Almost up to the hour of Clauses 30, 31 and 32 were agreed to and their dexterity. Almost up to the hour of midnight the Boulevards were througed with carriages, mostly containing ladies, and American ladies especially, waiting to see the "fun." Now, this is not language I should permit myself to use had there been any loss of human life, even through accident, or had any serious disaster occurred in consequence lords.

The government proposed to act fairly, but of these rows. But when all has passed off with nothing worse to report than the punishment of a few window-panes and the overment of a few window-panes and the overturning of a few not very solid kiosks, one may be permitted to treat as something like a joke the tremendous accounts of the "serried ranks of the agitators," and the "imposing advance of the troops," which have been narrated by some correspondents, while somehow or other all the time neither party ever once managed to come into conflict or even contact with each other. Not for the managed to come into the managed to come into conflict or even contact with each other. Not for ward and avowed the clauses which distinctly represented their principles, they would have commended themselves more to all classes in the country. The House divided on the Marquis of Limerick's amendant the ment, and it was adopted by a vote of 91 to 64. Clause 33, as amended, and clauses 34, 35, 36, 37 and 38, were agreed to.

"B. F. WADE, "JAMES BROOKS." THE Fourth of July was celebrated in the principal cities of Europe. At Vienna a ban-quet was given, at which Mr. Hay presided, and, on toasting the health of the Emperor of Austria, called to mind the despatch sent by Secretary Seward to Mr. Motley, in 1862, in Secretary Seward to Mr. Motley, in 1862, in which a tribute was paid to the dignity, moderation and justice which had marked the policy of Austria at the beginning of the rebellion in America, and, added Mr. Hay, these qualities continued to characterize the conduct of the Austrian government throughout the war. Minister Jay gave a toast to the health of Baron Von Beust. At Stuttgart, two hundred Americans and their friends had a dinner, at which Mr. Herman presided, and toasts were drank to the independence of America, President Grant, Congress, the Army and Navy of the United States, and to the King of Wirtemburg. At night a ball was given, at which one thousand people were present. Banquets were given on July 4, in Paris and Berlin. At the latter place, the
