DISTRESSING TRAGEDY AN INSANE MAN SHOOTS AND KILLS

HIS FATHER.

Mr. Thomas L. Evans, aged 63 years, resid-ing at the house of Mrs. Belcher, No. 306 South Tenth street, was shot and killed this morning by his son, Marshall Key Evans, aged 25 years. The decaased was well-known in the city as a real estate agent, his office be-ing of No. 431 Wahnut street. He boarded with Mrs. Belcher, and had with him his son Marshall and three daughters. His wife has been dead for several years. The son has been afflicted with inflammatory rhdu-matism for about twelve years, and for a great portion of that period he has been a oripple. He was formerly connected with a wholesale tobacco establishment, but since May last has been out of employment. His diseased condition, rendering him almost help-less, and his inability to get employment, have preved upon his mind, and recently he has "exhibited unmistakable evidences of insanity. He constantly imagined that there was a conspiracy to take his life, and several times told his father that there were men con-caled in his room waiting to kill him. He was married to an estimable young lady, aud athough there lins, never been the sightest difficulty between them, he has said that she was married to an estimable young lady, and although there has mover been the slightest difficulty between them, he has said that she had attempted to poison him. She has been spending the summer season withsome relatives at Riverside, N. J., making occasional visits to her husband; who re-mained in the city in the hope of getting em-ployment. On Saturday last he went to River-side. While there he called his wife up stairs, and then accused her of attempting to take his life. There was a large Sanatoga trunk in the room. He held her tightly with one hand; while in the other he had a knife. Pointing to the trunk, he said: "There is a man in there; if he comes out we both die, but you must die first." He then raised the knife as if to strike at her her herd, when she, instead of getting excited and perhaps irritating him further; quietly remarked, "If you are going to kill me, please cut here," pointing to her threat. The coolness displayed seemed to appease him, and beyond a slight scratch under the nose, which was made by a flourish of the knife, no harm was done. Upon entering the room, and previous to seeizing his wife, he piled the beds and other articles against the door, to prevent any person from entering. Young Evans returned to the city early yes-seizing in wife, he plied the beds and other articles against the door, to prevent any person from entering. Young Evans returned to the city early yes-terday morning. He went to his home and told one of his sisters that an attempt had been made to poison him, and that Kate (his wife) had done it; that his wife had given him all his food, and that the others had not partaken of any. His sister endeavored to conciliate him, but he started for his father's office; where he remained until about two o'clock, and then walked home with his father. On the way he remarked to the latter, "You are my best friend." When they got there they found Mrs. Evans. She had just arrived from Riverside. She had a consultation with Mr. Evans, Sr., in the parlor. During the interview Marshall entered, but immediately withdrew, remarking. "Oh! I thought that you were through." Mrs. Evans then left, and returned to Riverside. It had then been determined to place Marshalf in an insane asylum, and the necessary certificate of insanity was to have been obtained of Dr. Van Dyke, the family physician, this morning.

necessary certificate of inshity was to have been obtained of Dr. Van Dyke, the family physician, this morning.
During yesterday afternoon Marshall was observed with a peculiar kind of knife, very sharp, which had been about the house. After considerable persuasion, his father got the weapon away from him and hid it, Fatherand son retired to the same room, last evening. About midnight Marshall leaped out of bed, seized a pitcher, and exclaimed, excitedly, that men were there for the purjose of killing him. The father attempted to reason, with him. He looked wildly at the father, raised the pitcher in a threatening manner, and said: "Don't move or I will kill you." For some time Mr. Evans was kept in bed by this threat, and during the time one of his daughters entered the vroom, but was immediately driven out by her brother. The latter finally went down stairs, taking the pitcher with him. He remained about an hour, and then Mr. Evans were to look after him. He found him in the dining-room, having in his hand the knife which had been hid yesterday afternoon. Mr. Evans went for had been hid yesterday afternoon. Mr. Evans were to had been hid yesterday afternoon. Mr. Evans which had been hid yesterday afternoon. Mr. Evans became frightened at the appear-ance of his son, and after attempting to per-suade him to go to bed, without success, re-turned to his room and locked the door. Mar-shall went to the attic and remained there until about half-past seven o'clock this morn-tion while the family was at headfast. Ho until about half-past seven o'clock this morn-ing, while the family was at breakfast. He then entered the breakfast-room and was greeted with a pleasant! "good morning" by everybody. He made no reply, but merely stared wildly at each person seated at the table. He was asked to eat some-thing; but he refused. When the meal was finished Mr. Evans went upstairs to get his hat and change his coat. His intention was to go to the house of Dr. Van Dyke and get the certificate of his son's insanity. Marshali went to go to the house of Dr. Van Dyke and get the certificate of his son's insanity. Marshall went out into the hall and walked up and down, fre-quently glancing up stairs. The next heard by the inmates of the house was three shots fired in rapid succession. Marshall was in the centry near the front door, and his follows have the ground be outer to reach The centry near the front door, and his, father was staggering along the entry, towards the dining room. He clutched the door of the pantry. Mrs. Belcher, who was in the dining room at the time, caught Mr. Evans at he fell in the door of the dining room. Marshall walked back and looked at his father. Mrs. Belcher, soid to him fi Sae what you have Belcher said to him, "See what you have done," but he made up reply and only stared done," but he made no reply and only stared about vacantly. The shots and the screams of Mr. Evans's daughters attracted some of the neighbors and also a policeman. They entered the house, and Mr. Evans, who was still alwe, was removed into the front parlor. As the policeman took charge of Marshall, he wait : "Don't hurt my boy; he don't know what he is doing." Dr. Van Dyke, the family obscient was commoned. It was found that physician, was summoned. It was found that the ball had entered the abdomen of the un-fortunate man, and that there was no hope for him. Mr. Evans died at ten minutes past eight o'clock. The revolver with which the tragedy was committed was purchased about the third of the formation of the second second the second seco morning, it is supposed that he obtained the pistol at the same time. Marshall was taken to the Central Station,

THE WATER QUESTION.—Still no rain, and still a universal anxioty to know all a bout the water supply, its present condition an lits fu-ture prospects. We wish we could say there wis a universal cooperation on the part of the people with the authorities in the efforts to economize the scanty supplies of water which we are yet able to drain from the schuyl-kill.

economize the scanty supplies of water which we are yet able to drain from the Schuyl-kill.
 Fairmount is a dismal-looking place. The dam stretches across the river a stout wood in bulwark, as tight and as dry as a drum. For twelve or fifteen feet back of it, therank vege-tation floats on the surface of a few inches of water, while a broad meadow of mud stretches out into the channel in front of the boat-houses of the Schuylkill Navy. During the greater portion of yesterday three of the four old breast-wheels yet in service and the two turbines were at work puming into the Fairmount reservoirs, but were barely able to hold the supply at a depth of about four feet. The interior of the reservoirs is cracked and baked and dry, and look as if they would be drained out in a very few hours if, by any ao-cident, there should be any additional cessa-tion of the steady pumps that are doing their uthos to keep up our diminished supplies. Philadelphia, or that part of it which derives its water from the Fahrmount reservoirs, is and has been for days past wholly dependent upon the grace of the Schuylkill Navigation Company. That company has suspended all its own operations, and by a systematic and generous contribution from its accumulation of the steady pump that are draft to keep his wheels in motion. This accumulation company. That company has suspended all its own operations, and by a systematic and generous contribution from its accumulation of the store of the Navigation Company, howeyer, is rapidly giving out, and cannot be depended on for any considerable length of time.

Xesterday, afternoon the steam fire engine project was tried.", The Hope Engine arrived on the ground soon after five o'clock, and was on the ground soon after five o'clock, afd was stationed by Chief Downey at the end of one of the small piers above the dam, near the steamboat-landing, which was found to be the nearest point where sufficient depth of water could be obtained for suction. After consider-able delay the hose was laid up the northwest corner of the hill, and was found insufficient to reach above the base of the upper terrace. The Tivoli Hose was then sent for, and, after a great deal more delay, caused partly by the different sizes of the hose, and partly from the fact that nobody was in a hurry, the hose was finally carried to the basin. Previous to this, however, the engine was started, and a small quantity of water was forced within about thirty feet of the basin, soon bursting the hose about mid-way beforced within about thirty feet of the basin, soon bursting the hose about mid-way be-tween the engine and the basin. When the burst section was taken out and the full length had been left into the basin, which was 'ac-complished an a little over an hour from the time the operation began, the Hope again tried her powers, but with less success than at first. The hose again burst, and no water reached more than 'about half-way up the hill. At a late hour a third attempt, was 'inde reached more than about half-way up the hill. Ata late hour a third attempt, was made with other hose, and water was raised to the basin, it is said, at the rate of four hundred gallons a minute. To day the experiments are being continued with the Hope and Diligent engines.

The experiment demonstrated two things. It showed that the hose now in use by the Fire Department is insufficient for the pur-pose, but also that the first-class engines have pose, but also that the first-class engines have sufficient power to force, a slow stream into the reservoir, through iron pipes. It is hard to say how much they can be made to pump. Councilmen, engineers, and firemen were busily ciphering out this problem yesterday, and differed by millions of gallons per day. There might be some water, pumped into the peservoir from the Callowhill street side of Fairmount, through iron mes, or by relays of pare mgnt be some water, pumped into the reservoir from the Callowhill street side of Fairmount, through iron pipes, or by relays of engines, with intermediate tanks, but the re-sitef obtained in this way would be very small. The main reliance of our people, while awaiting the much prayed-for rain, must be upon their economy. Much has been saved in this way, but much more might be saved Many public-spirited manufacturers have been willing to suspend operations, and have been discouraged from doing so by the selfish re-fusal of their fellow-tradesnien to comply with the requests pf-the authorities. This mean-ness which will lead one manufacturer to take advantage of the public spirit of his rival in business deserves a wide publication. We have not room to-day to recite the wonderful projects that are daily presented to Chief Engineer Graeff to kelp him out of his difficulties. One only is too original to be omitted. It has been gravely proposed to Mr. Graeff to gain additional storage room hy turning out the inmates of the Eastern Peni-tentiary, and then filling it with water from the

IMPORTANT REVENUE DECISION .- The fol-Information Revenue Decision of the Internal Revenue Department will be of interest to im-porters of foreign mericandise: TREASURY DEPARTMENT, OFFICE OF IN-

TERNAL REVENUE, WASHINGTON, Angust 19, 1869.—Sir: I reply to your letter of the 14th inst. relative to the liability of importers of foreign relative to the hability of importers of foreign merchandise to the payment of the special tax as dealers, that the former ruling of the office upon the subject, viz.: in the cases of Messrs. E. D. Morgan & Co. and others, was reconsidered and reversed on the 1st of July, by a letter to Assessor W. Raymond Lee, 3d District, Boston, Massachusetts. In view of the circumstance that the assesses ment of this tay for the time intervening since ment of this tax for the time intervening since the decision of October 5th, 1868, exempting importers from this tax, and the date of that which it was reversed. might work hardby which it was reversed, might work hard-ships and inconveniences upon those who had sold their goods and made final settlement upon the basis of exemption from the tax, it was not intended to make the said decision of July 1st retrospective in its character and operation, but assessments for tax under the same should commence with July 1st, 1869, and continue from and after that date only, but that he passessment should be made for said but that no assessment should be made for said intervening time.

For the purpose of complying more fully with your suggestion, and securing a uni-formity in all collection districts, with respect to assessments of importers and others affected by this question, a copy of this letter will be published in the Internal Revenue Record.

How A STREET WAS CLEANED-Hope street, between Susquehanna avenue and Birect, between Susquenanina, avenue, and Dauphin street, has been in a dirty condition for some time past. The attention of the contractor was called to the matter, but without effect. It was determined that the street must be cleaned, and yesterday morn-ing the residents in the square-men, women and children-turned out, with more and children-turned out with brooms, shovels spades, &c., and removed the dirt. A quantity sufficient to make ten loads was removed to a vacant lot on Susquehanna avenue.

DISCRACEFUL FIGHT .- About eight o'clock this morning a butcher's cart and a brick cart came in collision at Fourth and Callowhill arreets. The result was a fight between the drivers, in which one of them had his head dreadfully injured with a club, and the other, it is said, had his ribs broken. The row lasted a considerable time, and caused much excitement. There were no arrests made, as no policemen could be found.

FIRE.-About quarter of ten o'clock, last evening, a couple of boys discovered smoke coming out of French, Rchards & Co.'s drug-house, Tenth and Market streets. The memhouse, i entri and market succes. In the mem-bers of the Diligent Engine Company aroused the watchman and the door was opened. A barrel of sweepings, on fire, was thrown out, and the building was saved.

STEALING BAGGAGE.—Jacob Sharp was ar-rested yesterday by Policeman Pidgeon, upon the charge of stealing baggage from Vinestreet wharf. He will have a hearing at the Central Station this afternoon.
