Toll. Toll!-

Into my inmost soul The iron is sinking, and I am drinking Life from a treacherous bowl. Ever the same, same way, The people, the houses, the street and night and day an iron way Rolling beneath your feet. The monotone of the bells,

The weary horses' tramp, The midnight glare of the gaslit hells And the platform cheerless and dan The motley crowd in the car The mixture of gold and lead Of high and low and weak and strong Of squalor and rags and right and wrong-Often I wish I were dead!

Old and ugly and thin, Young and gentle and fair, Faces that hideons are with sin, And faces of love and prayer. Boll, roll, roll!-

Into my inmost sonl The iron is sinking, and I am thinking My brain is paying the toll ! A wife, a child, and a home-That is, a place to eat their bread-Are said to be mine by a law divine-

One that is seldom read ; For the "road" devours of my twen honrs, So much that to them I am dead! Bell, roll, roll!-

From out of my hollow soul A song is ringing beyond my singinglevond their human control Ever the same same way. Meeting we meaningless greet;

And night and day an iron way Slipping from under our feet.

A SCHOONER, illegally taking oysters out of the waters of Tangier Bay, Va., was chased by two steamers, with soldiers on board, when she came about suddenly, ran into and sunk the nearest steamtug, and then, while the others were rescuing the men in the water, the schooner ran off before a brisk stern breeze."

JUDGE ABELL, of the First District Criminal Court in New Orleans, has charged the Grand Jury of his Court in relation to frauds by which the State of Louisiana has lost hundreds of thousands of dollars on warrants supposed to-be-issued-for the relief of veterans who served under General Jackson at the battle of New Orleans.

THE N. Y. Daily News says Jay Gould was brought before the Grand Jury yesterday morning, and questioned regarding the recent gold corner. As the result of his testimony. Seneral Butterfield, sub-Treasurer, and A. B. Corbin, brother-in-law of President Grant, ogether with others, have been indicted for conspiracy.

THE River Improvement Convention at Portage City, Wis., adopted a resolution deelaring that a navigable connection between the Mississippi and the great lakes is a necessity; that such a route can be made through the 'ox and Wisconsin rivers; that the cost will not greatly exceed four millions of dollars, and hat the government should carry out the improvement.

In the Baptist State Convention at Reading, yesterday, the Rev. Dr. Swaine presented the sause of Home Missions; the Rev. J. V. Am-bler the cause of Foreign Missions, and the Rev. Dr. B.
