EVENING BULLETIN. THE UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA. at the course pursued by Select Council vesterlay, in reference to the University of Pennsylia. Common Council showed such a prompt appreciation of the great public importa real University, that it is rather mortifying to find the measure opposed in what is usually egarded as the superior branch of the city government. Instead of a cordial and generus co-operation with the public-spirited citizens who are laboring so earnestly and disinerestedly both for the cause of education and the credit of Philadelphia, the measure is opposed, cavilled at, and finally postponed for this great educational enterprise. Mr. Hodgdon took the extraordinary ground that the action of Common Council had been obtained by improper means, and declared that it was a nost demoralizing thing for members of Councils to ascertain the merits of a great public question before they came to vote for He insinuated that an importunate outside influence had been brought to bear upon Common Council, which was greatly to be deplored. This is a very extraordinary man representing a section of the city in which

BUSINESS NOTICES. negro in the island will be returned to bondage. The blacks know this well; and, naturally, they yield-their allegiance to those who give them liberty and the rights of manhood. It was blind folly for the Spaniards to expect these men to fight for their own enthrallment. Even the dullest negro can perceive the absurdity of shedding his blood that the manacles may be forced again upon the hands of his rethren. His instinct would teach him wisdom at such a time, if his reason did not. This wholesale desertion is the first of its kind, but we may be assured that it will not be the last. Whenever opportunity offers other negroes will follow the example set them, and go over to their friends. Any 20.—Gold was again greatly excited to-day, a price ranged between the extremes of 142% and 143. on the dial in the window of the Gold Room. The general temper of the market, was bearish, just os it always is when the cliques have unloaded to the "outside public" and are anxious to buy back at lower prices. When gold was at 132 the aforesaid "outside public" could not be induced to touch a dollar of the metal. Now that it has gone up ten or twelve per cent, they rush in to buy, true to that instinct of human nature which prefers dear to the ap goods. The great gold clique, who, number several prominent banking firms and a combination of NASSAU, N. P., May 10, 1869.—The stdewheel steamer Salvador, formerly the blockade runner Gem, arrived here on the 7th from Key West, bound for St. Thomas and a market. She has been for some time at Key West, getting overhauled, and I may say, has been made anew. She is well known in Havana, but the standard of the standard of the standard of the standard of the says Mr. Boutwell was very decided in his intention not "to change his present policy for some time to come, at least, if at all. At noon to-day there was upwards of more so around this place. At the time of the American war, she run the blockade several times between this port and Charleston. She is narrow and long, and any one can see what she is made for. The Salvador was duly cleared at Key West for St. Thomas, and has stopped here to take in cargo. She carries forty-three passengers, most of whom are Cubans. Among them is a Mexican Colonel by the name of Medina. The Cubans seem to be well satisfied with the captain of the steamer, and he is the proper man to carry the steamer, and he is the proper man to carry passengers anywhere. Captain James Carlin is well known here, and confidence can be sp during the American war. All on board are well and in good spirits.

There has been a little trouble in not allowing this steamer to take in cargo, therefore she has not been able to leave this evening. The Custom House here, instead of facilitating the yesterday.

The money market was made more active in the forenoon to enable the "shorts" to get possession of some of the leading stocks. The general rate was seven per
