A Correspondent Corrected.

To the Editors of the Evening Bulletin : In your paper of Friday you publish an interesting letter from your correspondent at Dushore, Sullivan county, Pa. Will you allow me to follow it with a few items which may, perhaps, be of interest in regard to the early history of the localities referred to?

Your correspondent speaks of the Valley of the Busquelianna, and calls it the Valley of the Lehigh. This is an error for which, with all due regard, I cannot find any excuse. The Lehigh river is rich in associations and abounds in legends enough to repay the most ardent admirer, and it need not entrench upon or seek to claim for itself one particle of the history which belongs exclusively to its neighbor, the Susquehanna. The Lehigh rises in Monroe county, Pa., and, running in a southeast direction, empties into the Delaware river at Easton. The Susquehanna rises in Otsego county, New York, and, by a succession of graceful curves, it winds through Southern New York and Eastern Pennsylvanian and the start directions.

Southern New York and Eastern Pennsylvania, and, running in a southeastern direction, enters Chesapeake Bay.

It has a valley singularly beautiful, and full of Indian associations, as the names of its tributaries will attest. The Chenango, Chemung, Towanda, Wysaucking, Wappesening, Wyalusing, Tunkhannock and Lackawanua are the most important of these, and all are derived from Indian authority. And the river itself passesses an Indian name—Soskionos. itself possesses an Indian name—Soskionos, "the long, crooked river," and your correspondent-does great injustice to one of the most beautiful valleys in Pennsylvania, when he sinks its distinctive name in that of a smaller beautiful river, whose valley is sepa rated from it by the well-known Pocono mountain, and whose waters do not blend together nor approach by at least forty miles.

The French settlement at "Assylum" was founded in the latter years of the last century About 1790 a gentleman by the name of Thalon was compelled to leave France to save his life was compelled to leave I raine to save his his. He was a man of fortune and family, who was attached to the monarchy, and a price was set on his head. He went into Spain and reached Cadiz, and engaged passage in an English vessel for Great Britain. While waiting for vessel for Great Britain. While waiting for the vessel to sail, he met with a young man—a native of France, by the name of Laporte— who engaged himself to him as his servant, and agreed to go with him to England and thence to America. Before the vessel sailed M. Thalon was traced to Cadiz, and officers were on his track to secure him. He went on bored and was successfully concealed by young board and was successfully concealed by young Laporte, and the vessel sailed. On reaching England, he embarked for America, and landed at Philadelphia, where he was joined by one or two others similarly situated, and with their servants and families, making quite large party, they went to Columbia, on the a large party, they went to Columbia, on the Susquehanna river, and securing a Durham boat, transported themselves with their families and effects up the river, being several months performing the journey. They landed and established themselves, and named their settlement "Assylum." It is nine miles below Towanda, in Bradford county, on the west side of the river, in one of the most beautiful of all the beautiful bends or courses of that river.

The house which Mons. Thalon built was large one, of hewn logs, and was capable of holding the entire party with their families (it is only a few years since that the last of the old house disappeared), and into this they moved, and here he dispensed his hospitality and went about establishing his colony. He secured about three thousand acres of land, and laid out a town or city with great care. It contained a market house and square, and the streets crossed each other at right angles; and the care with which it was done is shown by med about three thousand acres of land, and the fact that after the clapse of over fifty years, and when the site of the city was covered with cultivated fields, it became necessary in running a line between two farms in the neighborhood to find a corner marked on the map of the proposed city when it was covered by forest trees. On going into the fields and setting the compass, the spot was found where it ought to be, and on digging down about a foot a square stone was found which had been placed there to make the site.

Which had been placed there to make the stee.

While these things were being done, the young man, Laporte, was promoted to the office of Steward by M. Thalon, his predecessor having lost it by his intemperate habits, and the colony continued to struggle with all the difficulties incident to such an adventure. About this time Napoleon became First Consul, and M. Thalon resolved to return to Stole this time Majoreon became First consul, and M. Thalon resolved to return to France with the surviving members of his party. He sold to Mr. Laporte a portion of his land, including the buildings and the site of the city, and Mr. Homet, another young man in the employ of the colony, purchased another portion, and that which was unsold was left in charge of one or the other of these two, and Thalon, with his friends, left for France. The property thus purchased by Mr. Laporte and Mr. Homet is now in the possession of their descendants of the third generation. A son and grandson of Mr. Laporte were well known in the political history of Pennsylvania from 1828 to 1856. It was during this period that the settlement of Admiral Du Petit Thouars, referred to by your correspondent, took place; ferred to by your correspondent, took place; but it was, as you see, a distinct affair, and in no way connected with "Frenchtown," as the locality is called to this day in the neighbor-hood. Duthour, and afterwards

"A softer name the Saxons gave," "A softer name the Saxons gave," called Dushore, was on the branch of the Loyalsock creek, in the township of Cherry and county of Lycoming, distant twelve miles from Wyalusing, and about sixteen from Assylum. In this neighborhood there are the descendants of some Frenchmen, who remained after the Admiral had left for France, as your correspondent so truthfully represents. Others followed; and standing with a resident of the neighborhood one morning, he pointed out to the late Bishop Potter, of Penn-sylvania, the smoke from the chimneys of two dwellings, and told the Bishop the owner of that one fought under Napoleon, and the owner of this one under Wellington, at Waterloo.

But I will not weary you with anything further now. I have been led to write this by the interesting letter of your correspondent, A. J. S., and from a desire to "preserve the B. S. B. truth of history."

THE SING SING CONSPIRACY.

The Insubordination of the Prisoners ---The Facts of the Recent Disturb-

Sing Sing is the most conspicuously pestilence spot in the State. The world is always in a tumult there. Just now a spirit of insub-ordination has manifested itself afresh among the convicts. The abolition of the shower-bath, the crucifix, and other corporeal and in-quisitorial outrages is one of the reasons asquisitorial outrages is one of the reasons assigned by the sapient authorities for the mutiny; but, however this may be, two gangs employed in quarrying limestone on Thursday threw aside their tools and refused to labor longer. The keepers urged them in vain, and the Warden, Henry C. Nelson, was accordingly informed of the circumstance. He was soon on the spot. He set son, was necotating informed of the streets stance. He was soon on the spot. He set down his flat that the prisoners must either work or be locked up. The mutineer convicts didn't care a fig, so. Mr. Nelson, aided by the prison officials; formed the lazy pariahs into line and marched; them to their dens, and there they were confined on bread and water there they were confined on bread and water as their only sustenance; yet they persistently held out on their uninviting fare. Subsequent investigation elicited the fact that the convicts did not relish the rations formerly supplied, and that unless they were better fed, they would starve rather than work. Thereupon Mr. Nelson said he would take them at their world and three hundred soon, came to terms word, and three hundred soon came to terms and went to work. The remaining four hundred mutineers were yesterday still obstinate, and amused themselves in cat-calling, hooting, kicking, and raising the incarnate Satan in their cells. Their howlings can be heard half mmile distant.

Mr. C. C. Childs, Jr., in undertaking to tell Mr. C. C. Childs, Jr., In undertaking to tell as something of the origin of the outbreak, says that the spring in the limestone quarry from which the 700 convicts have been accustomed to drink, is strongly impregnated with lime; and the prison physician, Dr. J. G. Collins, has declared that its use induces dysently ward; don't know what ticket he voted; he lived in the back building of No. 824 South ward; don't know what ticket he voted; he lived in the back building of No. 824 South whereupon the men demanded ice-water. The rules of the prison forbade this luxury, and thus the seeds of discontent were sown.

None of the more notorious State Prison characters were mixed up in the mutiny, the leaders being principally fellows who are incarcerated for assault with intent to kill. There are 1,230 prisoners in the establishment, and of these 300 have returned to their work, leaving 400 yet in close confinement.

During the trouble on Friday, Leonard Dupre, or Peter Mundy, effected his escape. He is supposed to have crawled through a cultvert, dived into the river, and to have reached the shore by swimming.

The people of Sing Sing are divided in opinion upon the cause of the outbreak—some asserting that bad beef, and others that outrageous mismanagement is the source of the trouble,—N. Y. Sun.

THE MAST HOPE DISASTER. The Engineer of the Freight Train in Jail.

PORT JERVIS, N.Y., Sunday, July 18, 1869.— James Griffin, the engineer who, it is averred, by his own carelessness sent eight or more souls into eternity by the horrible disaster at souls into eternity by the horrible disaster at Mast Hope, Penn., was arrested as announced in the city papers, at Salamanca. A detective at that place took him to Great Bend, Penn., where a warrant from the authorities was issued, and he was arrested and placed in charge of officers until the arrival of police from Port Jervis and constables from from Port Jervis and constables from Pike county, who put him on board the first train east, arriving in Port Jervis yesterday at noon. Upon the arrival of the train carriages were in waiting, and he was quietly conducted to one of them, and immediately started for Milford, the county seat of Pike county. A crowd had congregated at the deapt to get a dimese of the prisoner; but the depot to get a glimpse of the prisoner; but the railwhy officials managed the affair so quietly that he was on his way to jail ere his friends or the curious could catch aglimpse of him. At Milford he was given in charge of Sheriff Corneliuson, who placed him in jail. I understand an effort will be made to-morrow to secure his release on bail. The prisoner states that he was askeep at the time of the accident, and rulled release on bail. The prisoner states that he was asleep at the time of the accident, and pulled the throttle of his engine while in a dreamy and half unconscious state. He says he is extremely sorry, but that he ought not to be punished severely. He confesses that he was to blame in allowing himself to go to sleep, but thinks his fireman was asleep also, and says that he depended on his fireman. He adds that he means to tell the whole truth, and that no man ever worked harder for promotion and the interest of the road than he. He states that after the accident he went to Lackaand the interest of the road than he. He states that after the accident he went to Lackawaxen, by the advice of his friends, and then to his home The Susquehanna. Having a sister living near-Salamanca, his wife and friends advised and urged him to stay with his sister until the affair had blown over and he could return in safety. He did not mean to run away. away. The prisoner is small in statue, and seems reconciled to his arrest, but seems somewhat fearful that he will be rigorously dealt with The bodies of the victims of the disaster who have not been identified, were placed in who have not been identified, were placed in neat coffins, and yesterday morning were in-terred in Laurel Grove Cemetery, in one grave, side by side. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Messrs. Mansfield, Botsford and Van Cleve. A large concourse of citizens followed the funeral cortige to the cemetery. This afternoon the funeral of David Baer, the German who was killed and burned took place from the German Lutheran Church His remains were interred in the cemetery.

THE FRENCH CABLE.

Final Operations of the Fleet. Sydney, Cape Breton, July 18, 1869.—The French cable fleet engaged in the service of completing the laying of the ocean telegraph line from Brest to St. Pierre, Miquelon, experienced a heavy gale of wind, accompanied by thunder and lightning, on Friday evening.

The William Corry, which had finished the laying of her portion of the wire, found it too stormy to attempt the work of transferring the stormy to attempt the work of transferring the end remaining on board/to the Skandarci ship freighted with the next portion. The men therefore buoyed it at sea, after which the en-tire squadron made for and put into Mira Bay, Cape Breton. This movement was absolutely necessary for the purpose of repairing a slight damage which had occurred to the "paying camage which had occurred to the "paying out" machinery fitted on board the Chiltern, which was occasioned by a partial collision letween that vessel and another during Friday night.
Sir James Anderson, accompanied by a rriend, landed and came into Sydney overland, intending to proceed next morning, by way of Bras d'Or Lake, to Halifax and Boston.

CITY BULLETIN.

The Contested Election.—Messrs. W. P. Messick and R. M. Batturs, Examiners, held their 71st session this morning.

James R. N. Miller, testified—Reside 619 South Tenth street (Eighth division, Fourth Ward); James Major lived in my house in October [attacked as an unassessed voter].

John F. V. Pole, testified—At the time of the election lived at S. W. corner. of Tenth, and election lived at S. W. corner of Tenth and Wharton streets (Twenty-sixth Ward); moved there seven days before the election; my son James moved there with me; I voted the Re-publican ticket in the Fourth division, Third Ward; my son also voted there.

Joseph Chambers, testified—Voted the Republican ticket in First division, Twenty-seventh Ward; am about 47 years old; was born in Ireland; came here 15 years ago; never declared my intentions to become a citizen; was told that my papers were fraudulent, and hurned them. burned them.

Arthur Mullen, 1427 America street, testified that he voted the Democratic ticket in the Sixth Division, Seventeenth Ward. [On list

Sixth Division, Seventeenth Ward. [On list of voters during the first hour.]
John Downey testified—Was Democratic Window Inspector of the Sixth Division, Twenty-sixth Ward; twelve Supreme Court papers were rejected and eleven votes were thereby lost; the window-book was kept by the Judge; the other officers had an opportunity of getting it when they wanted it.

Michael Marcus testified—Was judge of election in Sixth Division, Fourth Ward; no challenges were disregarded that day by the officers; in all instances of challenges the voters were qualified except those I knew to be legal voters.

Cross-examined—I was not sworn by the inspector as a voucher during the day.

Air. G. Russell, clerk in the Common Pleas

ROBBERRY.—On Saturday night the museum building, on the grounds of Mrs. Geo. W. Car-penter, Mt. Airy, Twenty-second Ward, was entered and robbed of a number of curiosities. A young man was discovered on the grounds, under suspicious circumstances, and being arrested, he was discovered to be the burglar. All the articles were recovered except a few precious stones, valued at two hundred dollars. The accused gave his name as Francis Marr, and was held for a hearing.

A HANDSOME PRESENT.—The Eleventh District Police Station House has a very neat garden in front, and Lieut. Pritchard and his men have taken pride in embellishing the grounds with choice flowers contributed by different citizens. George Sink, manufacturer of terra cotte ware has just presented a large of terra cotta ware, has just presented a large dog and four handsome flower vases, four feet in height. The gift will add much to the beauty of the garden.

Low WATER.—The warm weather of the Low WATER.—The warm weather of the past week and the absence of rain has caused the water in the Schuylkill to become very low. During yesterday the dam at Fairmount was perfectly dry and persons were walking across the river upon it. The showers of today will, no doubt, increase the volume of vertex in the viver. water in the river.

JUVENILE INCENDIARY, A boy named Geo. Culbertson has been arrested by Lieut Pritchard, upon the charge of having set fire to a stable on Second street, above York, on Friday afternoon last. It is alleged that he had stated that he had matches and threw some of them into the stable. The accused was held in $1,500 bail by Alderman Heins.

Moore, twenty-three years of age, residing in Carbon county, Pa., had his arm broken while working in a coal mine at Honeybrook, Carbon county, Pa. He was conveyed to the Penncounty, Pa. He was conveyed to the Pennsylvania Hospital. Suspicious.-John Richie and John Connelly were arrested yesterday as they emerged from an alley at No. 2437 Callowhill street In the alley two empty values were found. The prisoners were committed as suspicious LARCENY OF IRON.—Bernard McDonald was arrested and taken before Alderman Heins upon the charge of the larceny of iron from Frankford road and the Reading Railroad He was committed. ROBBERY.—The store of Isaac Kurl, No. 2119 Vine street, was entered at an early hour yesterday morning, and robbed of a black alpaca coat and 77 cents in pennies.

FATE OF A BRIGAND .- We learn by letters from Lemberg the arrest and condemnation of a brigand leader. Since the year 1865 the province of Galicia had been infested by a danger ous band which, when closely pursued, always found means to escape across the Russian from tier, and defied all attempts of the ablest detec-tives to seize or identify them. About eighty persons have been at different times arrested on suspicion of belonging to the band, but as sufficient evidence against them could not be procured, the authorities saw themselves obliged to restore them to liberty. At length certain suspicious circumstances, such as frequent and unaccountable absence from home, followed by a lavish expenditure of money on his return, coupled with the fact that precisely at the same time audacious robberies had been committed, pointed to a shoemaker called Joseph Neczypurowicz, as a person well worthy the attention of justice. He was arrested on suspicion with his accomplice and concubine Szyperzenska, was proved by numerous witnesses to have committed, at least, seven robberies, in certain suspicious circumstances, such as frehave committed, at least, seven robberies, it almost all of which he and his band had carried away immense sums of money—on one occasion no less than 41,000 florins. Notwithstanding all the eloquence of the counsel for the de fence he was condemned to twenty years' penal scryitude, and Szyperzenska to three years' servitude, and Szyperzenska to three years' imprisonment with hard labor.—Berlin Corres-

A MURDBRER ARRESTED.—We last evening received information that-Brooks, the man who murdered Broadhead, in New Jersey, some six months since, and who was soon after arrested and then escaped from jail, and who has since been at large, with officers on his track and a large reward offered for his apprehension, was captured on Thursday after-noon, in the woods on the opposite side of the river from Callicoon Depot. When discov-ered, he was-destitute of hat, without boots or shoes, and nearly naked. He made every shoes, and hearly naked. He made every effort to escape, and, upon being overtaken, resisted his captors until he was exhausted and overpowered. He was then conveyed to Callicoon, where he was confined awaiting the arrival of parties from Port Jervis to fully identify him. His appearance indicated that he had been in the woods for a time and although he is much changed, still time, and although he is much changed, still persons who have seen Brooks declare that the prisoner is no other than Brooks, the murderer. Brooks has been frequently seen within the past few weeks in that vicinity, and it has been repeatedly reported that he would soon be captured without doubt, but until as above stated, he had successfully eluded his pursuers.—Elmira Advertiser, 17th.

Austria.—The Berlin Börsenzeitung depicts the present condition of the German element in the Austro-Hungarian monarchy in some-what lugubrious colors. "The history of Aus-tria," says that journal, "shows us that the German element is continually losing ground. The Teuton cannot take firm root in the Slavonic and Hungarian provinces, because he re-ceives no encouragement from the State. In Upper Hungary the German towns are rapidly losing their privileges; in Transylvania the Saxon colony is making no progress; the Tyrol is becoming every day more and more Italianized; the eneroachments of the Slav populations in Carinthia and Carniola are self-evident. Each provincial Diet is the theatre of an irritating struggle of rival nationalities, the object of which is not political liberty or equality of rights, but the supremacy of one race over another. This spectacle is constantly renewed throughout the monarchy; in Bohemia and Moravia no less than in Chikia? than in Čalicia."
