Mr. MATTHEW ARNOLD has never written anything more characteristic of both sides of his poetic genius,—this 'liucidity of soul," and the thirst which slakes itself in dwelling on the natural beauty of the universe,—though he has written things of greater power in themselves, than the following passage in that early poem called (or miscalled, we think) "Resignation." from winch the phrase so descriptive of, one characteristic of his own poetry is taken. FREE TRADE. British Sentiment Against It.

The Pall Mall Gazette contains the following suggestive article : "Those who think the Americans extremely short-sighted and foolish in clinging to the policy of protection will do well to notice that signs of dissatisfaction with the effects of free trade are becoming f more frequent here than they used to hore frequent here than they itself the be. A. popular reaction against free trade would be one of the most unlooked-for changes of public opinion, but changes per-haps still more surprising have been witnessed in our own time. The American prejudices in favor of protection, as applied to the regula-tion of their own trade, are by no means so easily eradicated as most people who have been born and bred, as it were, in who have been born and bred, as it were, in free trade principles are apt to imagine. At this moment Mr. Horace Greeley is intent upon proving to his countrymen the injury which free trade has done to the English working classes. Some of our workmen begin to take the same sort of view. On Wednes-day Mr. Ayrton and Mr. Samuda attended a public meeting at Limehouse to consider certain proposals with reference to emigra-tion. Mr. Wilkins, a working man, moved an amendment to one of the resolutions, re-ferring the poverty and distress which pre-vailed in the country to the importation of foreign manufactures duty free. At the Court House, in Baldwin connty, it is said, a negro Radical mob took possession of the polls, beat one white man badly, and pre-vented any Democratic negroes from voting, and were very riotous. The Sheriff could not control them. That precinct gives Buck 220 majority. " The joyn of Pollard, in Escambia county, LIFE. INSURANCE COMPA gives Mann 109 majority. Claiborne, Mon-roe county, at 4 P.
