NEW CHURCH IN FRANKFORD.—The United New Church IN FRANKFORD.—The United Presbyterian Church of Frankford, of which Rev. James Price is Pastor, have, for some time, been engaged in the erection of a new edifice, which is now approaching completion, and which promises to be one of the handsomest ornaments of the Ward. It is located at the corner of Orthodox and Franklin streets; and from the fact that the ground is high, the neighborhood improving, and the position centraf, the site is universally confessed to be among if not the very choleest, in the place. The style of architecture selected is the early English, which is very simple, but exceedingly appropriate for the rural districts of our city. The front part of the building, which is intended for the main audience room, is one story high, and the rear part, with walls of a uniform height, is two stories. The first story is divided into four rooms, namely: a lecture-room, which is to have permanent pews, and one cach for prayer-meetings, trustees and pastor. These rooms can all be thrown into one by sliding doors and sash, affording accommodation for four hundred persons. The ceilings of these rooms will be about twelve feet high. The second story is intended for Sabbath school purposes. This apartment will also be divided into four rooms—one main Sabbath—school room and three Bible class-rooms, capable of being thrown into one by sliding sash. Arrangements are also made to have two infant school rooms in the third story, opening into the main room by sliding doors. The ceiling in the centre of the third story, opening into the main room by saiding doors. The ceiling in the centre of the main Sabbath-school room will be about sixteen feet high. Between the rooms just described and the audience chamber there is a vestibule eight feet wide, containing stairs leading to the second

The audience chamber is 41 feet wide and 68 feet long inside the wall. It is proposed to have an end gallery, and also two horse-shoe galleries, one on each side of the pulpit. The floor is so exprared that paragraphs attributes in the reasons. one on each side of the painting in the rear are higher than in front. A tower some 13 feet square rises at the southeast corner of the buildsquare rises at the southeast corner of the building, in front; from the ground to the pinnacle the distance is about 72 feet. The entrance to the audience chamber is through this tower and a porch in front. The lecture and Sabbath-school rooms are approached by doors in the sides. Much care has been taken tomake theyentilation as perfect as possible. There are brick flues built in the wall, opening at the floor in each room, conducting to a ventilator in the roof, and into each of these flues a gas-burner can be lighted should it be deemed necessary. There are also registers connected with the outside of the building for the introduction of fresh There are also registers connected with the out-side of the building for the introduction of fresh air, and others opening at the ceiling for sum-mer ventilation. The walls are built of Frank-ford stone, and the outside is finished in what is termed rubble work, pointed, with mortar a shade lighter than the stone. Around the front and tower are buttresses capped with granite: winngnier than the stone. Around the front and tower are buttresses capped with granite; window, door-sills and steps are of the same material. The heads of all openings are of ordinary rial. The heads of all openings are of ordinary stone, hammer-dressed.

The dimensions of the building outside are as follows: length, 123 feet: width, 45 feet; width front, including tower, 60 feet; heighth of side walls, 24 feet. The roof is slated. A cellar runs under the entire church. The walls are 2½ feet thick in the cellar, allowing 6 faches for the joists to rest on, thus preventing decay in the wood. Sand of the very best quality was procured in the cellar sufficient for the whole building. The materials used in the construction of the edifice are of the very best quality, and every part of the terials used in the construction of the earnes are of the very best quality, and every part of the work has been done in a most substantial manner. The cost of this building, if erected by contract in most parts of the city, would probably be from $30,000 to $40,000, but the building committee are of the opinion that owing to the way they have managed the work, and on account of mittee are of the opinion that owing to the way they have managed the work, and on account of other things favorable, they can finish for about $20,000. The lecture room will be finished in a few weeks, and the expenses thus far will be about $16,000, all of which has been paid except some $2,500, which it is honed will be raised or some $2,500, which it is hoped will be raised at the opening. The congregation, which numbers about one hundred members, have been working about one hundred members, have been working energetically, and they rejoice to say that they have met with universal sympathy in the community. The main features of the present plan of the building are the fruit of the pastor's study and careful observation for years, wherever he has traveled; but too much praise cannot be given to the architect, J. H. Windrim, Esq., of Masonic Temple celebrity, who has clothed the pastor's idea with order and beauty, combining simplicity with elegance, and commodiousness plicity with elegance, and commodiousness with economy.

A NEW SYNAGOGUE. - A new Synagogue for the A New Synagogue.—A new Synagogue for the German Hebrew Congregation Rodef Sholem, is about to be built at the southeast corner of Broad and Mount Vernon streets, from designs furnished by Fraser, Furness & Hewitt, The building will be of the Sarace style of architecture, and will have a front of 83 feet on Broad street, and 164 feet on Mount Vernon street, with a lower at the corner of Mount Vernon street. 26 a tower at the corner of Mount Vernon street, 26 feet square and 125 feet high. The parlor in the rear of this recess is 33 by 19 feet communicating with two rebing rooms 12 feet, communicating with two robing rooms 13 feet square. The front vestibule will be 31 by 13

BANK CLERKS' BENEFICIAL ASSOCIATION .- OB Thursday afternoon there was held at the rooms of the Clearing House Association a meeting of the bank clerks of this city, to take into consi deration the advisability of forming a social and beneficial association, such as exists at present in the city of New York. There was quite a numerous attendance, most of the banks being re-presented, and it was evident that the clerks in earnest in the matter. Mr. Lehman, paying teller of the Girard National Bank, offi-ciated as President. He briefly stated the inten tions of the organization, which are entirely of a benevolent nature, and then there was read a number of communications upon the subject om parties in New York, which illustrated the formation of the Society in that city. Although of quite recent origin, it now numbers 900 mem bers and has a fund of $7,000. In two casesthe deaths of two members—it has already manifested its usefulness by aiding substantially their families. The banks and bankers have been very liberal toward the Society, two gentlemen contributing a check of $1,000 cach. It is to be hoped that the line spiri, will be manifested in

A RELIC OF THE TOBACCO TRADE.—We were shown, a day or two ago, an interesting relic of the past, which is to be placed in the new rooms of the Tobacco Trade, 129 North Front street.

It is the banner carried by the "Tobacco Trade of Philadelphia" in the great procession on the centennial anniversary of Washington in 1881, and which has been preserved with jealous care for thirty-seven years, by the venerable Francis Cooper, the oldest tobacconist now living in Philadelphia.

The banner measures five feat wide and is of the A RELIO OF THE TOBACCO TRADE.—We were Philadelphia.

The banner measures five feet wide, and is of the same length, and is made of heavy slik, doubled, the front being white, and the back trimmed with heavy slik, fringed, cords and blue tassels. A fine oil painting, executed by Williams (a celebrated banner painter of the day), graces each side of the banner. On the face appears two full length figures—one of the "Father of his Country," the other of an Indian Chief. The latter is in the act of offering the smoking calumet of peace to Washington, who holds in his hands a tobacco leaf. Over their heads appears the legend, "Flourish the plant!" The reverse bears a fine full length figure of an Indian, surreundd by tobacco plants, pipes, cigars, boxes, snuff kegs legend, "Flourish the plant!" The reverse chars a fine full length figure of an Indian, surroundd by tobacco plants, pipes, cigars, boxes, snuff kegs bladders and jare, and a row of pig-tail.

Mr. Cooper, the owner of the above, has been engaged in the tobacco business in this city for seventy-three years, dating from the time when he, a boy of nine years, entered the establishment of William Hamilton, on Second street, below Market, in the year 1796. He is still actively engaged in business with Mr. Geo. Walker at the corner of Eleventh and Melon streets, and looks to be good for a score of years yet. On the memorable occasion that called forth the banner we have described, Mr. C. was the grand marshal for the day, and he describes, with all the freshness of the events of yesterday, the incidents of that celebration. He relates how the one hundred apprentices paraded in their clean white aprons—how old Wm. Long spun tobacco on a truck and dispensed "pig-tail" to the crowds upon the sidewalks, &c.

At the recent opening of the rooms of the Tobacco Trade, old Mr. Cooper was debarred from attending by reason of a domestic affliction. If he had been present a most intensely interesting address would have been given by him. It is hoped that while he retains his freshness of memory he will commit to paper his early recollections, which will be not only interesting and velocity to the Tobacco Trade, but to the whole valuable to the Tobacco Trade, but to the whole

ALL CREATION is putting on its new spring clothes. The caroling robin in the apple tree makes merry music as he warbles forth the story of his new cost of feathers. emerald grass, and wave their melodies in the cooling breezo—
And—and—several things more might be remarked in this line, but we continue in the clothes line, by remarking that the customers of Rockhill & Wilson, of the Great Brown Stone Hall, as they adorn themselves in the elegant garments of unsurpassed style, made at low prices, of the most elegant fabrics, completely take the shine off of all the feathered creation, as well as the other inhabitants of field, air, or water.

The unexampled facilities for the production of the finest class of masculine raiment, by Rockhill & Wilson, have put them far beyond competition; at wison, have put them for beyond competition; and their long experience, ample capital, admirable arrangements for carrying out the details of their vast business, are enough to assure the public of what they have long been persuaded, namely: that, 603 AND 605 CRESTNUT STREET is the place where all gentlemen can best buy their spring supplies of fine clothes for 1869.

This circus has had extraordinary popularity in New York, and we doubt not it will have great success here. success here.
