SENSATIONAL REPORTING. The time was when this kind of reporting was considered of para-mount importance to the existence of "the penny papers. and it was frequently indulged in. Much tace was re quired to achieve success. The mere business of jotting down plain facts in the plainest kind of language required no talent whatever, but to write out a real sensa tional item, based upon that which seemed to be true could not be intrusted to everyone not possessed o original genius. There was at one time, in the carlier original genius. There was at one time, in the carrier day of local reporting, a perfect dearth of news, and the reporters were in reality driven to their wits' onds in order to appears the demands of the newspaper proprietors and the public. A happy expedient was but upon, which resulted in exciting the community for almost nine days. A vest with a slit cut in that part of it which would cover the region of the heart of the wearer, was found early in the morning, on the sidewalk, near South street and Passyunk road, the boundary line between the "city proper" and the District of Southwark. There was a small quantity of blood upon it. Drops of the same material were traced to the mouth of an inlet of the culvert not far distant, and upon a closer examination, the bent iron bar which extended across the mouth thereof was also bloody, and everal strands of human hair were discovered sticking to it by the adhesive power of the sanguine fluid, which to it by the adhesive power of the sanguine must, which had by this time become hard and dry.

The developments caused any amount of excitement, and crowds upon crowds of people, of all, ages, sexes colors and conditions, assembled in the vicinity, and many theories were advanced, but, though very differ-ent, all concluded that a horrible murder had been committed. One old colored woman, while sitting up with a sick child, at about one o'clock in the morning, heard the cry of nurder—not an unusual thing in that vicinity at that time. But one of the Southwark night watch was at Fifth and South streets when the clock struck one on the morning in question, and was wide awake, as he averred, but did not hear the appalling cry. The news of the "horrible and atrocious murder"—a "deeply-mysterious assassination," spread with rapility, and thousands of persons congregated there. The Mayor of the city and a number of hi licemen arrived in due time; the vest was examined but there was no mark or anything else about it calculated to lead to identification. The detective force took the matter in hand, but could not gain a single poin wherewith to solve the mystery. The vest was made o a man much above the medium size, so large, indeed, that it must have been a difficult job to thrust such a sized person into the aperture of the inlet. While all sorts of speculation was rife, the Mayor ordered the sewer to be searched, and two or three men were employed for this purpose. The subterranean passage-way was entered and thoroughly examined, but no corpse was found. It was thought, however, that perhaps the murdered body. had been swept' away by the current or flow in the sower, the water being nearly two feet deep, and the search was continued during the day and part of the next day, lamps being used to assist the men under-ground. Finally all hope of finding the body was bandoned, and in the course of time subject was forgotten, the people. as well as the Mayor, Coroner and Policemen, concluding that the whole thing was nothing more nor less than a heax. A pretty shrewd officer, who had some experience in the detective line, quently intimated, to several reporters, that he be lieved one of them had "put up the job" simply to gratify a desire to convulse the community, and to make the newspapers sell to more than an ordinary extent. At all events, the affair caused as great a sensation as did the story of the "gum man" and his "sticking plaster," of a more recent date. THE MONEY ORDER SYSTEM.—Postmaster

Order Department, as will be seen by the accompanying letter:

Post Office, Philadelphia, Pa., November 20, 1889.

Siv. I have the honor most respectfully to submit that it is my purpose during the approaching winter months (and if found of service, to continue indefinitely), to hold open the Money-Order Department at this office, on Wednesdays and Eaturdays, until 8 P. M., in order that the laboring class of the community may, without serious business inconvenience, avail themselves of the money-order system and thus secure a safe transmission of their moneys. In addition to the benefit which will accrue to the proper class of the people from this convenience. A will keep out of the mails a large number of money letters, which are a continual temptation to post-office employes and the source of almost every postal loss. Will you be pleased to inform me as to whether your department has any objection to the proposed change in the hours of keeping open the Money-Order Department at this office.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant, HERRY H. BINGHAM. Postmaster, Hen. Geo. Earle, First Assistant Postmaster General, Washington, D. C.

P. E. CHURCH OF THE MESSIAH.—There is in the southwestern part of our city a large field for bristian liberality and labor. GENERAL REFORMED CHURCH OF THE UNI-TED STATES.—The devotional exercises of the Synod were opened this morning by Rev. Dr. Stern, who announced a hymn, which was ong in German by the audience. Prayer was also offered in German. The roll was called by the Secretary, when a quorum of members answered to their names.

The substitute offered by Rev. Dr. Williard to the report of the Committee on Ritual was again considered.

It was as follows:

Resolved, That the Liturgy of the Reformed Church submitted to them by the Synods of Ohlo and the Northwest, together with the order of worship of the Eastern Synod, be submitted to the several classes for their approval or disapproval according to the Constitution, and that 'in the meanwhile the optional use of both be allowed in the Church. Neither of these Liturgies shalt, however, in any case be introduced in the regular order of service without the formal consent of the consistory and congregation.

Rev. Dr. Bomberger gave a few leading weather.

Rev. Dr. Bomberger gave a few leading reasons in favor of the amendment. He was sorry that there should have entered into the debate the personal feelings of some of the members. He was sorry that there should be any autagonistic movement among the members at the present time. This evil originated as far back as fifteen years ago, and has been working or exerting its influence since that time. He was in favor of the amendment of Dr. Williard for this reason. For twelve years this evil has been tolerated in the face of the Constitution. Shall this war never end? Shall the battle never cease? Had there been some error sprung upon us by some strange teacher, such as the advocates of Arian-ism or Unitarianism teach, the speaker believed that there was not a brother on the side opposite to his wn but who would have repelled the error. Error has been mixed with the Liturgical movement, and it is but right that the evil should be repelled. It had been but right that the evit should be repelled. It had been charged that names had been placed on memorials advocating the duty of opposing the new order of things, but the speaker contended that these were circulars issued by the friends of the Liturgical movement within a short distance of some of the churches friendly to the movement, who had circulated documents of this kind, and therefore the charges thus made he would repel.

to the movement, who had circulated documents of this kind, and therefore the charges thus made he would repel.

Ret. Dr. Nevin said such disposition of the subject would be highly discourteous to all three district Synods. Much has been said about the sacred right of petition; stress bas been laid, and rightly too, on even the seventy memorials which have been sent up from a fragmentary part of the Church (although many of the names have been surreptitiously obtained). Nowthen, can we refuse the petition of the three district Synods. They all ask that the Western Liturgy be put on the same basis as the Order of Worship! How dare we ignore this petition? The report of the Committee grants the request of these three Synods.

This Synod is bound, before sending an ordinance down to the classes for approval or rejection, itself to pass upon said ordinances, and not leave it to the classes. We propose to send the liturgies down to the people to test their adaptation to our wants. It is easy enough to see that sending them to the classes for adoption or rejection would produce an endless agitation and the failure of both liturgies.

Rev. Dr. Apple opposed the amendment offered by Dr. Williard, and contended that before they could send the liturgies down to the classes would not help the matter. Handing them down to these bodies would be to defeat both of them. It will be dangerous for the Synod to let these documents out of their hands, and thus have no control over them. The evident design of the amendment is not to encourage and foster the Liturgical movement: in the Church, but to choke off the movement.

Bey. Mr. Reinhart followed in a few remarks, contending that the subject was one which claimed the attention of the whole Church.

Rev. Mr. Eabauch said that it was a fact that a large portion of the congregation here worshipping had been aggrieved by the establishment of a particular form of Liturgy, and contended that therefore the results had been for evil.

Liturgy, and contended that therefore the results had been for evil.

Dr. Giesy, pastor of the congregation, said he could speak more definitely on the subject under dispute than perhaps could be done by any other memberon the floor, and said that the order of worship had never caused difficulties in his congregation. The pastor made no effort to introduce the order of worship into the Church. He utterly denied any such attempt on his part.

Hev. Dr. Miller questioned the propriety of prolonging the debate, and desired that the Synod come to a vote immediately. He would be in favor of laying the amendment on the table, and that a committee of conference should be appointed. He would also be in favor of the Synod dissolving, that the members might meet and agree upon some union by which the parties could agree. The vote on the smendment was then moved, when a division of the question was called for.

The vote on the first resolution was then taken—the special consent of the house to that effect having been given. It was lost by a vote of 81 to 101.

A vete was then taken on the next resolution, resulting in the defeat of the same by a vote of 105 to 76.

The vote then recurred on the original resolutions (already published).

"THERE'S NOTHING LIKE LEATHER."

"There's Nothing Like Leather."

This maxim is old, but sound to the root;
There's nothing like leather to make a fine boot;
There's nothing like leather to make a fine boot;
To keep out the weather, the rains and the snows,
There's nothing like leather—as the story goes.
Friend Halwag, at five thirty-five on A reh street,
Wields a masterly hand to clothe human feet
In goed well-tanned 'kip,' or chil'skin so fine,
As only a master can do in this line;
In books and shoes he has a full store,
And orders can fill too as many more—
Supply all the gents and the boys in the town,
For he's a son of 8t. Crispin, of great renown.
The old and the young on Helwag should call;
F. Crispin has named him the R Night of the Awl;
Examine his boots which are pieced there in pairs;
He fills orders prompily—does work very fast;
He miads his own business, and sticks to his last;
He'll fit you with boots—so easy they feel—
To the instep or ball, to the toe or the heel,
That clothing your feet in fond fashion's array,
You can gracefully walk throughout the long day;
If your "foot's protty," then you can just "show it."
This we give graits—he word of the poet;
For Halwed's the man to fit you all right
With the best of boots—not too loose nor too tight;
His boots, shore, or gaiters, for all kinds of wear,
Are made of all fabrics, selected with care,
And sold at low rates within the reach of all.
There so nothing like leather whon made into shoes,
Boots, gaiters or pumps—het as we may choose;
Hore's nothing like having these things to fit well—
A subject on which we would long like to dwell;
But time and space, both taken together,
Just leave room to say "there's nothing like leather."
