Mr. S. P. Cummings, of Massachusetts, the next speaker, discussed the question of capital and labor. Labor is our capital, and we have as much right to have it protected as money has to protection. The working man has the right to fix the value of his labor. The lawyer and the physician fixes the amount of his fees, and you would deny to the working man the same privilege. In Massachusetts we are making the laborer the owner of his capital, and to-day	He could not thank them too much. Newspaper enterprise is thwarted by its rules and restrictions, which seek to prevent all competition in the business. No daily paper can obtain a profitable existence unless it supplies its readers with the news of the day from all parts of the world.
