HE BUSH ENDOWMENT.—A meeting of Stockholders of the Philadelphia Library the Stockholders of the Philadelphia Library foundany was held this afternoon to receive the report of the tellers of the vote on the resolutions relative to the bequest of the late sames Rush, M. D. Hon. Ell K. Price was its led to the chair.

Tellers were appointed and amounced that a quorum of the members were represented in merson or hyperson.

person or by proxy.

Hon. Edward King, on behalf of the tellers Hon. Edward king, on behalf of the tellers hypointed to receive and count the votes of the stockholders on the resolutions reported by the joint committees of the directors and stockholders, &c., made a report. There were 597 votes cast. On the first resolution there were 298 for and 293 against. Second resolution, 236 for and 362 against. Third resolution, 213 for and 362 against. Fifth resolution, 279 for and 316 against. Third resolution, 279 for and 316 against. The tellers, therefore, amnounced that the first resolution, accepting the legacy of Dr. James Rush according to its terms, had been agreed to, and the other resolutions had been disagreed to.

Mr. Fred. Fralev said that the result of the vote had no doubt surprised many persons, and it has been commented upon in various ways. It is desirable to avoid discussions which will lead to personal feelings, and efforts should be made to bring all of the elements to a fair examination of all the facts, which will lead to a satisfactory solution of the question. With that view he had been requested to submit a resolution which had met the concurrence of both sides. He then offered the following:

Resolved, That the further consideration of met the concurrence of consideration of Resolved, That the further consideration of the bequest of Dr. James Rush be postponed, and that a committee to be composed of five members and the directors be appointed to take the matter into consideration, and to restrict the constant of the commend to the members, at a meeting to be called by the Directors, such action as may be deemed expedient or necessary.

Hon. H. M. Philips endorsed the resolution.

Col. J. Ross Snowden thought that the question and already been settled in the best way by a stock vote of the members. He therefore by astock vote of the members. He therefore offered the following:

Whereas, A majority of the stockholders of the Library Company of Philadelphia has accepted, by a stock vote, on the 19th inst, the legacy of the late Dr. James Rush, according to the terms in his will; therefore,

Resolved, That the resolution adopted by the said vote be entered on the minutes of the Library Company as the acceptance by said

Library Company, as the acceptance by said Company of the munificent and philanthropic bequest of Dr. Bush.

Resolved, That a committee to consist of three Stockholders and three Directors be appointed to co-operate with the Executor of Dr. Rush in carrying into effect the provisions of the said will.

Resolved, That the early construction of a fire-proof building to contain the valuable books; papers and other treasures of the Library Company; as well as those which will hereafter be obtained, is an object of the highest importance, and demands the immediate attention of the Company and of the of the said will.

diate attention of the Company and of the Executor of the Will of Dr. Rush. Executor of the Will of Dr. Rush.

Resolved, That a copy of the resolution adopted by a vote of the stockholders, together with these proceedings, be sent to H. J. Williams, Esq., the Executor of Dr. Rush.

Theo. Cuyler, Esq., considered the matter settled by the stock vote. He knew of no other city where the discussion of the acceptance of such a munificent bequest would have been carried on to such an extent as this has been. Other cities would have accepted the legacy at once and erected a monument to the benefactor.

Legacy to the will be described the legacy at once and erected a monument to the benefactor.

A lengthy discussion then ensued, and it us was pretty generally argued that the bequest whad been accepted by the stock vote, and ar therefore the result cannot be changed by any .

a thereton roposed to-day.
Action proposed to-day.
Mr. Wm. Biddle claimed that the resolutions Mr. Wm. Biddle claimed that the resolutions of Col. Snowden were virtually the resolutions which had been voted down by a much larger vote than the resolution of acceptance had been adopted. If one is reversed the other has a good right to be.

Gen. W. A. Stokes raised a point of order—that this meeting was called to hear the report of the tellers, and therefore these resolutions were out of odor.

were out of odor.
The Chairman decided that this was a meeting for all purposes, and that all questions which had not been settled by the Stock vote were open for discussion were open for discussion.

A vote was then taken on the resolutions of Col. Snowden, and they were declared rejected.

The resolution of Mr. Fraley, to postpone the matter, &c., was then adopted.
The meeting then adjourned. FRANKLIN INSTITUTE—REGULAR MONTHLY

MEETING.—The proceedings last evening were MEETING.—The proceedings last evening were of unusual interest and the number of members present very large. The meeting was called to order with Mr. Merrick, President, in the chair, and after the reading of minutes, reports of committees, &c., had been rapidly disposed of, the paper announced for the evening, on the Ejector Condenser, was read by Mr. James R. Napier, F. R. S., of Glasgow. Mr. Napier described the apparatus by the aid of drawings projected on the screen, and remarked upon its efficiency and economy. This instrument, without the aid of a figure, it is difficult to describe, but we may say that it is difficult to describe, but we may say that like the Giffard injector it consists of a system of concentric nozzles admitting alternately of concentre mozates admitted as steam and water—steam from the exhaust side of the cylinders, water from a well or tank. Let us suppose that the steam is at a very low pressure—what would be called a vacuum of 12 pounds; that is, 12 pounds persquare inch less 12 pounds; that is, 12 pounds persquare inch less than the pressure of the atmosphere, or about three pounds above an absolute vacuum. Under these conditions the volume of the steam will be much dilated, and issuing through a passage, say of ten square inches area, it would exert a pressure of three pounds per square inch on that area, or, all together, thirty pounds, which pressure would give it a certain velocity and force. Now if this force could without loss be concentrated upon an certain velocity and force. Now if this force could without loss be concentrated upon an area of one square inch, it would be equivalent to twice the atmospheric pressure of fifteen pounds on that surface. By condensing the steam, however, this and more is accomplished. The bulk of such steam is reduced at least seven thousand times when it is condensed into water, and thus, even when it is mingled with enough water to condense it, it will pass out of the instrument into the air by an aperture 1-7000 as large as that by it, it will pass out of the instrument into the air by an aperture 1-7000 as large as that by which it entered the condenser and on which the light pressure of the steam was exerted. The passages being properly proportioned, therefore the condensed steam and water will be thus easily expelled into the air with force. It must be kept in mind that this contraction of area is not brought about by the resistance of the sides of the jet, but by the condensation of the steam, which takes nothing from its forward motion, any more than the running together of the any more than the running together of the passengers on a steamer would take from her forward velocity.

An interesting discussion followed, in which various members joined, and many facts of importance were elicited.

The report of Professor Morton, the Resident Secretary, was then read, in which mention was made of the blows through condenser and ejector of Mr. Barelay, of the casting and finishing of 150 cylinders, of 8½ feet diameter, for the Omaha bridge, by Mr. Harry Cartwright, of the Boomes Bridge Works, Chicago, and of numerous other engineering works and mechanical inventions. Professor Morton also read extracts from letters received from the Astronomer Royal, from Mr. Lockyer, the Abbé Moigen, and others, speaking in the highest terms of the photographs of the eclipse taken by the Philadelphia party, stating that a long discussion on them had occurred at the Institute of France. Prof. R. E. Rogers exhibited the Carré ice apparatus, and blocks frozen by a large machine of this sort, constructed at the works of Messrs, I. P. Morris & Co., and a new and interesting discussion followed, in Messrs. I. P. Morris & Co., and a new and most efficient magic lantern was exhibited by Mr. Marcy.

DEDICATION.—The new house of the Good Intent Hose Gompany, of Roxborough, on Hipple's lane, was dedicated yesterday afternoon. The building is of stone, two stories in height, and is surmounted with a tower from which a view of the country for miles can be obtained. The first story is the hose house, and the second story has been comfortably furnished as a hall for meeting purposes. Previous to the dedicatory ceremonies there was a parade composed of a squad of policemen under Lieut. John Kelly; the Good Intent Hose Company, with a new carriage, and the Independent Cornet Band, and the Manayunk Steam Fire Company. Upon reaching the house, firemen and cinzens assembled in the hall, and addresses were delivered by John Dolman, Esq., and Horatio Gates Jones, Esq. Bequests.—James Moore, recently decease d

ROBBERY AND ARREST.—The liquor store ROBBERY AND ARREST.—The liquor store of Bernard Corr, at Beach and Brown streets, was entered by boring through a back shutter, last night. The bartender, who was asleep in the place, was aroused by a noise, and captured a man named John Burns, who had on his person some tools, also about $20 in cash, which he had stolen from the money-drawer. Burns will have a hearing at the Central Station this afternoon.

Central Station this afternoon.

STABLE BURNED—A frame stable attached to a brickyard on Montgomery avenue, east of Ridge avenue, was totally destroyed by fire about two o'clock this morning. Five horses, which were in the building at the time of the fire, perished in the flames. The firemen were on the ground early, but being unable to obtain water, could do nothing towards saving the building or its contents. The stable and horses belonged to James Cavin, whose loss will be about $2,000. Upon this there is no insurance. The fire was the work of an incendiary.

RAILROAD CLERKS' INSURANCE COMPANY The clerks in railroad offices assembled this morning at the Washington House for the purpose of forming a mutual life insurance company. There was not a very large attendance, and, without transacting any business, the meeting adjourned until this atternoon. Suspended.—Policemen Thomas Evans and Suspended.—Poncemen Thomas Evans and John C. Martin, of the Sixth District, who were yesterday held to bail by Ald. Beitler for air assault and battery on Wm. J.
