men employed about the building, five in number, thought they would assist in the matter, and they would assist in the matter, and the would fill. They all beat a hasty retreat to proceed from the floor, and the mental field in alarm, fearing that the building would fall. The barrels of whisky rolled and tumbled on one another, and made a terrible noise, but fortunately doing no serious damage.

It is estimated that about fifty barrels were destroyed, and the loss of the liquor and the damad a couple of holes made in it each about four feet square, and it is thought the entire wall will have to be rebuilt, although it may be strength-

Some curious incidents are related concerning the accident. It is stated that soon after the fall, and as soon as it became circulated about the borough that fifty barrels of whisky were running away in consequence of the accident, the in-temperately disposed people of the borough re-paired in large numbers to the warehouse and de desperate efforts to save the whisky, many of them getting in a highly intoxicated condition

CLARK & EVANS. A STRANGER BEATEN AND ROBBED.-Rudolph John Mart, a German compositor, arrived here on Sunday last, to participate in the Odd Fel-lows' festival. He wanted to go on Taesday to Camden, by the South street ferry, to see a friend. No boat was there. He went to Michael Quinn's place, No. 404 Penn street, and there met the proprietor and his son John. The latter told him, upon inquiry, that no boat would go before two hours. Mart then offered money to Quinn, Jr., who volunteered, together with a fellow called Buchie to take him over in a shiff No. 680 Chestnut Street. llow, called Duchie, to take him over in a skiff. Mart had shown in the tayern a roll of bank-notes. Instead of taking him to Camden, they took him to League Island, made him go on land, knocked him down with an oar, robbed him of $120 and an Odd Fellows' badge, and left him, supposing him to be dead. The man recovered and took out warrants for the Perfumery, Suspenders,
