Up to last week it had been understood that Sir Curtis Lampson, Bart, and Mr.Chas.Reed, M.P., would accompany the remains to Danvers, but the arrival of Mr. Russell, who comes out as the eldest male representative of the family, to take charge of the body, renders this mark of honor no longer necessary. The coffin will be deposited in the state saloon, which is draped in black, and cabins are fit-ted for Mr. Russell and for Mr. Peabody's personal servant, who was with him when he died. The Mayor had desired to arrange a public procession through the town, but it is public procession through the town, but it is understood that the executors wish this to be avoided, if possible. I answered "No;" he said, "You are a Black Republican; you ain't one of us; you don't belong to our crowd, and I'll betten dollars you have not voted the Democratic tacket for years;" I went out to the front door; he came after me and said, "You are a Black Republican and I'll take you employe" he hit Republican, and I'll take you anyhow;" he hit me in the face, dragged me to Tenth and Market streets, and struck me three times before I got to Twelfth and Market streets: at that corner I called on another officer for protection; finally I was taken to the station-house." Trading for a Wife.

The Cincinnati Commercial says: While the trial of the ejectment suit of Taylor's heirs vs. Hornbeck and others was progressing before a jury, in the Court house, in Newport, Kentucky, a singular transaction was disclosed by the evidence, which created not a little surprise and merriment in the Court room. The defendants called a witness by room. The defendants called a witness by the name of Isaac Yelton for the purpose of impeaching the testimony of a witness named William Orcutt, who had testified on behalf of the plaintiffs. After the direct examination of Yelton was concluded, he was turned over to Mr. Carlisle, one of the attorneys for the plaintiffs, for cross-examination, when the following evidence was elicited:

Attorney—Are you and Orcutt on good erms? Witness—Yes, sir. Attorney—Did you never have any quarrel or difficulty?

Witness—No, sir; we never did.

Attorney—Did you not take Orcutt's wife away from him and run away with her; and did you not have a difficulty with him about that? Witness-I never took his wife away from Attorney—Did not you and a man named Gosney take his wife away?

Witness—His wife went away with me and Gosney, but we did not take her away from Orcutt. There was no difficulty at all about it; it was all satisfactory. I traded him a horse for his wife, but I found that I had been imposed on, and I returned her to him, and it was all right. There was no quarrel or difficulty about it.

Attorney—How were you imposed upon?
Witness—I traded the horse for his wife, but he put on me beside two children and a dog;
so I returned her to him. I do not mean that he cheated me in the trade, for the transaction was all fair; but he imposed on me—he got the best of the bargain. I had no use for the two children and the dog.

This testimony was given with the utmost coolness, and in a manner which indicated that the witness regarded the transaction as entirely legitimate and proper. He is a man that the witness regarded the transaction as entirely legitimate and proper. He is a man of ordinary intelligence and has been for a long time a constable in the upper end of Campbell county. After having rescinded the contract with Orcutt we presume that he is now prepared to consider any new proposition that may be submitted to him. Gentlement who would rather winter a horse than tlemen who would rather winter a horse than a wife might find it to their advantage to give him a call, but they must bear in mind that he declines to deal in children or dogs.
