Stocker commercial communities? Before proceeding to a practical encloation of the above equation I assert that the Sinking Fund act of 1862, although perfect as far as the absolute payment of the debt is a question, is nevertheless defective—that is, unjust and unequal in its action. What follows will be sufficient to affirm my position. By the act of 1862, detrimental to those who would maintain it. The parlor is richly furnished with planos, and on learning that I desired to be shown through the car, arose and accompanied me. We first visited a handsome parlor on the same floor, seventy feet wide and a hundred and sixty feet long, detrimental to those who would maintain it. The parlor is richly furnished with planos, and other costly furniture, and cient to affirm my position. By the act of 1862 one per cent. of the debt—say $25,000,000— Do they recollect that every banking institugives an annual sinking fund of $25,000,000 ton is filled with those obligations, and that the walls are hung with the finest oil paintings the market can afford. The third and fourth stories which we also visited, are ocspecified by the poor man who must shoulder the loss. $150,000,000 per annum for interest is $175,000,000 of tax. This is our national debt tax for 1870 upon 40,000,000 population. $25,000,000 per annum will pay $2,500,000,000 the debased currency will be left in the hands n thirty-four years—say in the year 1904.

Let us bide our time; wheneve have built up a little more credit, and are reafy to take a low loan, it will be sought after. We have already signs of impatience to get hold of a forty-year loan at four per cent.

The uprimary step already initiated for the payment of our debt is the only sound and irrefutable and practicable one that human inguisity can devise. All capitalists know it to be such. pose. As the expessive of a model Lock and Key to public examination would impair, if not destroy, its utility for the mails, the Department prescribes no model for bidders; but relies for its selection on the specimens of mechanical skill and ingenuity which a fair competition among inventors, hereby invited, may develop. It is sufficient to describe the principal requisites of a Mail-Lock, as follows: Self-Locking uniformity, security, lightness, strength, durability, novelty of construction and facility of use. Two kinds of Locks and Keys; one of brass and the other of iron, different in exterior form and interior construction or arrangement, are required; the Proposals should specify separately the price of each brass Lock, each Key for same; each iron Lock, and each kind of Locks and Keys proposed are required to be submitted with the Proposals; one of each kind of Locks and Keys proposed are required to be submitted with the Proposals; one of each, Bample Lock to be riveted up and finished, and another to be open or unriveted, so that its internal structure and arrangement may easily be examined. Every sample should be plainly marked with the bidder's name, and, if the same or any part of it be covered by a patent the date of such patent and the and, if the same or any part of it be covered by a patent, the date of such patent, and the name of the patentee must also be attached name of the patentee must also be attached thereto.

The internal plan or arrangement of the Locks offered, and the particular shape of the Key requisite to open them, must not be like any now or heretofore in use.

They must be warranted not to infringe apon or conflict with any patented invention of which the bidder is not the patentee. Preference will be given to a Lock, the Key of which has not been exposed to general observation, or been publicly described, disclosed, or suggested. or suggested.

A decision on the various specimens and Proposals will be made on or before the 3d day of MARCH, 1870; and, unless the Postnaster-General shall deem it to be best for the nterests of the Department to reject all th Proposals and specimens submitted under this advertisement (a right hereby expressedly readvertisement (a right hereby expressedly reserved to him), contracts will be entered into; as soon thereafter as practicable, with the successful bidder whose Locks shall be adopted, for furnishing similar Locks and keys for four years, as they may be required and ordered. If mutually agreed to in writing by the contractor and the Postmaster-General for the time being, not less than six months before its expiration, the contract may be extended and

The Ministers, foreign am-bassadors and many distinguished persons bassadors and many distinguished persons were present. Mr. Gladstone replied to the toast—"Her Majesty's Ministers." On rising he was loudly cheered, and returned thanks for the honor, and said the good feeling of citizens towards the Government was an indication of the common sentiments pervading the In the course of his remarks he said: It is satisfactory to know that throughout the country one sentiment prevails in respect to the Queen, the laws and the institutions of this country. But let us not seek a fool's consolation in blinding ourselves to the fact that across the channel we see an island to-day united to us in political and legislative bands; how melancholy, in the face of this great assembly, to be compelled to confess that this island, which we have governed for seven hundred years, and BUN RISES, 6 40 | SUN BETS, 4 49 | HIGH WATER, 7 to be compelled to confess that this island, which we have governed for seven hundred years, and over which we have exercised almost unbounded power, has not yet fulfilled the first conditions of a civilized community, and has not been brought into harmony with our laws and institutions. It is almost unnecessary to remind you that we were called to office in connection with this important crisis in the affairs of Iteland—a crisis to which the mind of the country was more seriously addressed than formerly towards making endeavors to put an end to what has been a problem and a speck on the fair fame of our country for so speck on the fair fame of our country for so many generations. In Ireland we see society politically diseased. We see a people of noble capacity and quick susceptibility, whose heart. many cases, does not beat with warm and ively attachment to her sister countries, and who do not in all respects yield to the authority of laws which we gladly recognize on this side of the channel. This year has been marked by an augmentation of agrarian outrages there, which this country is singularly free from.

To those connected with these outrages it would suggest that theirs is not the way to attain success in the Legislature. The committers of outrages are emenies to the interests of the country.

We are glad to be cheered in our own endeavors to give all of Ireland that strength and unity which a considerable portion of the signal now enjoys, and for that end we shall labor, encouraged by our generous countrymen. In regard to our foreign policy it would be idle to say that this Department of affairs has small interest for England.
