In fact, I have been for some time a member of one of the numerous troupes that are now gyrating round the suburbs of the great metropolis. We were a detachment of a brilliant company which had delighted great and fashionable audiences in the city. But troubles having arisen in the parent stem, and went off "on our ear" to astonish the rustics of the Northwest. Of course, our company was the very best that could be got together, and we have succeeded in persuading the best critics of every village we visited that the tragdey of Hainlet was never before per-HAVRE DE GRACE, Nov. 2. the tragdey of Hamlet was never before per-

But the rural populations are not to be relied on. They understand the principles of deadheading even better than the people of Chicago, and that is saying a great deal., They fleece us unmercifully at the hotels, drag as into all kinds of expensive convivialities, charge enormous rents for the dingiest halls, and then send their young ones to peep at us through a crack in the wall. The kind of notoriety to which we are subjected is thus flattering, but ruinous. We get ahead at one town, and we go a hundred dollars below zero at the next.

Our manager, however, is a humorous kind of fellow, and he bears all these whips and appirs of fortune with remarkable fortitude: I am afraid his experience as a manager has and spirs of fortune with remarkable fortitude: I am afraid his experience as a manager has and spirs of fortune with remarkable fortitude: I am afraid his experience as a manager has and spirs of fortune with remarkable fortitude: I am afraid his experience as a manager has and spirs of fortune with remarkable fortitude: I am afraid his experience as a manager has and spirs of fortune with remarkable fortitude: I am afraid his experience as a manager has and spirs of fortune with remarkable fortitude: I am afraid his experience as a manager has and spirs of fortune with remarkable fortitude: I am afraid his experience as a manager has and spirs of fortune with remarkable fortitude: I am afraid his experience as a manager has and spirs of fortune with remarkable fortitude: I am afraid his experience as a manager has and spirs of fortune with remarkable fortitude: I am afraid his experience as a manager has and spirs of fortune with remarkable fortitude: I am afraid his experience as a manager has a manager ha
