An old correspondent writes to us: "Are you not in error in condemning our Medical Colleges for advocating separate clinics for the two sexes?" It is difficult to imagine how lan guage could more explicitly define the position of the EVENING BULLETIN, and indeed of the public press generally, in favor of separate clinics than has already been done. We advocated separate clinics long before the medical gentlemen moved in the matter at all, and of course we have not condemned them for doing the same thing. No word has been written in this paper that can be so construed. We have criticized, as we have the right to do, what is almost universally regarded as a grave failure to meet their proper responsibility on the part of those who, either from old prejudice against the whole idea of female weening anxiety to conciliate some cago will-be-brought into direct communivery ill-mannered students, have thrown all eation, by an almost straight line, with Nashthe weight of their influence on the side of a series of unpardonable insults to a number of defenceless women. The question of mixed clinics or separate clinics is altogether a different issue. The press and public opinion went much in advance of the medical profession upon that point, and it is somewhat remarkable, after the very distinct sentiments expressed repeatedly in this paper on the subject, that any intelligent reader should have ablishment of an extra sevarate clinic for proper manipulation of the Company's securi-

TRIEBIIGH-BACKED CAR.

'The "High-backed car," lately introduced on the Spruce and Pine streets road, seem to meet with steadily increasing disfavor, and we are in the daily receipts of requests from old.

Bunting, Durborow & Co., Auctioneers, Nos. 232 and 234 Market street, will hold during next week, by catalogue, the following important sales, viz.:

On Monday, November 29, at 10 o'clock, on four months' credit, about 320 tots of French and British Dry Goods, including Staple and Fancy Dress Goods, Silks, are in the daily receipts of requests from old are in the daily receipts of requests from old citizens along the line that we will plead for them with the railway company for relief. The "High-backed car" has certainly some very serious disadvantages to the public, whatever benefit it may afford to the company. The principal faults about it are: First, it requires the driver to have eyes in the back of his head. He must give his undivided attention to the horses before him, and the passengers behind him. Comparatively few drivers are constructed on this pattern. Second, it requires the passengers, in case there is a crowd, as on opera nights, to be transparent, in order that

We believe the large majority of the conductors are civil and decent, NO WARRED WARREDOW and would be honest if their employers would allow them to be. WESTERN RAILROAD ENTERPRISE Nothing marks the national enterprise of the American people so strongly as the rapid extension of the internal communications between all sections of the country. As we note, from time to time, the fresh additions to "The iron threads we spin

Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Missouri are now Middle States, and there we find the greatest activity in projecting and building new railroads to facilitate the concentration of the trade of the Great Valley.

A few days ago we called attention to a new railroad, bisecting the fertile prairies of Iowa, and we have now another equally important enterprise which is pushing southward from restless, and almost resistless Chicago, far down to Vincennes, Evansville and Nashville. The radii of railroads whose centre lies at Chicago, already lie as close together as the spokes of a flying wheel, but there was one very rich and important region of country yet to be reached. and this is now being covered by the Chicago, Danville and Vincennes road, running due south, through the eastern tier of counties in Illinois to Danville, where it diverges slightly to the southeast, meeting the Evansville and Crawfordsville road at the State line, and so forming a connection with Evansville, Indiana, now the most important shipping point on the Ohio river. The Evansville, Henderson and Nashville road will be open by the time the new Illinois road is completed, and thus Chi-

It is this overselling of the market which defeats its own object and puts the market at the mercy of such combinations as that which liet. September ran the price from 132 to 165.

The reaction in gold was also a sequence of the more active tone of foreign exchange, which became firm with its decline. The importors have been large buyers both to-day and yesterlay, the orders to the brokers being quite general to take gold at 124 to 125. The complement of each transaction has strengthened the demand for bills to remit by Saturday's steamer, and the bankers advanced their rates an eighth per cent.

The money market was easy at fix to seven per cent, on stocks, and the to six on governments.
