EVENING BULLETIN.

As everybody expected, Senator Sumner's able and vigorous speech upon the Alabama claims has made a great stir in England. | the Haggerty, Tobin, Whitney and McMullin For some incomprehensible reason the bills were ignored. English people have hitherto failed to comend the precise theory and character of e demand made upon them by our Government. Mr. Sumner has explained it with unmistakable distinctness at last. He shows that the claim for pecuniary compensation for the damage done is not the only reebels was recognized in indecent haste, and | ment by the Republican City Executive Comparation that we require. It is, indeed, the east important portion of it. The vital point is that Great Britain shall, in some sort, dmit the illegality and monstrous wrong of the policy by which the belligerency of the beginning. The Alabama and her sister pirates were as completely English as any men of war in the British navy, and we want an admission of that fact and such a determination of its outrageous character as will make its recurrence impossible in the

Now that the English people have mastered this idea, their newspapers have expressed the popular feeling in outbursts of indignation, and in vehement declarations that England will never submit to the humiliation of an apology. Some of the lesser journals profess to find in Mr. Sumner's speech a threat of forcible advocacy of our claims, and with very discreditable bloodthirstiness they have declared the preference of the bold Britons for war to the dishonor of an admission of the dishonor of the disho wrong doing. We anticipated just such an HENRY PHILLIPPI. ebullition of feeling when the speech reached England; but we believe that as soon as the first frenzy is over, it will be perceived that the excitement was unnecessary. So far from having a belligerent tone, Mr. Sumner's remarks were quite pacific enough to suit the remarks were quite pacific enough to suit the ing man in this country desires to press the Alabama claims against England with the bayonet. It would not pay; and we have had enough blood-letting to satisfy even the most sanguinary for many years to come. But a cooler consideration of the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the Britons will convince them of one fact: that the speech by the spee England must either admit the illegality of her conduct and pay the claims, or else have it become a fixed principle in American verNo 825 (Eight Thirty-five) Market street, below Ninth

But she can be well assured that her conduct will never be forgotten or forgiven; and that the Alabama claims unless satisfied now, as we wish them to be, will be paid in the future with heavy HAGGENTY AGAIN. It is not very complimentary to the cleverness or the activity of the police that Haggerty could not be found when Judge Brewster called for him, and yet that he was so close at hand that the moment Judge Brewster was off the bench he walked into court, with an attempt to renew his bail. The clerk, in the absence of the Judge, retused the proposition of Haggerty and his friends, and he was taken into custody and sent below. Haggerty has certainly made a serious mis calculation if he supposes he will fare any better in Judge Ludlow's hands than he would with Judge Brewster. Indeed, it will require all of Judge Ludlow's virtue to deawith this case impartially, after the affron which Haggerty's conduct puts upon him Haggerty wisely desired to avoid Judge Brewster's clutches; but, in suggesting, as he seems to do, that he will have a better chance with Judge Ludlow, he invokes from that offloer the most stringent application of the law which can be made consistent with strict

The public will recognize the importance of Judge Brewster's peremptory procedures against Haggerty's bail. It was a new sensation, in the Haggerty circle of society, to tion, in the Haggerty circle of scotety, to have a ten-thousand dollar bail followed up in this sharp and decisive fashion. It now semains to be seen, whether a still more starting sensation cannot be gotten up, in the shape of a quick trial, and prompt conviction and a suitable sentence, for the various offences of which Haggerty stands charged.

THE GRAND JURY.

The presentment of the Grand Jury, made hast week, before Judge Brewster, is a document which deserves the careful attention of our people. It calls attention to subjects of the gravest moment, calling for some radical reforms in our present system of administering criminal justice. Monday. May 3d, 1869.—Money to day is abundant, and we are prepared to find that our banks during the past week have steadily gained in all the elements which go to make up an easy and comfortable market. Call loans continue to be made at about 5% per cent. on Government recurities, and at 6% per cent. on other collaterals. Discounts of prime mercantile paper have been negotiated at the banks during most of last week at rates varying from 7% per cent—the former figure perhaps prevailing Holders of good paper, who may not have credit at the banks, are in a position of independence inst new, and as it is quite searce, there is a considerable degree of competition between the banks and outside lenders to obtain it, and the rates are, therefore, the same in both markets, viz. 7% per cent. for well endorsed notes. In call loans the transactions are light to day, which leads to the impression that the rates are at the point of another decline.

BY TELEGRAPH. WASHINGTON THE PACIFIC RAILROAD CLAIM

Washington, May 3.—The argument before the Secretary of the Interior on behalf of the Central branch of the Pacific Railroad, which claims the right under existing laws to build and to receive lands and subsidy for one hundred and cighty miles more of road to reach to the one hundredth meridian, was concluded by exhundredth meridian, was concluded by ex-Attorney-General Evarts on Saturday. Sccre-tary Cox informed the counsel for the road that be would not assume the responsibility of de-ciding so important a matter, but would bring it before the Cab net for decision. The arguments made will be printed for use before Congress if the decision is adverse.
