

task to both teachers and pupils. Our greatest drawback was want of funds successfully to carry out our plans. In June last, a Strawbery Fea-tival was held for this purpose, at which we re-alized about three hundred dollars."

A PLEASING ENTERTAINMENT. The lecture room of the Second Reformed Dutch Church, seventh street, above Brown, was last evening the scene of a happy entertainment, which con-sisted of the closing exercises of the Literary Circle connected with that church. Col. D. W. C. Moore, the President of the Society, called the C. Moore, the President of the Society, cannot the meeting to order. Prayer was then offered by R. E. Nichols, Esq., and Mr. Charles M. Gilbert fol-lowed in the opening address. Prof. H. V. McCully recited "The Relief of Lucknow," after which Mr. Clifton W. Tyson gave a declamation of "The Raven." Mr. McCully excited the mirth of the and increa by rending "The Lost Heir." by of the audience by reading "The Lost Heir," by Thomas Hood. Mr. Nichols made a few brief remarks, alloding to the benefits and pleasures to be derived from a participation in the entertainments presented by a well conducted Literary Circle. The valedictory was delivered by Mr. George B. Graham. The choir rendered some appropriate music.

ASHEB'S MAY BALL .- This reunion of the Profersor's pupils and friends came off last evening at Musical Fund Hall, and was largely attended, there being not less than a thousand persons present. The exhibition of fancy dancing by the pupils, from three to ten years of age, was quite a feature, commencing at 8 o'clock, and lasting uill ten. The httle ones all acquitted themselves creditably, and Mr A. deserves great praise for bis efforts in bringing them to such perfection The children's exercise over, the older portion of the audience then took part, commencing with a march arranged expressly for the occasion by the Professor, and the effect of the march in files. platoons and column, was extremely beautiful Dancing then commenced and continued until a late hour. The ball was an occasion long to be remembered by those who participated.

THE SUNKEN CANAL BOAT .- The steam canal boat Fulton, which suck early on Monday mora-ing in the dock at the foot of Walnut street, will be raised in a few days. Peter Leonard, from New York, and a colored man, are supposed to have been drowned, as they were seen to go into the cabin about 11 o'clock on Sunday night and have not been board of since. The boat had on board about 90 tous of pig iron and blacksmith's coal; she was lying alongside of a barge, on board of which were two men. The breaking of the fastenings aroused them, but the steamboat had sunk before they could get on the deck of their own boat. The vessel belongs to Messre. Hawkine & Devoc.

A HANDSOME PICTURE.—The handsome litho-graph picture presented to Chief Engineer Downey, last evening, by a committee of the Hibernia Fire Company, No. 1, represents the Company assembling on the morning of the grand parade of 1857. In the back ground is the apparatus, while in the front the members are arranged in line, and the likenesses of some of them are excellent. The presentation spece-was made by Henry A. Cook, of the Hibernia and the gift was received by the Chief in person

The canal business was very unsatisfactory during the first half of the boating sea-son, owing to the lateness of the spring, duliness of trade, the break and the strike. For the same the first of August, and until that date the busi-pers on our railroad was confined principally to local tonnage.

"The balance sheet shows the reduction of $\pm 361,557$ 56 from that rendered last year. A reduction on the credit appears in several of the items. The funded debt shows a diminution of \$229,663 42 in the 1870 loan, which has been purchased at par.

TOILET ARTICLES. HAIR WORK.

EXTRACTS FROM A NOTIOE IN THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE. "The advertisement of a hair drosser in the edty of Phi-isdelphia. (J. MAYER, No. 906 Arch street) has filled us with admiration. An artist who can arrange the hair with or without clustering curls, waving rolls, puffs or plaite, by the aid of superior contrivarios (ouly in use at No. 906 Archistreet). His appeal to ladies of tarte, 'and what lady is without taste.' he gailantly inquires. To be sure, the ladies' taste is a little whimsical and uncertain esure, the ladies' taste is a little whimsical and uncertain and sometimes about twice as large as their little heads. -sometimes bonnets twice as large as their little fungers and sometimes about the ladie to please her own beautiful lady of taste must be left to please her own beautiful imaginings."
