EVENING BULLETIN.

The celebration of the 119th anniversary the great College which his sagacious liberality founded, attracted a large body of the substantial men and women of Philadelphia, yesterday, many of whom had probably never been, before, within the enclosure of Girard College. The assemblage was of a character i to impress the observer with the conviction that there is a wide-spreading interest in the prosperity of this great institution of popular to a proper pride in it, not only because it is, as the most magnificent architectural pile upon this Continent, the chief ornament of the of Music, on Wednesday evening, on this last city, but for the higher reason that the great occasion of the appearance in public of Mrs. design of its founder is beginning to bear its | Kemble. timate fruit in sending out into this community a large class of young men trained in stead at Gettysburg, which we publish in the precepts of a pure religion, of a broad patriotism, and of a substantial, practical ystem of general education. of Philadelphia. The Alumni of Girard College already numbers over seven hundred young men, scattered through this community and over the whole country, engaged in all the honest pursuits of life. Five hundred boys are annually contributing from their number to this already large organization, and the graduates of Girard On TUESDAY, May 25th, at 10 o'clock, on four moinths' credit, 1,500 cases Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Straw Goods, &c.

College are thus rapidly adding a most important, and thoroughly American element to society. The fact that thirty-six graduates of Girard College died in the service of their country, during the Rebellion, is sufficiently significant of the character of the influence which the College is exerting upon its pupils. power which Girard College is destined to exerrise upon society. It is, as yet, a very young giant, having only passed its twenty-first year. and it is just beginning to develop the real capacities of its mature manhood. It has accomplished much, but it needs much improvement and advance before it can be regarded as, in all respects, fulfilling the requirements of its Founder, or of the present age and state of

I have regarded the obstacles to reunion with a sensible, manly determination to remove them, and such fraternal spirit is displayed upon both sides, that we may regard success as certain. We are sorry that we cannot record the exstence of the same good feeling between the orthern and Southern divisions of the Methodist Church. The former has extended the right hand of fellowship to the latter, and appealed to the Southerners to bury past differences, and begin again, with their Northern brethren, the work of evangelization. The Southerners have refused the offer with soft but very bitter words. Slavery was the cause of the separation, and now that that issue has been forever sunk, the Northern Methodists justly think that there might be a return to amicable relations. But the Methodist Church South has not yet freed itself entirely from the influences of the dead institution, and it still cherishes a very unchristian animosity to those who are its enemies. It is likely that the day is not distant, however, when the spirit of bitterness and hate will die out, and there will be a fusion of the two divisions. That the EDWARD P. KELLY matter is earnestly discussed, is a good sign, for it shows that a large portion of the church is eager to act justly and in accordance with true Christian principles. We hail the movements in both the Presbyterian and Methodist hurches as an indication that religious people are beginning to perceive the absolute necessity for united effort in behalf of their Master's cause. Not until the Church Militant stops quarreling with itself, will it begin to achieve completely its destiny as the Church Triumphant. While it is engaged in petty internal quarrels, there is a orld lying in wickedness around it, badly SPRING HAS ACTUALLY COME needing all the energy of the church to keep it even decently moral in appearance. The sooner Christians put an end to their dissensions and urn their united batteries against the world, the esh and the devil, the more rapid will be our approach to the millenium. ----Few men enjoy a wider or better-deserved opularity than Pennsylvania's war Governor, ndrew G. easier, and less active than during the last few days, and there are more loans at 6 per cent, in commercial paper. Prime names passed at 7 to 8 per cent. There is considerable distrust among buyers, owing to the recent fallures on account of short sales of gold. Such paper is submitted to the closest scrutiny.

Gold is strong and advanced from 140 to 141. The special consideration affecting the premium is the fact that the imports to this port are double what they were this season last year, in consequence of which the tone of the market is strong, notwithstanding Secretary. Boutwell's order for the sale of an additional million. Cash gold is abundant at 6a8 per cent. for carrying.
