A Caralina and a 24 1/2 so migration

Letter from Dr. Hayes—Ivigtut, Lati-tude 61 deg. 15 min. STEAMSHIP PANTHER, INTETUT, South Greenland, July 26.—Ily Dew Sir. A shup, freighted with kryolite, sails for Philadelphia in a few hours, and I avail myself of the unexpected opportunity to send you a friendly greeting.

in a key hours, and I avail myself of the unexpected opportunity to send you a friendly greeting.

After leaving Newfoundland, we made our first landfall at Cape Desolation, where, the weather being dirty, and there being on this coast neither light-house nor pilots, we were forced to get an anchor down and hold on three days before we could steam into the Julianshaab, the best of the Greenland colonics. There we arrived July 15. A few items of our doing since that date may interest you. First, on the 17th, we went up to the old Norse ruins of Krakortak, the finest on the coast, and in novel fashion. My old friend, the Key Mr. Anthon (formerly of Upernavik), kindly acted as a guide, and we crowded into a woman's seal-skin boat; that is to say, an umick, which was thirty-six feet long, and was propelled by six stout native women. The temperature was 63 deg. grand the scenery, and many the novelties, so we passed a most delightful day—bothered only by mosquitoes, which are more numerous here and more victors, I verily believe, than in any other part of the known world.

How old the ruins are nobody knows; but certainly not less than eight centuries; and as certainly not less than eight centuries; and as I wandered through the church-yard, and about the once massive walls of the homes of about the once massive walls of the homes of the hardy. Whings and sons of Vikings who long ago peopled this coast, the story of their wonderful deeds seemed written in the very stones. The church ruin (or cathedral) stands much as when Graah visited it some forty years ago. One gable is yet eighteen feet high; the three door-ways are perfect; and some of the windows are in the same condition. The walls are almost five feet thick, and in places still very firm. While Bradford was busy with his brush, and Dunmore and Cricherson with their camera; I made a careful plot of all the ruins, which are nine in number. It will please your curious eyes as the photographs will delight you.

From Julianshaab—where, by the way, I must not forget to mention we had some fine fresh Greenland, beef and any quantity of milk—we steamed out to a sub-colony called Krakssiment, where, directed by an ancient Dane, Motzfeldt by name—the only white man in the place.

milk—we steamed out to a sub-county cancer Krakssiment, where, directed by an ancient Dane, Motzfeldt by name—the only white man in the place—we went up a fiord to the front of a great glacier, and there we lay at anchor four days, on the most amicable terms with the monstrous body in-stream, photographing it, sketching it, surveying it, traveling upon it, and, in short, doing nothing that was not agreeable as well as useful.

The photographs from it are really superb, are taken from every possible point of view, and are everything the heart could wish for. The weather was warm as an early autumn day at home, and was enjoyed by all. There was nothing to interfere with us but the aforesaid mosquitoes, which fortunately did not reach the ship, nor yet the summit of the glacier. I believe nothing could possibly be finer than the photographs obtained.

Unhappily for our complete sense of com-

Unhappily for our complete sense of comfort, the glacier was less disposed to be neighborly than we, for he set up a terrible fusilade the moment, we got there; and beside some thousands of tons of ice which at intervals broke from the front saven icebergs one offer. broke from the front, seven icebergs, one after another, rolled their unwieldly forms into the sea and set the waves upon us at such a terri-ble rate that we were glad enough to get a ble rate that we were glad enough to get a safer place of refuge.

But few persons have ever seen an iceberg break off. We can rejoice in having both seen and felt them. We may rhapsodize about Niagara, its roar, its vastness, but one knows not where to begin with a discharging glacier; so I will not attempt it on so small a lit of proper.

glacier; so I will not attempt it on so small a bit of paper.

From the glacier here we came to meet a hearty welcome from the controller of the mines, Mr. Saxtorf; the director, Mr. Frits; and the agent for the American Company, Capt. Reynolds. One is quite amazed at the apparently inexhaustible supply of kryolite in the bed which they have opened.

The mine is in fact, a quarry—the bottom

the bed which they have opened.

The mine is, in fact, a quarry—the bottom of which is some forty feet below the level of the sea, and is, perhaps, fifty yards across, and as many up from the beach. It lies upon the south side of this deep fiord of Arsuk, which runs back many miles into the interior, and like most of the Greenland flords is to and like most of the Greenland flords, is ter-minated by a glacier. A hundred miners get out about 11,000 tons of the mineral per annum. The mineral is immensely rich— ninety-six to ninety-nine per cent. of soda and alum—and although not sufficient in quantity to pay for working, the bed is prolific in other ores. In a half hour's walk about the works I ores. In a half hour's walk about the works I picked up specimens of iron, silver, lead, tin, copper and arsenic. Strange, it seems, that this mineral, so precious and so valuable, should be found here alone.

To-morrow we put to sea, and then northward ho! beneath the midnight sun. Thus far all has been novel to me, but henceforth I shall be among familiar scenes. We get on finely. Everybody is in the best of spirits, and the very best of health. The ship could not be improved upon for either strength or comfort, and, please God, in a couple of months I will fetch to you, in person, my next budget of news. Meanwhile, believe me, ever faithfully yours,

I BAAC I. HAYES.

Mormon Doctrines.

The Descret Evening News reports a sermon by its editor, Elder Cannon, who says:

The prevalent idea concerning us in a great many circles is that we have thrown aside the Bible and have substituted in its stead a book Bible and have substituted in its stead a beok of our own, the Book of Mormon, and other works of modern origin, or works which they consider of modern origin. It is only a few weeks since that a gentleman from the Eastern States was invited to preachin the New Tabernacle. He did so, and preached a very cloquent discourse. He was followed by President Young, and after the latter had finished and the meeting was dismissed, this clergyman said he had not the least idea that we had so large a Christian element in our faith until he heard that discourse from President Young. He had supposed that we had set aside the Bible and had taken the Book of Mormon and the doctrines and revelations contained in that and in the book of Doctrines and Covenants as our rule of faith.

In an editorial in reference to the sermon the editor remarks:

The discourse in this issue is on the first principles of the Gospel, as taught by the Latter-day Saints, and will be of more than ordinary interest to all who may be desirous of learning the foundation of their faith. Faith in Jesus Christ, repentance of sin, haptism for its remission, and the laying on of hands for the reception of the Holy Ghost, are the four cardinal principles, without obedience to which no man of woman, who has the privilege of hearing them taught by legal authority, ever can gain admittance into the kingdom of God-Tall Manager.

The Recent Storm in Iowa.

Another heavy storm swept over the State of Iowa last Saturday night, and has done considerable damage. It struck Des Moines at about 6 o'clock, and reached Davenport City about, 9 o'clock, The damage has been heavy to the road between Des Moines and Newton, at three washes are remoted. A small bridge about Ho Clock. The damage has been heavy to the road between Des Moines and Newton, as three washes are reported. A small bridge at Vowel side track, four miles west of Newton, washed out and caused a terrible accident to the No.2 De Sote freight train. The engine and one or two cars went into the break, and resulted in killing the engineer and a brakeman, and fatally injuring the freman. The engine and the bodies were found under the wreek of 12 cars. It is impossible to estimate the amount of loss. Seven of the cars were loaded with himter, two with threshing machines, one with himter, two with threshing machines, one with plows, one with merchandise, and one with iron. Grain that was in shock was thoroughly soaked, but, if the warm dry weather continues a few days, it will not only he well dried out, but will be got into shock without much trouble. In the city of Dubuque one street was washed out to the depth of 10 feet, and rendered wholly impossable. Davenport Gazette.

The Austrian flag, which fore the symbol of the Holy Roman Empire, has been replaced since the first of August by a new Austro-Hungarian flag, composed in equal portions of the red and white colors of the Austrian of the red and white colors of the Austrian archduchy, minus the former imperial crown, and of the red, white and green colors of the Hungarian kingdom. Thus perishes the last vestige of the Holy Roman Empire of CITY NOTICES.
