Posterial Respiration on Officer 18.

The solid price of the property of th hours I have seen him, with his Chief of Stan, holding an insecure plank in its place until all his cavalry had pass over the bridge. On any other occasion, while watching the movements of a party engaged in destroying a lock of the James River Canal, I could detect a sympathetic inclination of his body corresponding to excludation; on our side gloom and deaked acts and levers of the destroying party. His fertility of resources in overcoming obstacles was remarkable. Every command operating independently should have attached to it an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an officer of the Corps of Engineers; I do not remember that Sheridan had such an offic been sent out from Petersburg with a pontoon been sent out from Petersburg with a pontoon of the forth train for the purpose of bridging the Dan and Staunton rivers, in order to facilitate the movements of Sheridan's troopers in the direction of North Carolina, reported that, in some unaccountable manner, Sheridan had got across both rivers, and only availed himself of the success that it was a consequence, they were seldom betrayed.

In regard to contemplated movements Sheridan was extremely reticent; with the exception of his Chief' of Staff he seldom confided his plants to any one, and, as a consequence, they were seldom betrayed.
