pardon, but in the meantime he was taken very ill from an attack of consumption of the lungs, and died in his prison cell. A short time before his death he made a full confession of his guilt. He had robbed his employers of his guilt. He had robbed his employers from time to time, and when it was evident that his crime would be established, he fired the counting-house, and the evidence of his guilt was thus destroyed forever, as he thought. He was mistaken. Duplicate copies of the principal accounts had been taken, and by them and corroborating circumstances, justice was finally vindicated. Thus ended the career of a dishonest clerk, a betrayer of confidence.

MURDEROUS ASSAULT, &c.—Last night, about 10 o'clock, a disturbance occurred on St. John street, near Willow. The officer was interfered with, and Mead was rescued from his custody. Charles Urick was then arrested, upon the charge of receiping the prisoner, and was also of rescuing the prisoner, and was also charged with assaulting Policeman Connell. Mead, in the meantime, had run into the America Engine house, on Buttonwood street, below Third street. Harrer went there after him, and was immediately attacked by a him, and was immediately attacked by a crowd. He seized Mead, and was then beaten upon the head with a fire-horn. After a desperate fight, in which Mead received several severe blows from the policeman's rattle, Harrer succeeded in getting his prisoner to the station-house. RECKLESSNESS.—A reckless fire company, in turning the corner of Fourth and Chestnut streets, during an alarm of fire an evening or two since, ran the hose carriage across the sidewalk. The hub of the wheel and the cylinder grazed the main frame-work of a large double or corner bulk, beautified with large double or corner bulk, beautified with costly plate-glass. Fortunately, however, the latter escaped demolition, but this was more from good luck than good management. There was no obstruction in the street to turn the company from the usual course pursued by well-regulated fire companies, that of keeping between the curbstones. The City Councils have taken this matter into consideration and propose a law suspending the companies, that propose a law suspending fire companies, that run their apparatus over the sidewalks.

SHIPPING MUST GO DOWN STREAM.—This is an old nautical maxim, and its fulfillment is practically illustrated near Greenwich Point, where as many as twenty-eight large-size vessels have been moored at one time, awatt-ing their cargoes of petroleum or coal. #### THE QUAKER-INDIAN MISSION.

Thomas Lightfoot's Agency at Nemaha, Nebraska.

The Wilmington Commercial has the following interesting information of the Indian Agent, Thomas Lightfoot, who is well known in this community:

From some private letters written by Thos.
Lightfoot, of Upper Dublin, Pa., now located as Indian Agent on the Great Nemaha reservation, we gleam some interesting facts concerning that portion of the work undertaken by the Quakers among the Indians. The Nemaha reservation is located in the extreme southeastern corner of Nebraska, on and along the State line of Kansas, the Missouri river forming the eastern boundary. It is some fifteen miles long from east to west, and five or n this community teen miles long from east to west, and five or six wide, containing 32,000 acres of very fertile prairie land. The surface is quite rolling, with occasional patches of heavy timber and thick underbush in the hollows and ravines. The reservation is occupied by two tribes the Towas and Sacs-and-Foxes. They show the Towas and Sacs-and-Foxes. They show very little disposition thus far, to pursue the arts of civilized life, and out of their immense tract, so well adapted to agriculture, and requiring so little labor to produce excellent returns, only some 200 or 300 acres have ever been broken by the plough. The men spend most of their time in entire idleness, or in roaming over the reservation. A very comfortable frame dwelling containing eight rooms, plastered, painted and partly papered, with barn and other outbuildings, and lifteen acres of land, is furnished by the Government for the Agent's residence. The water is good, and pasture and wood plenty.

The arrival of the new agent seemed to have been anticipated generally by the Indians, and they were prompt in calling on him and advising him that they desired to hold a council with him, as they had business. He accordingly appointed. Monday, the 10th instant, for the purpose, and about forty of the chiefs and braves, in full feather and fearfully mainted bersined and accounted were in atpainted, be-ringed and accoutred were in atendance. Friend Lightfoot finds his duties and responsibilities very numerous, and of a varied character, but not particularly difficult so far as the mere routine of business is concerned The complaints which are made to him are mostly of a trivial character, such as the loss of stock, infringement upon the limits of the reservation by neighboring settlers, etc. The work of civilizing and Christianizing, however, opens a very extensive field of effort, involving no little embarrassment and perplexity as to the best means. The degree of excilization now shown is very limited indeed plexity as to the best means. The degree of civilization now shown is very limited indeed, and "the appearance of the women," it is stated, "is very discouraging." Friend Lightfoot has his family with him, and his wife proposes to open a Sabbath School for the women and children, the first effort toward which was to be made on Sunday last.

The tribes on this reservation are neareful.

The tribes on this reservation are peaceful, and no fears are expressed, in the letters re-ceived, of their showing any disposition to engage in the warlike demonstrations said to have been made in Western Kansas. The post office address of the reservation is Nohart,

—A home missionary was asked the cause of his poverty. "Principally," said the, with a twinkle of the eye, "because I have preached so much without notes."

THE CANADA DOMINION.

Question of Independence. The Pays, one of the leading organs of French opinion in Canada, has an article from which we extract the following passages.

Colonial politics present a sad and lamentable spectacle to-day. Afronts come to us from the other side of the Atlantic, and no one raises his head. Accustomed a long time to oppression, we have now become accustomed even to insult. Every word from the mouth of a British statesman is one of conmouth of a British statesman is one of contempt for us. It is true that the pill is sometimes gilded, but notalways, for during the last two years they signify nothing more than "Colonists, you are made to obey; consider it decided." Finally they tell us definitely that England will do nothing more for "our defence," and that we must stand the expense. But, against whom do we defend, now that England would leave us to ourselves? Should there be suddenly war between England and the United States, would it be ourselves that we would defend? No; it would be simply British supremacy in North America. How long shall we trifle with words? And is it when we are perhaps in the position of havwhen we are perhaps in the position of having to fight for British domination in Ame when we are pernaps in the postatorical wing to fight for British domination in America that England will say to us that she cannot protect us? "Be killed if you like, for me," she says; "but be certain I cannot aid you." But if England herself renounce her authority, are we, after swallowing her insults, to get killed to perpetuate authority which she cannot uphold?

The article continues to say that there can be no possible fear of a conflict with the United States, except on account of England, and to deny that they are self-governing colonies, and concludes: "Let us hope, therefore, that all honor, power and prosperity are on our side, and insult, ruin and nullity on the other; that the blindness we are in will cease, and that we will obey the great voice which calls to us from all directions. Awake the people! Shake off the colonial attire, and take a place among the sovereign and independent nations!"

GENTS—A persistent but unsuccessful effort was made on the night of May 29, 1869, to drill the Bankers' Chest received from you a few months ago. From facts that have come to our knowledge, it is evident that the attempt to open it was renewed on Sunday evening following. Finding all efforts to drill it use-less, the effort was then made to break the lock. The hammering was heard by parties in the neighborhood for several hours, but supposing it to arise from the railroad men replacing a defective rail, excited no alarm The tools, with the exception of the drills, were left.
