Mr. Hazlet's sale last evening afforded another example of the troubles which our American experts have been bringing on themselves by a long history of vendues all conducted after the same pattern.

George Bensell has painted a large Holy Family, in a semi-circular composition. The grouping is able, and the style more tender and graceful than anything he has at

Mr. Morawitz has just finished a pretty figure of a little girl seeking shelter under a tree from a passing shower.
