FORTRESS MONROE, Oct. 5.—The Norfolk Board of Trade, on Saturday, selected W. D. Reynolds and Asa Briggs'as delegates to the Commercial Convention to be held at Louisville on the 14th inst. They will urge the immediate completion of the line of railroad from Louisville to Norfolk, either by Cumberwas to be had in good sams before three o'clock. And great bulk of business, however, was at six to even per cent. The prevailing abundance of funds is due to several causes. The great shrinkage in values, at the Stock Exchange has primarily lessened the demand. It requires a great deal less money to carry stocks now than it did a month ago. Again, the denand from the West is comparatively light. The shipments of currency have commenced, but the amounts sun are small. The decline in gold has checked the movement of the crops. The farmers have in their minds the old prices, and are loath to sell; hence the retention of grain which, with a higher presumm on gold, would find its way to the scahpard, while currency would find its way to the West. It is curious to speculate what will be the eventual result of this state of affairs. The more cynical financiers singest that Mr. Boutwell, who is so full of expedients for eucouraging the business of the country, should turn about and bay gold, with a view to letting out the crops. Perhaps it was sn apprehension that he would be compelled to clauge his policy that gave the gold market its firmer land Gap and Bristol, or some other feasible route, in order to secure the immense amount of freights now shipped by more northerly routes to the sea. There is only about one hundred miles of road to build in order to make this connection, and it is hoped that the Convention will take and it is hoped that the Convention will take some definite action in the matter, and not confine themselves entirely to talk. Norfolk claims to be the best harbor on the coast, with a harbor always open, and if this connection is made her commerce will increase a hundred fold. This route fully established, a line of steamers to Liverpool will follow, and Norfolk will soon regain her former prestige, lost during the war. to Liverpool which run during the cotton season, stopping at Norfolk to take in coal and complete their cargoes. This line takes of the stock market, is reacting against, the schers. Many of these sales have been covered within the last few days, while the reduced line of exports curtails the supply of bills. The late gold speculation has ramified in its effects every branch of basiness in Wall street.

The gold market showed something of its old life, and the premium frisked quite briskly. From the opening price of 123% there was a sharp advance to 129%, with a reaction late in the day and subsequent to the government sale to 129%. The early advance was based upon the Spanish-Cuhani news. At the government sale the merchants were large buyers. The speculative feeling for a decline which followed the restoration of quiet to the gold market is evinced in the active borrowing demand for cash gold. Lenders sllowed from 2 to 5 per cent, on the currency collaters is for their gold in the greater number of transactions, but in many listances got the currency relations the feeling in favor of higher gold, especially as the demand to cover whort sales of exchange is also quite active. Governments underwent a strong reaction from yesterday's prices, although the market was in the main dull. Each decline brings in new buyers, and hence any operation for a decline senounters new obstacles. The foreign and home markets have not been well balanced lately, owing to the fluctuations in gold, but showed more signs of equalization to day, and hence the closing prices of governments the afternoon were more steady. and re-shipped there for Liverpool.
