Mesars. Lee & Shepard, whose tact in selecting juvenile literature is now so notorious that their mere imprimatur is looked upon as a sufficient recommendation, have issued new instalments of their "Helping Hand" and "Dotty Dimple" series. The first, "Salt Water Dick," takes the adventurous reader to Peru, the Chinchas, and to Rio, round Cape Horn. The second "Dotty Dimple at Substance, especially that of the brain and sympathetic system, is preserved from the inroads to which it would otherwise be subjected. The ability to comprehend is increased and judgment is rendered clearer, the power of the will is augmented, and all this without the degree of exhaustion which otherwise follows every prolonged mental effort. The greatest men the world has ever seen used tobacco, and men, both great and Cape Horn. The second, "Dotty Dimple at behool," will be welcome to those who have traced the previous fortunes of Sophie May's door little Dot. But her walls and the previous fortunes of Sophie May's dear little Dot. Both are prettily illustrated.
