the laws, I have endeavored, during my term of office, faithfully to discharge every official duty, with a full reference to my sworn obligation, and as I shall answer at the last great

It should be our earnest effort to faithfully discharge all our obligations and responsibilities as citizens and magistrates. We should cease to tolerate anything as a political right, that is morally wrong, and actively prescribe the corruption which too frequently marks the administration of public affairs—an evil to which we are all too frequently and too forcibly invited. No sign more certain than the indifference of the people to the moral depravity of these in authority.

All history warns us to hold to our integrity as we value our national existence. It is our duty to hold to our integrity as we value our national existence.

I call upon all legislators, and upon all other good citizens, and especially upon all other members of the public press—the ever-faithful sentinels of the people—to aid in giving that tone to public sentiment which shall purify our State, and relieve her from the reproach of even countenancing those who would violate the duties of their offices in violation of their obligations to the people.

servants that the "public will" must be obeyed, and that the "public good" is the first object to be attained by our government.

It is the duty of our government to be a permit speculators to enrich themselves out of the public Treasury, and at the same time to the world an example which tempts to crime, and to the world an example which tempts to crime, and to the world an example which tempts to crime.

Owing to the absence of the part of the free traders for the abolition of the tariff and wholesome protection now afforded to our industry and to labor, I consider it a subject which should be of our most anxious attention.

If our national industry and national productions, represented by thousands of our citizens, and other sources of labor, are to be preserved, there should be no interference of duties which shall enable the underpaid and overworked population of the Old World to compete with the product of our own industry and to the cost of our own industry and to the cost of our own industry.

The articles thus admitted would undersell the products of our artisans at our very doors, and our factories would be closed, as heretofore by similar causes. This would throw out of employment thousands of industrious men, and entail ruin upon them and their families, merely for the benefit and aggrandizement of a few manufacturers and capitalists.

As soon as our industrial arms are paralyzed and competition is destroyed, the monopoly of our industry will be in the hands of a few men, and it will be in their power to oppress the masses of our people.

Impelled by every patriotic interest, humanity and justice for our country, I have signed a protest, which I have not hesitated to sign, and which I have not hesitated to sign.

My several messages to the Legislature I have an occasion to refer to a subject which I regard as of paramount importance to the prosperity and even the stability of our Government.

No nation can long exist that attempts to violate any of its obligations. The most prominent among these is the faithful payment of all its indebtedness.

No good reason can be given for the repudiation of a debt, which has been contracted in good faith, and which has been used for the benefit of the people.

It is my duty to preserve its honor, integrity and credit, and to see that the people are not oppressed by the repudiation of a debt, which has been contracted in good faith, and which has been used for the benefit of the people.

It is my duty to preserve its honor, integrity and credit, and to see that the people are not oppressed by the repudiation of a debt, which has been contracted in good faith, and which has been used for the benefit of the people.
