Pennsylvania Soldiers' Orphans. [Special Despatch to the Phila. Evening Bulletin.] HARRISBURG, Nov. 9, 1869.—Colonel George F. McFarland, State Superintendent of Soldiers' Orphans' Schools, has just issued the following circular, which is calculated to gladden the hearts of the many orphans in Pennsylvania left by the defenders of our Pennsylvania left by the defenders of our country. This is the second document of this character issued by Colonel McFarland since

"While all the people of our most highly-favored State and nation have abundant cause to the most humble and grateful acknowledg-ments, none have more than the Soldiers' Orphans of Pennsylvania and their careorphans of Fennsylvania and their care-takers. The first knowledge of the murder was obtained by Mayor Brush shortly before seven o'clock this morning. The Mayor was coming down Fifth avenue to the office, when he was overtaken by Campbell, who had his little boy, aged about three years, in his arms. He stopped the Mayor and stated that his wife had accidentally fallen down stairs and killed herself, and that, fearing some of the neighbors might accuse him of providing her he would true him of the floor of the kitchen. Evidence sufficient to satisfy the officers that a brutal murder had been committed was seen at a glance, and placing the child in care of a neighbor, they proceeded at once to the lock-up with their prisoper. They then informed the Mayor of what they had discovered, and several officers were despatched to take charge of the house.
