CAMDEN AND ATLANTIC RAILBOAD. Com-PANY.—During the summer season this Com-pany ran five trains to the "City by the Sea" on each secular day, excepting Saturdays, when six trains were run ; on Sunday one train runs —that which carries the U.S. mail. The busi-that which carries the U.S. mail. nouse anords great facilities for enjoyment, and being properly managed, can be made popular with the masses who go to the seasde for one days enjoyment. The railroad company have con-cluded that it will be to the interest of the stockholders to add to the rolling stock, and therefore it is contemplated to build a sufficient number of cars to most the do 'n sufficient number of cars to meet the de-mand that will surely be made next season. The want of a number of cars for the accom modation of the largest excursion parties has long been felt, and consequently, the trains were overcrowded. This state of affairs has had a bad effect, and gradually the excursion parties have become less in number and in personal attendance. The railroad company, therefore, are determined to have enough cars next season to meet all demands. The following statistics exhibit the business done with excursion parties during the present season: The first excursion, that of the Phila senson: The first excursion, that of the Phila delphia Social Club, took place on June 24th. trains came in on time. The heaviest days work of the company was on August 14th, when the thermometer ranged between 95 and work of the company was of August 14th, when the thermometer ranged between 95 and 100 degrees. On this day there were 74 car-loads of passengers, 65 of them being taken to Atlantic City. During that week 22,000 rail-ized passengers passed over the ferry at Vine street wharf. Capt. T. S. Evans, the veteran "slip-tender, admits that in all his life-long ex-iperience at the ferry he never passed so mady people in the same length of time. Besides This number of passengers, there were about 10,000 additional, of local travelers, making a total of 32,000—being over 5,000 each day. The officers of the company are careful in management, all the rolling stock is duly ex-amined, and the road is always kept in good order, twenty-eight miles of it being perfectly straight, running due northwest and south-east. The engineers are experienced and skillful men; the conductors perfect gentle-men, and the other employes attentive to their resenting and ardunes positions.

men, and the other employes attentive to their respective and arduous vocations.

A NICE LITTLE GAME .- The arrivals of A. NICE LITTLE GAME.—The arrivals of peaches, watermelons and cantelopes were never heavier than they have been the present iseason, and any person who will take the trou-ble to visit Vine street hill, from Delaware avenue to Front street, will find the street blockaded with wagons loaded with these fruits. As this hill is a public highway, and not a stand for the sale of fruit or anything else, the question naturally arises, why do the else, the question naturally arises, why do the police of Mayor Fox permit the street to be thus blocked, morning, noon and night, by the Dahlages.-.One Hindred and Eleven Love Letters. [From the London Sun, Aug. 19.] A breach of promise case, in which heavy damages were obtained, has been tried at the Liverpool Assizes The plantiff was Miss Katé Fleming, a young lady, twenty years of age, the second daughter of the late Mr. Fleming, of Glasgow, a well-known account-ant, who died in 1866. The defendant was Mr. James Elliot Thompson, the son of the eminent shipbuilder, of Sunderland, and was 24 years of age. While Mr. Fleming's life lasted his means were good and his daughter was consequently sent to a good school in Edinburgh, where she was a schoolfellow of the defendant's sister, who there became her inti-mate friend. She was therefore- invited to stay at the Thompsons' house in Sunderland, and spent Christmas of 1865 there, and made middlemen or hucksters? The whole thing is a nuisance, and very unjust towards the pro-duce merchants in the vicinity, who pay taxes and store rents. The nuisance complained of may never nermitted under, the former mu-Love Letters. was never permitted under the former mu-nicipal administration, and its roleration at the present time may be attributed to the fact that each huckster pays, as "hush-mongy," toenty-five cents per day to police officers, amounting in the aggregate to at least fifty dollars per week. The immense business done in this locality by carters, carmen and dray-men, pursuing legitimate occupations, is often seriously interfered with by these standing was never permitted under the former mu seriously interfered with by these standing wagons. THE WATER SUPPLY .- The head of water in the southeastern part of the city has been so weak for several days that hot water was forced into the service pipes, thus making it almost impossible to obtain the fluid in a cold condition. This, of course, was in such dwell-ings as are supplied with the proper arrange-ments for hot and cold water. In one instance the hot faucet when it was opened. We do not know whether there is any danger of a water-back, or boiler exploding, because of the want of a proper head of water, but it would be safe, however, from such disaster if the fires were kept in a reduced state in the kitchen ranges or heaters. A MAN PELTED WITH COKE.—A few days since, a man made application at the Point. Breeze Gas Works for employment. All at once he was assailed by some of the employes, who pelted him with coke, and thus drove. who pelted him with coke, and thus drove him from the premises. He was struck seve-ral times, but escaped serious injury. The men, upon being questioned why they as-sailed the man in this manner, gave the reason that they did not think him fit to associate with them, because he had recently been ap-pointed on the police force by Mayor Fox, and was subsequently dismissed, his character being very low in the scale of depravity. Be-sides this, he assumed a fictitions name in ap-plying for work, and was detected by a work-man who knew him well. CAUGHT IN THE ACT .- A man, who gave his name as Frank Jones, was arrested this morn-ing, about two o'clock, in a store, No. 1005 Ridge avenue. A stone had been thrown through the transom, and then an entrance was effected through the front door. The prowas effected through the front door. The pro-prietor of the store happened to come around. He couldn't get in the front door, but got in through a side entrance. He found the store in an uproar. The money-drawer had been broken open and robbed. He called Police-man Clay, of the Eighth District, and the man (Jones) was found secreted behind a chest. He had the stolen money in his pocket. He will have a hearing at the Central Station this after-mon. DISHONEST DOMESTIC.—Mary King, who had been employed as a domestic in the fun-ily of James McElhone, residing at Reese-ville, Chester county, decamped a few days ago, taking with her clothing valued at $150, which did not belong to her. She came to this city and pawned some of the stolen goods. She was subsequently arrested at the depot at Thirty-first and Market streets, and was taken to Chester county for trial. FIRE.—Last evening, about half-past rune o'clock, some goods in the bulk window of the dry goods store of Richard Ohman, No. 1245 Poplar street, took fire from a gas light. Before the flames could be extinguished all of the goods in the window and some in close proximity to it were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $700.

Exclusion or Gas.—This morning, a few minutes before nine o'clock, there was an ex-plosion of gas in the office of the Receiver of Taxes, southeast corner of Sixth and Chestnut streets. It seems that Charles Faunce, one of the Clerks, and Patrick Doran, the Messenger, were about to show a man named Kelly the work of the parties who committed the recent robbery at the office. The door of the fire-proof in the wall was opened and the three men entered the vault. Doran struck a match for the purpose of lighting the gas. A loud ex-plosion ensued, and the building was consider-ably shaken. Faunce and Kelly were blown out into the office. Doran was stunned, but ably shaken. Faunce and Kelly were blown out into the office. Doran was stunned, but managed to stagger from the vault. All three were severely burned about the head and face. They had their injuries dressed at the Phila-delphia Dispensary, and were then conveyed to their homes. Some of the books on an upper shelf in the vault were singed, and one took fire, but the flames were extinguished by a clerk before any damage had been done. There had been a leak in the gas-pipe in the yault for some time past. yault for some time past.

MAN DANGEROUSLY SHOT.—A train loaded with peaches, bound for New York, while passing over the Connecting railway last passing over the connecting railway last evening, stopped at Sixth street, about ten minutes past nine o'clock, in consequence of the derangement of some of the machinery of the locomotive. During the few minutes of delay which occurred a man went to a car to delay which occurred a man went to a car to steal peaches. One of the employes of the train went to the door and fired off a pistol, as is supposed, at the thief. The ball from the weapon; however, took effect in the abdomen of James Cardock, aged 35 years, who was standing by the side of the car, and had no connection with the thief. The train had then commenced to move, and it went on to New York carrenge the man, who fired the shof York, carrying the man who fired the sho Cardock was conveyed to the Episcopal Ho shof pital. His wound is a dangerous one, and it believed that he cannot survive.

HOMICIDE CASE.—This morning Coroner Daniels held an inquest on the body of Eliza Soper, who died at the Pennsylvania Hospital yesterday from the effects of a shot received yesterday from the effects of a shot received on Monday last, on board of the barge Se-curity, Jying at Catharine street wharf, of which her husband, Lorenzo D. Soper, was captain. Two witnesses were ex-amined. Neither saw the shooting, which occurred in the cabin. They saw Mrs. Soper run out, and heard her exclaim that she had been shot by her husband. The verdict of the jury was that Mrs. Soper came to her death from a gunshot wound at the hands of her hus-band. hand.

HOUSE RANSACE D.—The dwelling of Mr. Edward Wallington, No. 1136 South Fifteenth street, was entered by breaking a panel from the back door, sometime during yesterday. The house was completely ransacked, but a The house was completely ransacked, but as the family is absent from the city it is not known whether anything has been stolen. The thieves were evidently very particular about what they took, as some packages of silver-plated spoons bore the appearance of having been carefully examined and then put beek argin back again.

ACCIDENT FROM COAL OIL .-- Last evening ACCIDENT FROM COAL OIL.-Last evening about eight o'clock a coal-oil lamp exploded at No. 247 Diamond street. Mary Clymer, aged 35 years, was seriously burned. Folice-man Morgan extinguished the flames, and in doing so had his left a m and hand badly burned.

COMMITTED .- William Price, who is charged with having been concerned in the firing of the stable at Greenwich street, on Sunday last, and was shot by Sergeant Ward, had a hear-ing before Alderman Kerr, at the Second Dis-trict Police. Station, yesterday afternoon, and was committed to prison.

Breach of Promise of Marriage---Heavy Damages---One Hundred and Eleven

She refused to consent. He then admitted that he had cooled down considerably, and re-fused to marry the plaintiff, marrying, soon after another lady instead. For the defence it was another may instead. For the defence it was urged that the defendant had not acted so as to incur the necessity for great damages. The plaintiff was still young, and would soon get a husband. After the summing up of his lord-ship, the jury deliberated for some time, and returned a verdict for the plaintiff, with £1,500 damages.

In the summer of 1867 she was asked by her friend's family to join a Continental trip, but her father having died in the meantime. and, contrary to expectation, having left his family in somewhat embarrassed circumstances, she was compelled to de-cline the invitation from a failure of means. In the meantime she had been offered a home by cline the invitation from a failure of means. In the meantime she had been offered a home by her sister and her husband, a gentleman named Acheson, and she lived with them at a residence called Windsor Lodge, near Dublin, and sometimes at a shooting-box which he rented, called Kippua Park, in the county of Wicklow. She visited the Thompsons, how-ever, again at the Christmas of 1867, spending several weeks with them there, and then it was that her engagement with the de-fendant_occurred. She returned home in fendant occurred. She returned home in the spring of 1868 and obtained her brotherin-law's consent to the engagement, and the correspondence then commenced. It was very voluminous, extending into the February of the present year and contained in all 111 of the present year and contained in all 111 letters, but comparatively few of them were used in court. They began in the usual gush-ing style, and went on so until the defendant wished to have the marriage-day settled in November. But the plaintiff would have it put off until February. After that the corres-pondence on the plaintiff's side was a triffe cooler. By-and-by the time came for buying the furniture; and in the letters between the couple on this subject the plain-tiff charged his "darling Kate" with being un-concerned about the future. She replied that tiff charged his "darling Kate" with being un-concerned about the future. She replied that she was not so. She was not so enthusiastic about getting the linen—bed or table—as he had expected. What he would seem to have wanted was to have produced a coolness on Miss Fleming's side such as existed on his own-part. In this, however, he was not successful. She declared her willingness to do what, she could, and charged him with being cool towards her. By and by he brought matters to a consum-mation by a letter, in which he said :"I received your two letters, also one from Acheson. I am your two letters, also one from Acheson. I am sorry to say that I am disappointed in the way this engagement of ours has turned out. I think I have been deceived about many things in linen (there was here again much laughter as the learned counsel read the letter). I underas the learned counsel read the letter). I under-stood you had the greater portion of it, and it how turns out that everything except table napkins would have to be bought. The list of silver you have sent would not be sufficient. silver you have sent would not be sufficient. Acheson and you gave me to understand that you had the whole of it, and you have often told my sisters that you got the whole your. father had, and 1know he had a great deal. How about antimacassars, &c.? [Great laugh-ter.] You do not say anything about them, and these things you could have worked yourself had you felt at all inclined. Had 1 known you were making no effort to do things for your-self I might have got my sisters to have worked them. Was it Acheson who told you to ask me for fifty pounds to buy linen and spend the remainder on yourself? If he did he ought to think shame of himself. I am thoroughly disgusted. I was not aware autil lately that I was expected to provide clothing thoroughly disgusted. I was not aware antil lately that I was expected to provide clothing for the lady before marriage. I cannot ex-press to you how much I am disappointed, and I think it better for both parties if this marriage were broken off. I regret it very much, and cannot see any prospect of happiness for the future. You ought to have dealt candidly with me." Upon this letter both Mr.Acheson and his protège, wrote pro-testing against the defendant's cruelty. Thompson wrote back asking Miss Fleming whether she did not think it better under the circumstances for the engagement to be broken circumstances for the engagement to be broken.
