DEATH WARRANT WITHDRAWN.

Nothwithstanding the unmerciful personal abuse that has been heaped upon Governor Geary and the Attorney-General by intemperate zealots and private enemies, his Excellency has promptly issued his official order withdrawing the death warrant of Dr. Shoeppe, in response to a notice that the case has been removed by writ of error to the Supreme Court. This interesting case, which has attracted so much attention among all classes of the community, is now thrown open to fresh legal investigation, and there can be little doubt that the Supreme Court, insisting, as all courts should, in capital cases especially, to the side of humanity, will grant a new trial to the accused.

We shall, on a future occasion, lay before our readers some of the extraordinary difficulties that beset the Executive in the administration of his pardoning prerogative. It is not fully understood by the community, and we propose to lay such facts before the public as will astonish those who have never had occasion to look particularly into the branch of duties of the Governor of Pennsylvania.

The withdrawal of the death warrant of Dr. Shoeppe, as we have good reason to know, is a great relief to the Governor and to his Attorney-General, both of whom are gentlemen who can have no any possible desire to be connected with the execution of any human being, so long as there is any grave doubt of his guilt, or any possible means to secure to him the very fullest benefits of the law left unrited. There is but one class of the community to whom the withdrawal of this death-warrant is distasteful, and that is the class composed of the original prosecutors of Dr. Shoeppe, whose interest in his death is measured by their eagerness to possess Miss Steinneke's money, and of a portion of the people of Carlisle, who have expressed an almost savage desire to see this young man hanged. This class is naturally roused to new excitement at the prospect of a new trial for Dr. Shoeppe. That trial, followed by the Supreme Court, as it seems almost certain that it will be, will, of course, be held elsewhere than in Cumberland county, and it will bring before the jury the mass of scientific evidence which clearly disproves the poisoning theory. The people will not be hot upon bringing Dr. Shoeppe to the scaffold are fearful that he may slip through their fingers, and his innocence be declared before the world, and they have concocted a most original and ingenious device to counteract the effect of the withdrawal of his death-warrant.

One Adam Tinsman is to be executed at Carlisle on the 22d inst. for the confessed murder of Henry Stahm. His case is a peculiar one, he having been sentenced to death upon his own plea of "guilty," without having gone through the form of a trial. Now, upon this ground, there might be some good reason to ask a reprieve for this man, and a petition is being circulated and signed in Carlisle, asking the Governor to reprieve Tinus. But upon what ground? Not because of the informality of his sentence, but because the people of Carlisle would prefer to have two men hang at once! They desire the Governor to keep Tinus for them until he can hang Dr. Shoeppe with him! They hope that by using Tinus for a bait they can troll Shoeppe back again into the noose. We have the names of several rather prominent inhabitants of Carlisle who have signed this remarkable document.

What unreasonable creatures these Cumberlanders must be! They had made up their minds to a grand ante-Christmas treat. They were to have a splendid double execution, just at Christmas eve. Probably they have arranged to festoon the scaffold with evergreens and to have Christmas carols chanted under the gallows by the children of the town. Just in the height of their merry preparations, down comes the order of the Governor, cutting down the entertainment to a single performance, and like spoiled children they all cry, out with one accord, "We don't want a single execution! If you won't hang Shoeppe we don't care about Tinus! It's no fun to see one man hung by himself! It isn't fair to make us wait small after New Year for our favorite victim! We won't have Tinus without Shoeppe! Take your old Tinus, and keep him to yourself, and then, if you find you have him on your hands, perhaps you'll give us Shoeppe, for the sake of working off Tinus!"

"Insatiate Carlisle! will not one suffice?"

But the subject is too grave for ridicule, even when it presents itself in this last ridiculous phrase. Governor Geary is not likely to be hood-winked by any such shallow manœuvre as this. It is so evidently intended to secure the execution of Shoeppe that its pretext of considering the sensibilities of the people of Carlisle, supposed to be more shocked by one hanging than by one and a double one, will have no weight with the Governor. As executions in Cumberland county are done privately, within the jail-yard, the delicate nerves of the signers of this petition need not be severely shocked in either case. Nothing is easier than to stay away from the jail when Tinus is to be executed, and then if these fastidious gourmands will only fancy that Dr. Shoeppe is dangling side by side with the confessed murderer of Henry Stahm, they will enjoy nearly as much as if they were actually witnessing his death struggles on the scaffold.

THE HONORABLE REPRESENTATIVES ON REPUDIATION.

Hon. William Mungen, Democratic representative of the Fifth Congressional district of Ohio, is a man whose name has not often figured in the debates. But he is entitled to the thanks of the honest portion of the people for having read a carefully written speech yesterday in favor of repudiating the national debt. Not that the speech was good or sound, but its results were splendid. His Republican colleague, Mr. Garfield, introduced a resolution as follows:

Resolved, That any proposition, direct or indirect, to repudiate any portion of the debt of the United States, is unworthy the honor and good name of the nation, and that this House, without distinction of party, hereby sets its seal of condemnation on any and all such propositions.

After some little debate, this resolution was adopted by a vote of 123 yeas to 1 nay. The negative voter was Mr. Jones, of Kentucky, for somehow Mr. Mungen had absented himself when the vote was taken, or else he was frightened at his own act in making such a speech; at all events, he is not reported as voting. Mr. Jones, in the debate, had taken occasion to say that he was not in favor of repudiation and probably never would be; but he voted against the resolution because he thought it ill-timed. Every other member present, however, thought differently, and now the country has on record the proud declaration of its House of Representatives, setting "its seal of condemnation" on all propositions pointing towards repudiation. It gives us pleasure to note the fact that Democrats vote with Republicans on this question. Having thus nobly defined its position, the House should frown upon all attempts of Mungen or others, in future, to waste time in useless speeches on repudiation.

THE UNIVERSITY.

Both branches of Councils have, at length, passed the ordinance selling to the University of Pennsylvania the ground required for the erection of its buildings on the Almshouse tract, at the rate of $8,000 per acre. This is an event highly creditable to the advanced and enlightened views of the gentlemen constituting the majority of Councils, and one which cannot but result in great advantage both to the cause of education and the interest of Philadelphia. The signature of the Mayor is probably, by this time, attached to the ordinance, and the Trustees of the University must now bestir themselves to enter on the noble work of transferring their great institution west of the Schuylkill. It has required time and labor to bring about this happy result, and now that it is accomplished, we look forward to the erection of such buildings and the endowment of such a University as will be worthy of the city which has thus testified its official appreciation of the cause of education in its highest developments.

The University of Pennsylvania, re-established upon its new, enlarged and unrestricted basis, will be the fit subject for the encouragement of our wealthy citizens. It must be made, in all respects equal to the best schools of America. Its chairs must be filled with the best talent that can be secured by generous endowments, and, keeping step with the most advanced progress of educational science, its future graduates will be glorious in their honors to the country, and a source of lasting and worthy pride to Philadelphia.

The University of California has just abolished all fees for admission or instruction. The people of the Pacific coast, with their enlarged views of the importance of a high grade of education for that young State, have so liberally endowed their University as to make it free and open to all students. Under the new dynasty of the University of Pennsylvania, it ought not to be long before we, too, shall be able to make an announcement similar to that of the Regents of the University of California. If the wealthy and liberal men and women of Philadelphia properly appreciate the public advantage to be derived from the establishment of such a University as is now in prospect, there will be such an endowment furnished as will raise it at once to the highest grade of the Universities of America, if not of Europe.

Among the many proud and aristocratic Democrats of Pennsylvania who made themselves conspicuous eight or nine years ago as sympathizers with the Southern rebels, how many are now to be found who hold a social or a business position as respectable as they then did? How many of them are as prosperous as they then were? How many of those of them who may still be called prosperous can, with all the power of wealth, still command votes enough to obtain an office of honor or trust? Even Asa Packer, the richest man in Pennsylvania, failed to be elected Governor, until the chief reason was that he had not been regarded as heartily in sympathy with the Government in its efforts to suppress the rebellion of the Southern politicians. Let any candid reader of this paper look around him and observe the men of his acquaintance who have prospered and those who have run down, in the past ten years, and he will find that those who have run down, or have failed—honorably or dishonorably—or who have swindled their confiding friends, or defrauded their clients, or otherwise reduced themselves to undeniable ignominy, were, in nearly every case, Southern sympathizers in 1860 and 1861. This may not be all a retribution ordered by Providence; but it is a striking fact at least, as connected with this population of Philadelphia, and any one can read the moral of it.

Whether the case of Mr. John Brehin, who has just parted with one hundred and four barrels of whisky to the United States, and who now applies for a new trial, will be promoted by the novel procedure of his counsel, remains to be seen. The motion for that new trial is based upon an allegation which seems very absurd upon its face, to the effect that Judge Cadwalader had improperly private talked with, and influenced the jury while they were considering their verdict.

We call this allegation absurd, because it presupposes Judge Cadwalader to be capable of a mean, underhand and highly unprofessional action,—a presumption so totally at variance with that gentleman's whole previous line of judicial record as to damage rather than to help the cause of Mr. Brehin in the eyes of most of those who have observed this singular proceeding. Judge Cadwalader was yesterday examined, with great minuteness, before Commissioner Henry Phillips, Jr., and gave a full and satisfactory account of his visit to the jury in question. It is somewhat mortifying that a proceeding of this sort should have been instituted against an officer whose character as an impartial and honorable judge has never been called in question. Mr. Gilpin does not appear to have pressed themselves with any malicious intent, and we presume, has only been actuated by an erroneous regard for the interests of his client.

We have received the first number of The Templar's Record, a weekly paper which is to be devoted to the cause of Temperance, and to the interests of the members of the Temperance organizations in this city and throughout the country. It is edited with considerable ability by Mr. O. L. Search, who has good reason to be proud not only of the literary excellence of his first number, but of the beauty of the typography. We recommend the sheet to the Temperance people in this community.

Death warrant Withdrawn.
(Special Despatch to the Philada. Evening Bulletin.)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 17.—Governor Geary has issued the following order withdrawing the death warrant of Dr. Schoeppe:

IN THE NAME, AND BY THE AUTHORITY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, JOHN W. GEARY, GOVERNOR OF THE SAID COMMONWEALTH.

Pennsylvania, ss.

[Signed] JOHN W. GEARY.

To Joseph C. Thompson, Esquire—High Sheriff of the County of Cumberland, Senatorial District: Know Ye That since issuing the warrant for the execution of Paul Schoppe, on Wednesday, the 15th day of December, A. D. 1869, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine, who had been convicted of the crime of murder in the first degree, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, held in and for the County of Cumberland, and sentenced by the said Court to be hanged, I have been officially informed by the Supreme Court of the said Supreme Court, in and for the Middle District of Pennsylvania, that a writ of error, under the seal of said Court, now remaining on file in the Office of the Prothonotary of the Commonwealth, that the case in which said Paul Schoppe was convicted, has been removed, by Writ of Error, to said Supreme Court.

You, the said Sheriff, and Thomas Hugh, High Sheriff as aforesaid, are therefore hereby authorized and required to countermand the said death-warrant for the execution of said Paul Schoppe to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, Henry Fleming Jordan, and for so doing this shall be your sufficient warrant.

Given under my hand and the great seal of the State, at Harrisburg, this fourteenth day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine, and of the Commonwealth the ninety-fourth.

By the Governor.

HENRY F. JORDAN,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Arrest of a Smuggler.
(By Hasson's News Agency.)

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Mr. T. H. Keefe, Special Inspector of Customs, arrived here to-day with a number of watches and diamonds at Schlesinger's auction store, on Randolph street, yesterday. They belonged to a man named J. N. Montgomery. He is supposed to have left Montreal, London, England, on the 12th of October last, for this country, on the Cunard line, which they represented to contain their wearing apparel, was passed at the Custom House officers at Port Huron, Michigan, after an ordinary search. The trunk contained a false bottom, but it was a false bottom to it, and inside the space were about $12,000 worth of jewelry, watches and diamonds. Montgomery was arrested shortly after the seizure, and taken before United States Commissioner Hoyne, who held him in $3,000 bail for trial.

Important Slander Case.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Mr. Beecher's slander case was brought yesterday afternoon before Judge Paine in the Common Pleas Court. Miss Eliza Bennett was the large portion of the defamation of her character laying her damages at $10,000. The plaintiff's counsel is Mr. Fullerton, and that of Mr. Shittenden & Co. The defendant belongs to the firm of Hazan & Wade, jewellers. Much excitement was felt in the case, the bulk of public sympathy being apparently on the side of Mr. Beecher. Messrs. H. Ranney and Charles Palmer, Esq., appear for the plaintiff. James T. Brady and F. C. Bachus for the defendant. The Court-house was densely crowded, a large portion of the auditors being ladies. It is alleged that the slander was prompted by business jealousy.

Sentence of Criminals.
(By Hasson's News Agency.)

JACKSONVILLE, Dec. 17.—The Berry brothers and their counsels started last night for Joliet in charge of Officers Gregory and Sweeney. Gregory, by the name of Burns and Welkes, were to-day brought before the City Court on charge of larceny. Both pleaded guilty, and the Court sentenced them to three months in county jail. Burns, alias Gregory, is an ex-temperance lecturer, and has backslided to the same trade.

Shocking Death on a Railroad.
(By Hasson's News Agency.)

PEORIA, Ill., Dec. 17.—An unknown man was run over and killed last night near Galva on the Toledo, Peoria and Warsaw Railroad, by a freight train. The unfortunate passed over him, completely crushing his skull. The man was intoxicated at the time, and in the dark (the engineer failed to see any object on the track.

Attempt to Commit Suicide.
(By Hasson's News Agency.)

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Charles Crutcher, who has been employed by the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company in this city since 1866, being thrown out of employment, attempted to commit suicide yesterday by taking morphine. Medical assistance was promptly called and life was saved.

Proposed New Railroad.

Death of an Ohio Senator.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 17.—Thomas W. John Russell, ex-Secretary of State of Ohio, died at Urbana yesterday. Mr. Russell was a Republican member elect to the Ohio Senate from the Eleventh District, and his death leaves the Senate a tie.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Mr. Brooks, of New York, in his speech yesterday, should have been reported as saying: "We (meaning the Democrats of New York) never have been, never can be, and never will be republicans." The debate and action of the House on this subject are much talked about in the Departments and among financial men. They regard the question as now entirely removed from politics. The only regret is that the vote, though unanimous will one exception, was so small, but this was owing to the fact that many of the members have already gone home to spend the holidays, not anticipating the agitation of this question.

The Committee of Ways and Means held a meeting to-day on the tariff. Efforts are being made to increase the duties on steel.

Commissioner Delano has information that the detachment of the Fifth Cavalry, on duty at American Interpreters of the Kootenai River, Virginia, have been very successful in destroying a number of illicit distilleries near Jonesville and Cumberland Gap. A private belonging to the detachment, named John Boyle, was dangerously wounded in attempting to capture Daniel Lloyd, the proprietor of an illicit still. A reward of $1,000 will be offered for the arrest of Lloyd.

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS IN NEW YORK

Government Gold Sale—The Gold Board Badly Euchred—The Market Declined—Advance in Bonds—Railways Heavy and Declined.

(By Hasson's News Agency.)

WALL STREET, Dec. 17, 1 P. M.—There was a strong speculative feeling shown on Wall street to-day, moved by the uncertainty of the action of Secretary Boutwell in regard to selling gold. The speculators were very evenly divided in opinion. The excitement culminated in a rush to borrow gold.

The Government gold sale commenced and sales for a fall in prices at the opening, but as the hour of noon approached, prices generally rallied on purchases by the "bulls," based on the theory that no bids under 132 would be accepted.

No sale ever made at the Treasury Department caused so much interest as the sale to-day. There were only $2,000,000 in Government gold bid for to-day, made by seven bidders, at prices from 131 07 to 131 22. The Gold Room rejoiced that it had euchred the Secretary, but this did not last long, for at about one o'clock the Treasury Department received orders from Secretary Boutwell to accept the bids, but not to offer the balance of the million and a half for sale. Gold rapidly fell to 130, and the combination of the speculators was broken.

The market subsequently reacted, and the premium advanced to 131 12@131 13, and closed at that rate. The market was generally quiet; but advanced sharply as the second call. Southern State securities were firmer, and prices were generally better than last evening.

To-day's sales of gold were at 7 per cent. currency for call loans. The discount market was quiet and dull at previous quotations under notices. The railway market was alternately irregular and weak during the session, pending the action of the secretary in selling gold, but the fluctuations were not large. Prices fell off after the gold bids were accepted the market became heavy, and the lowest prices of the day were reached.
