The Irish Church Bill. LONDON, June 19 Lord Westbury conthe papers offer feeling tributes to the memory of a man who was an honor to the profession of couralism.

On Thursday afternoon Mr. Raymond, accompanied by one of his daughters, visited Greenwood Cemetery, where he designed purchasing a lot for the interment of a member of the introduction of the bill at the property and refused to appropriate any portion of the endowment to education, taking a way the peculiar property of the poor to relieve the hunders of the rich. It was not only cruel, but profane.

Lord Hatherly warmly supported the bill. He said whateyer, shortcomings Mr. Bright or Mr. Gladstone might have, want of clearness was not one of them, and last year they both fully infolded the policy to be pursued. He regretted the longdelay in the performance of this act of justice, and asserted the right of the State to interfere with and regulate the property intended for religious and charitable purposes, when its disposition was opposed to the public good, and it could be better and for Queen Elizabeth clearly intended the Church to be that of the manner in which the policy of those acts had been carried out; but tinued his remarks. Admitting the allegation that the Irish Church was a badge of conquest,

Church to be that of the nation, and drew a fearful picture of the manner in which the policy of those acts had been carried out; but that policy had entirely failed, though seconded by the bishops and clergy. The attempt to force this Church on the people was the root of all the evils of Ireland. He exonerated the clergy of the present day from complicity in these acts, but the odium attached to it had descended to them. The present measure was scended to them. The present measure was the only one to establish a new epoch of religion in Treland. Instead of ruining, it would give the Church, for the first time, a fair field and a chance of concillating the people. He half to the Chief, and the President arose and howed in return to the compliment and the president entered one of the proscenium boxes, accompanied by Mrs. Grant, Jessic, Mr. Jay Gould, Mr. James Fisk and Mr. Corbin, the audience interrupted the performance by their enthusiastic applause. Between the acts the orchestra played that to the Chief, and the President arose and howed in return to the compliment. and a chance of concillating the people. He strongly defended the justice, necessity and sound policy of the bill. He agreed with the city by an early train, yesterday morning, for execution of the penal laws, he said the Church ought not now to be blamed for failing to be efore her age a hundred and fifty years ago. The union of Church and State was the only security for religious freedom and independence of thought. It could not be severed without shaking Protestantism in this country

Thirty-six additional discoveries of rich silver deposits are reported at White Pine, causing considerable excitement in that region.

The shipments of bullion from thence have latterly averaged $70,000 to $80,000 per week. Mining facilities will soon be doubled, and half a million be shipped for July from various parts of California.

Intelligence has been received of the rapid progress of rust in the wheat and barley crops, the damages being considerable in the coast counties, where heavy falls prevailed the past few weeks, although the accounts indicate that the content of the street make the following quotations of the rates of exchange to-day at 1 P. NEW YORK, "June' 10.—The stringency, in money is unabated and the business this morning was all at high rates, a somewhat remarkable feature for a Saturday, in the month of June. There is scarcely an exceptional transaction on the street action on the street, even as low as gold inand President Grant and Secretary Fish, the action on the street, even as; low as gold in-terest, which rate for the past years has been considered very high for the summer months, especially on Saturday, when money is usually loaned at a lower price than on any other day; primary cause being a disregard of the former's views in the instructions given to Mr. Motley. Nothing could possibly be farther from the Nothing could possibly be farther from the truth than this. Mr. Sumner, as Chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, was consulted constantly during the preparation of these instructions, and when they were completed he not only expressed entire approval of the course, Mr. Motley was instructed to pursue, but signified that the policy thus marked out was as firm and vigorous as our foreign relations would now justify. In fact, at no time has Mr. Sumner been in closer fact, at no time has Mr. Summer been in closer accord or in more direct sympathy with the policy of President Grant than at present, and the rumors of an existing hostility, or even opposition, are entirely unfounded. In no essential particular did Mr. Motley's instructions differ with the views enunciated by Mr. Summer in his speech, except as to the question of the amount of damage for which Great Britain should be held responsible; but President is firmer on the fall in gold. The borrowing of gold by the stock operators against collaterals, and selling the same to get currency, still continues. Loans are made from 7 per cent. to 5-6 per cent. for carrying. The continued pressure in money is extending a depressing influence upon the entire business of the city. The rates for money on call thus far in the day have been 1-16 per cent.
