General Butler's Opinion. General Butler, having been button-holed by reporter, participated in the following dialogue:

"What do you think, General, of this story about President Grant and Secretary Bout well being mixed up in the late gold specula-

As to Mr. Boutwell, I don't believe a word of it. I have known him for twenty-five years, and have always considered him an honest, straightforward man. I am not the least inclined to change my opinion of him now; and in regard to General Grant, the story is just as false. The fact is the whole of this slander was fabricated and set affoat in this slander was inducated and set alloat in the interests of the Democratic party. It has a political significance easy to read. We are on the eve of elections in the two great States, of Pennsylvania and Ohio, and this story is circulated to prejudice and break down the character of the administration. They are using it, now on every stump in Ohio and Pennsylvania."

"But General, these gold speculators, such

"But, General, these gold speculators, such as Fisk and Gould, don't care a button for

"That's true; but if the secret was known you would find that right behind them and in with them were Democrats of influence and wealth, who seized the opportunity to turn it to political account and made use of Fisk and wealth, who seized the opportunity to take the to political account and made use of Fisk and Gould for the purpose—men who were prepared to throw out any insinuations against the government for being baulked in their gold speculation. Wait and you will find that I am correct. Make it appear, even so vaguely, that Grant and Boutwell were in with the gold swindlers, and you stagger the prospects of the party that supports them. What earthly good could it do this Fisk or Gould to labor to that end? If they lost money it would not bring it back; if they made any they ought to be thankful. But Tammany Hall could be served, and there are men in that concern capable of any baseness that would help their interests. It is all a party dodge, which it appears very strange to me the papers are unable to see."

"What do you think of Corbin's connection with the ring?"

with the ring?"
"I know nothing about him. If he be a brother-in-law of General Grant it does not follow that he directs the affairs of the Treasury. He no doubt got entangled with the speculators and pretended he had an influence which he hadn't. He suffered, I suppose, and which he hadn't. He surered, I suppose, and the others are down on him now for making representations which were not afterwards sustained. A weak-minded man, it is to be presumed, with just enough cunning to ex-tract some loose information, in a roundabout way, from the President, who was unconscious of the object, and thus he led the ring and himself into loss and mischief. Such people deserve to suffer more than the pecuniary disaster they entail on themselves and others." Here we left the General to prosecute his

How Grant Takes It. The Washington correspondent of the Times

Says: "The "Gold Ring" imbroglio, since the shafts of calumny have been directed at the President, has attracted its full share of attention here. It is within the bounds of absolute truth to say that these infamous assaults by truth to say that these infamous assauts by these infamous men are condemned almost unanimously, and that partisan hate and prejudice, strong as they are here, are yet unwilling to use such weapons as are furnished by the New York gang and their organ—that luminary that shines for all—at a fixed price, editorial columns included. No more serious charge was ever leveled at a high officer than that which has, directly and by implication been directed against Gen. Grant. officer than that which has, directly and by implication, been directed against Gen. Grant, and if the whole country could only know the equanimity with which he bears such assaults, their faith in his sincerity and in the patriotism of his purposes would be still further increased. Throughout this strugglethe President has acted with that balance of mind and firmness of purpose which are characteristic of him. To all attempts to obtain from him information of the financial intentions of the Government he has uniformly replied that it formation of the financial intentions of the Government he has uniformly replied that it was manifestly improper for him to give such information to private parties, and equally improper for them to ask it; and that the Government always reserved for itself the right to act as seemed best for the public interest at the time action was demanded. This was the reply he made to the impudent Fisk on the Boston steamer last summer, and it was the er, and it was tl reply he made ten days ago, when he was urged to postpone further Government sales of gold until November.

Possible Action of the Government.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Herald says:
Leaving out Sumner, who is committed to the do-nothing policy in regard to Cuba, and who believes that all that can reasonably be expected of us is simply to give the struggling patriots our barren sympathy, nearly every member of the National Legislature who has visited this city lately is in favor of a bold and scided policy in regard to the Ever Faithful land. Indeed, I have not seen a Senator or member who does not go in for immediate recognition. There seems to be a very remarkable unanimity of opinion that the Cubans have been struggling unaided long enough; that they have nobly maintained themselves against every difficulty, and have established a claim to our active sympathy and support that should not be overlooked. From this I conclude that if President Grant, and Secreary Fish allow the Cuban question to drag along in the same old fogy style as heretofore until the meeting of Congress, certain pro-minent leaders in that body will take it out of the hands of the Executive and by decisive legislation compel the government to throw the weight of its influence in favor of the Cubans. The exact modus operandi of this proposed legislative in-terposition is not yet explained, but it is generally agreed that such a result must be compassed in some way. One party favors a re-peal of the neutrality laws, while another holds it will be sufficient for the two houses to house it will be summered for the two houses or pass a resolution urging the Executive to grant belligerent rights and recognition to the Cabans. It is believed that such a resolution would not be disregarded by the President, however much some of his Cabinet might oppose it. One thing is particularly certain. Ben Butler will not allow the question to slum-Ben Jutler will not allow the question to slumber. He is completely disgusted with the procrastination of the Executive, and will agitate the matter in that vigorous style for which he is so famous. Ben has a hundred lively ideas with which he intends to galvanize Congress, and one of these ideas takes in the Cuban question. He will slash at it, right and left, until the government is obliged to knuckle down to the Essex platform of sympathy and material aid to the Cubans.

FROM NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11th.-The anniversary of the proclamation of the republic of Cuba will be duly commemorated by the Junta to-day. A meeting of the friends of Cuban independence will be held this evening at the Cooper

Philadelphia contributes some very creditable articles to the great fair now in progress in this city. Among other contributions are superior specimens of two-ply carpets, manufac-tured at the establishment of McCallum, Crease & Sloan, proprietors of the Glen Echo Mills, Germantown.

The carpets attract considerable attention, and are certainly of very superior make, fully sustaining the well-earned reputation of the Quaker City as being the leading manufactur-ing city in the Union.

THE COURTS

The Swearing of Election Officers. The Swearing of Election Officers.

COMMON PLEAS—Judge Peirce. The following opinion was delivered this morning:

That the election officers appointed under the Registry law, before entering upon their respective duties, shall severally make and subscribe an anidavit, before an Alderman of the city of Philladelphia, or some other officer duly authorized to administer oaths or affirmations in the said city, that they will perform their duties with fidelity, etc. They cannot administer oaths or affirmations to each other as under the old law, but they can be worn in the day before the election.

The Court announced that they would sit to-morrow morning at seven o'clock, at the new Court-House, and continue in session for a reasonable time to, hear appli-cations relating to vacancies in election officers. CITY BULLETIN.

THE FIRST WARD INUNDATION-BOATS FOR VOTERS.—In consequence of the overflow of the low mixedows in the First Ward, nearly all the voters of low meaows in the tast to the first precinct will, both political parties residing in the first precinct will, in many instances, be compelled to go in small batteaux in many instances, be compelled to go in such and skiffs to the election poll.

The precinct is bounded as follows: From the river Delaware and south side of Mifflin street to the east side.

Night to Sayder street; thence Delaware and south save of Minth to Snyder street; thence along the south side of Snyder to Broad street; thence along the east side of Broad street to the back channel (including League Island) to the river Delaware; thence northward to Mifflin street.

It may be said that all the land within these boundaries It may be said that all the land within these boundaries is covered with water of different depths, from one foot to soven feet. Even on the Greenwich Point road the depth in some places is #4-least four feet, there being a draining ditch on each side of the road at least three feet deep. The course of the highway is entirely closed from view by the water, and any stranger foolish enough to steam to wade it might suddents find himself they and trom view of the water, initially strategy from the content of the to attempt to wade it might studdenly find himself beyond his depth in one of the aforesaid differes.

The election poll is at the house of Joseph Rivel, on the League Island road. There are several feet of water in the lower story of the building, and the probability is that the votes of the people will have to be taken through the second-story window, unless some other arrangements be made to facilitate the voters in depositing their ballots.

The water reaches within a few yards of Millin street, the distance from this point or location to the polls being about one mile and a half. Nearly forty gunning skiffs will be held in readiness on the day of the election to convey voters from one point to the other. These scenes will be a novelty in the history of elections in Philadelphia, and the probability is that many persons will be attracted to the higher grounds that form the boundaries of the overflow to witness them. It is not likely that such an event will ever occur again, because the Pennsylvania Rallroad Company, we understand, intend to mend the banks; and if so, the work will be done so well as to successfully resist any pressure of water likely to arise from any freshet that may occur.

The people of Martinsville, a small village extending from the Point road westward to low meadow-land, are in a sad and pitiable conditition. There is not a house in the village that has less than two or three feet of water on the first floor. Muskrats, meadow mice and adow snakes have sought refuge in these houses. They get on the tops of tables, barrels, benches and other light things floating on the surface of the water. In this cluster of tenements there are thirty or forty voters who declare they will get their votes in if they have to wade and swim to accomplish this much At all ovents, there promises to be a lively time to-mor-row, and each party will vie with the other in paddling the voters to the polls. Old Mr. Hoffner, who weighs over three hundred pounds, and prides himself upon be-ing a staunch Republical, says he is determined to "paddle his own canoe." .. There are other "Neckers" just

One of the breaks in the upper part has been repaired but the worst break, which is below Greenwich Point, is as bad as ever, and several weeks probably will clapse 'before it can be repaired. The tide cbbs and flows through the gap like a mill-race, and the noise attend ing this rush of waters can be heard at times for half a mile. Notwithstanding the rain of Josterday, quite a number of persons visited the overflowed section of our

CORONER'S INQUEST .- Mrs. Mary McGarrigle, who with her husband, James McCarrigle, and children, occupied a room in a tenement house, No. 241 South Water street, died at an early hour yesterday morning. She had been complaining for about a week, and had been under charge of a physician since Friday. Cries of murder had frequently been heard in the room, the street was the result of and there were reports that her death was the result of kicks and a beating which she had received from her husband. McGarrigle was arrested yesterday afternoon.

kicks and a beating which she had received from her husband. McGarrigle was arrested yesterday afternoon. This morning Coroner Daniels investigated the case. The tollowing evidence was elicited:

Dr. James Markoe. 1620. Locust street, testified—Saw Mrs. McGarrigle on Friday last; she then stated to me that she had been sick since the previous Monday—Oct. 4; previous to October the she was in perfect health; I camined her and found her chest bruised on the right side, and ovidence of great inflammation in the lungs; she stated that she had been beaten by her husband on Monday hast; she was very weak, and it was with great difficulty that she answered questions; I was present at post marken examination; both before and after death there was evidence of her having received injuries.

Dr. E. B. Shapleigh testified—Made a post morten oxamination of Mrs. Garrigle; she was a thin, sickly-lookwoman; I discovered some bruises on the breast and right side, over the lower ribs; dry cups had been applied; there was sone effused blood in the tissues be neath the skin, over the anterior onds of the lower ribs; there had been inflammation of the pleura and right lungs, which were completely consolidated; the deceased came to her death from pneumonia or inflammation of the ling; a severe blow or kick on the side might have caused inflammation of pleura and lung.

Ann Malooney, 21 South Water street, testified—I was with Mrs. McGarrigle when she died; she said that her husband kicked her; never saw him beat or kick her; last Sunday night a week she cried "murder" several times.

James Clark, testified—Am brother of deceased; I saw her lusband kicked her; never saw him beat or kick her; last Sunday night a week she cried "murder" several times.

James Clark, testified—Am brother of deceased; I saw him strike her with his hand about ten days ago; last Sunday night she was lying on the bed whon we got home; he went up to her and kicked her, and she got up and ran out of the room; she had been well before; on Monday morning she complained to him of feeling sore—aid her side hunt her where he kicked her; he is a good man when he is sober, but is bad when he is drunk; when he kicked her no one was in the room except me and the children; she has complained to mo several times that he beat her.

Ellen Escott testified—Have heard deceased cry murder frequently, since she has boen in the house, now about five weeks; on Thursday I discovered the condition of the woman; had her removed to a room of mine and sent for the doctor; McGarrigle never interfered or came there until Saturday night about 90 clock; she was then in a dying condition; he wanted to come in but I would not let him; he bursted the door in and four o'clock on Sunday morning; she told the Doctor in my presence that her husband had nurdered her; she said that he had kicked her in the side when he came on Saturday, he said, "Mary don't you want to see me?" She shook her head and said "No;" that was before he broke the door open.

Eliza Sanders, 211 South Water street, testified—Last Saturday night week McGarrigle and wife went out to gether; when they came home she sent out for liquor; she would not clear up his room, and her army nois; I lave the next room, and never heard her cry "marder." she would not clear up his room, and that was the came of frequent anarrels between them.

The verdict of the jury was:

"That said Mary McGarricle came to her death from preumonia, superinduced by blows inflicted at the hands of her husband, James McGarrigle; October 3, at No. 241 Water street."

McGarrigle was then committed by the Coroner.

THE ELECTION .- The general election for State, county and municipal officers will be held to-morrow. The manner of conducting the election is pre cribed in sections thirty seven and thirty-eight of the State, county and municipal officers will be held to-morrow. The manner of conducting the election is prescribed in sections thirty-seven and thirty-eight of the Registry law, as follows:

Section 37.—That the said register shall be the only evidence that the persons whose names are found thereon have resided for ten days immediately preceding the said election in the said division, and no voter whose name is so registered shall be challenged at the polls on any questions of residence; but it shall be the duty of the election officers to require every person whose name appears on the extra assessment book of the division, except such as are entitled to vote on ages to produce his receive for taxes, as evidence of the payment thereof, and prove his identity, if required by either inspector; and the vote of no such person shall be received by the election officers until such receipt is produced, showing that the person offering to vote has paid a State or county tax within 2 years next before the said election, which had been assessed upon him personally, at least ton days before the said election; and it shall also be the duty of the election officers to require every person of foreign birth whe offers to vote at any election, to produce a certificate of naturalization, issued by a court of this State or a court of the United States, under the seal of the court, or a certificate ony of the received by the election officers who shall have resided in the election-division for ten years or more immediately preceding such application to vote shall be required to produce such certificate or certificate ordinate of the received by the election officers who shall have resided in the election, which shall be the duty of the election officers to stamp upon every tax receipt and every naturalization.

Sinc application to vote shall be required to produce as aloresaid, upon which a vote shall be received, the word voted. Together with the number and division of the Ward and the date of the election, which stamp shall be ev

THE PEACE TO BE PRESERVED .- On election days there is always more or less fighting, and last year, it will be remembered, several persons died from the effects of injuries received in election rows. The Mayor and Chief of Police have been engaged to-day in making arrangements for the preservation of the peace and order of the city to morrow, so that all parties may exercise the right of suffrage. Governor Geary will be in the city to-morrow, and will support the city authorities in maintaining order.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.-Joseph Jackson, colored, was arrested last night at Eleventh and Bedford streets, upon the charge of highway robbery. It is alleged that he took $10 from the pocket of a boy named John Dunn, while another fellow held him. Jackson will have a hearing at the Central Station this afternoon.

FATAL FALL.-Goorge Straub, aged 28 rears, residing at No. 2217 Nassau street, died on Satur-day afternoon, from injuries received at Strawberry Mansion on Thursday night last. There had been some fighting at the place on that evening and it was supposed that Straub had been beaton. Yesterday Ohief Kelly and several detective officers were engaged in investigat-ing the affair. It was ascertained that Straub went to Strawberry Mansion after seven o'clock on Thursday evening. While there he was very drink, and for a time had been lying down on a bench. He got up and started away from the house, towards the Schuylkill river. The next morning, about eight o'clock, a gen-tleman heard meaning, and discovered Straublying in a stone quarry, where, judging by the appearance of the bushes, &c., he had fallen the night before. The fall was about fifty feet. His head and body were bruised. Assistance was obtained, and Straub was conveyed to his residence, where, as above stated, he died on Satur-day afternoon. Dr. E. B. Shapleigh, the Coroner's phy-sician, made a post-mortem examination of the deceased and found a fracture of the fifth yeriebrie, that the spinal column had been injured, and that Straub, there fore, came to his death from a broken neck. Corone Daniels will hold an inquest in the case on Thursday

DISORDERLY HOUSES .- On Saturday night Sergeant Lynch and the Sixth District Police made a descent upon the houses of Sarah Campbell, Maggie Harris and Annie Buffington, Nos. 1039, 1041 and 1042 Sorgeant street, which were alleged to be of a disorderly character. Three men and eleven women were captured The prisoners were taken before Alderman Jones. proprietresses were held to bail for keeping disorderly houses, and the others were held for breach the peace.

RUNAWAY AND ACCIDENT .- A horse attached to a wagon took fright at Seventeenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, yesterday afternoon, and ran away: Mr. Robert Cunningham and daughter, who were the occupants of the vehicle, were thrown out, and Miss Cunningham was seriously injured.

ROBBED WHILE ASLEEP .- Henry E. Manuel, residing on South street, near Twenty-fourth, got home about midnight on Saturday. He sat down on the front steps and fell asleep. When he got awake he found that $22 had been taken from his pocket.

CITY NOTICES.

DINING CONSIDERED AS ONE OF THE ARTS.

—Any vulgar fellow can eat, but only a gentleman knows how to dine. To eat is simply animal, but to breakfast, sup, and, above all, to dine, are important acts, which can be performed only by human beings, and properly performed only by human beings, and properly performed only by human beings, and properly performed only by the most cultivated classes. Br. Johnson, the great English lexicographer, held that the dumer hour is the most important of the twenty-four. Our judgment, our stomach and our palate alike incline us to coincide with the author of Rasselas. All the good things of this life were surely not, made for tools. Asceticism is an intense humbug. Men of brains and tastes now know that it is their duty as well as their pleasure to live well. This is as it should be. Visit, for example, the Restaurant and Dining Saloons of Messrs. Christopher & May, No. 15 S. Fourth street, and you will scarcely fail to see their spacious apartments well filled with gentlemen of the highest standing in society. Merchants, lawyers, statesmen, authors, artists, etc., all congregate at this popular resort, well knowing that the heat the markets afford will be set before them. Indeed, it is a noticeable characteristic of, the present age that nest the markets afford will be set before them. Indeed, it is a noticeable characteristic of, the present age that men of mark like to live well, and that they, before all others, find out where the good things of life are most agreeably prepared for the inner man. In Philadelphia Messes, Christopher & May take the lead as artistic caterers, and the throngs of gentlemen who daily dine at their saloons well attests their popularity.
