THE RIVER SCHEVERIL.—For several lies above the mouth of the Schuylkill there no bolder stream in the United States. It cems as though nature intended it to facili inte the pussage of the largest class of vessels. Even, at high or low water there is sufficient Even at high or low water there is sufficient depth close up to its towering banks or low markes to allow steam tags or ships to pass sliong, close enough to throw a line ashore. This description refers more particularly to that part of this river that reaches nearly to Gray's Ferry. There are between this point had the mouth of the stream fiftrate sixty feet of water in the channel at high tide. The Schuylkill empties into the Detaware just west of League Island, and the back channel extends from it in an easterly direction. This channel receives most of the water of Hollander's Creek, the head of which is within a half-mile of dwelling houses in the First Ward. the First Ward.

the First Ward.

Since the recent freshet more than ordinary interior has been paid to this locality, particularly by shippers and others heavily engaged in the transportation of petroleum. The place where the Pehrose Ferry bridge was located to the termination of Moyameusing avenue, which commences at Second and Christian streets. It was known among the older settlers with Pope Ferry road, simply because, until streets. It was known among the older settlers as the Rope Ferry road, simply because, until within the last twelve or fifteen years, a rope was stretched across the Schuylkill at the ferry and passage was effected over the stream on an old scow by means of pulling on this rope. The central part of the rope was foined by a chain, which sunk to the bed of the river, and thus formed no obstruction to the navigation. This locality was a poor place to erect a bridge, because, in times of great feshers, which occur almost annually in the Schuylkill, a tremendous eddy is formed that thirls around against the western bank. It was the codying water that recently demolished sone of the paers, although great care was taken one of the piers, although great care was taken in the construction of this mass of masonry. As any other bridge at this point; depending upon piers for a foundation, would be destroyed from the same cause which befel the present one, the city authorities are giving more than usual attention to the subject.

Mr. Dickinson, the Chief Commissioner of Highways, a practical mechanic; fortunately possessing fine constructive powers, has been "interviewed." He has come to the conclusionative between the conclusion of the c sion that a bridge located at the old ferry would always entail an indefinite amount of expense to the city. For temporary uses he favors the introduction of a steamer, which can be run continually between the two points, at no more expense than is required to pay watchmen to attend the bridge. Such an arrangement as this would certainly facilitate the immense amount of business done on the Schuylkill. All obstructions could then Schuylkill. All obstructions could then be removed, and the stream be left free as nature made it, for commercial advantages. A new bridge could be built at Gibson's Point, some distance further up the stream, so as to connect Fifty-fourth street, which is now being opened, graded and paved. When such a brdge is completed, then the steamboat ferry may be abandoned, without any detriment to public travel. In view of the improvements at League travel. In view of the improvements at League Island, as a naval station and the prospect of converting the Point Breeze Park into building lots, it would be well if the authorities

NEW BRANCH OF A RAILROAD.—The new branch of the Baltimore Central Bailroad, exbranch of the Baltimore Central Baltroad, ex-tending from Lamokin station on the Phila-delphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad, to the old intersection of the Philadelphia and West Chester road, has proven to be a great convenience to the many residents who reside near Chester creek. This is a romantic stream of water, and decidedly crooked. The branch of water, and decidedly crooked. The branch road, seven miles in length, crosses the creek four or five times, and passengers who delight to view a panorama wild in the luxuriousness of nature here have an ample opportunity. Mr. Henry Wood, for many years the General Superintendent of the West Chester Road, is President of the new road. He is pushing business with his proverbial energy. This branch connects with the Baltimore Central, near the old intersection, from which point it passes through Oxford to the Susquehanna, where it turns and runs along that stream until it reaches the Baltimore Road at Perryville. Of course this route opens a new section of country, and since being established, private improvements have sprung up as though by improvements have sprung up as though by magic. Persons desiring to reach any locality magic. Persons desiring to reach any locality through which the road passes can take the train at Broad street and Washington avenue, instead of at West Philadelphia as formerly. It is probable that part It is probable that next season a series of excursions will be inaugurated, by which parties can reach the beautiful Susquehanna in a few hours, where nature unfolds to the vision many scenes of attraction which cannot help proving to be as interesting as novel to thou sands of our citizens.

Well Guarded.—After the reception of the verdict in the Brooks case on Saturday night, Hugh Mara and James Dougherty, the convicted defendants, were taken to the Central Station and locked up. Every necessary precaution was taken to prevent an escape or an attempted rescue. One hundred policean attempted rescue. FATAL RESULT.—Philip Goodman, driver of a milk wagon, who was found, seriously injured, lying on the track of the Germantown Railroad, near Tioga Station, last evening, died at the Fourteenth District Police Station last night about 11 o'clock. It is supposed that he attempted to drive his wagon across the track in front of a train. The deceased resided at Nicetown Lane and Summer street, and leaves a wife and four children.

At an early hour yesterday morning both exabilishments were entered by thieves and were robbed of provisions, liquors, clothing and a small amount of money.

The flames were extinguished before any serious damage had been done. Coal oll was found scattered about the premises, and therefore the fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary.

LARCENY -- Mary Brown has been committed by Alderman Bonsall to answer the charge of the larceny of $10 from William H. Smith. The complainant alleges that he was enticed into a house in the neighborhood of Seventh and Shippen streets, by Mary, and was then relieved of his money.

NEW JERSEY MATTERS.

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION .- On the 24th of October, 1769, one hundred years ago, two eminent divines, belonging to the class of-fol-lowers of John Wesley, the founder of Meth-odism, landed at Gloucester City, on the Delaware. The year previously a society of Methodists was established in New York and another in Philadelphia. These societies were destitute of funds, and also needed preachers, destitute of funds, and also needed preachers, as their organization and doctrines were new, and needed means and advocates. They made known their wants to Mr. Wesley, who immediately acquainted the Conference, which was in session at Leeds, of their desire, and that body raised them fifty pounds in money. The two missionaries above alluded to namely: Richard Boardman and Rev. Mr. Pilmore, voluntaired their services to come to America and teered their services to come to America and preach, and on the day designated they landed at Gloncester Point. Boardman went to New York and Pilmore remained in Philadelphia. Yesterday was the centennial anniversary of their landing, and the occasion was taken advantage of by the Methodist Church of that place, who observed the day in an appropriate manner. Eminent ministers from various places were present, and the ceremonies throughout the day were of the most interesting character. The attendance was very SOLDIERS' MONUMENT .- Post No. 6, Grand Army of the Republic, of Camden, have com-pleted the arrangements for creeting a suitable monument to the soldiers from Camden county who fell in the war of the rebellion. The cost is calculated at $6,000, of which sum the Board of Chosen Freeholders will pay $2,000, having agreed to do so. The rest will be procured by the Post. The work of preparing and shaping the shaft is now in progress.

DEDICATION.—To-morrow the new hall belonging to Wildey Lodge, No. 91, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of Camden, will be dedicated to the uses of the Lodge with appropriate ceremonies, which will continue throughout the day. In the morning a grand parade will take place of members in full regalia, who will march through many of the principal streets, and in the evening a grand ball will come off.

THE COURTS.—It is thought that the Courts of Camden county will probably get through with the business of the term the present week. A much larger number of prisoners will be sentenced to the State Prison than at SABBATH VIOLATORS.—Yesterday afternoon five young lads from Philadelphia were arrested in Camden for playing ball contrary to law. They were committed for a hearing.

ROME. Father Hyacinthe's Defence in the Council. The Bulletin du Diocèse de Reims, France, publishes the following note from the Arch bishop: Certain journals have announced that the Archbishop of this city, together with several French bishops, would undertake the defence of Father Hayacinthe at the Commenical Council. The Archbishop has not protested against such an assertion, because he is per fectly decided, on principle, to reply only by silence, saving in certain exceptional cases, to the insinuations of the press. That, in fact, is the only method in these times to avoid placing his speech at the complete discretion of journalism.
