has created such a stir throughout the country, based on erroneous data, that the real facts of the case ought to be known. A resolution was introduced providing for having the portrait of General Jackson placed in the capitol. This was opposed from an economical standpoint, and the resolution was about being withdrawn, when Mr. Hinkle offered an amendment providing for the sale of the portraits of Brownlow and General Thomas. This was intended by its author as a rebuke to has created such a stir throughout the country, based on erroneous data, that the real facts of the case ought to be known. A resolution
