Equally beautiful is the dense growth of Camp covering large tracts of the rock, its delicate shippis waving to and fro with each movement of the water, like trees in a storm-or a colony of Obelia on the waving frond of the tangle. looking almost etherial in its grace, transparency and delicacy, as seen against the coarse, dark surface that supports it. But, besides this remarkable beauty, there is a charm in the life history of these beings! There must always be a certain fascination in a history which tells us of animals composed of multitudes of individuals, living an associated life, and so combining as to foduce the most graceful plantlike structur —vegetating like a tree—putting forth thousands of polypites, like leaves, each a provider for the commonwealth-putting forth also a company of buds, charged with the perpetuation of the species, ripening in transparent urns and scattering their winged seeds broadcast, or sent forth, moulded and painted by the highest art, like fairy emigrant ships freighted with young life, to colonize distant seas.
