Here it was alleged that the elec-tion officers took the vote of 128 persons. whose names were not on the list of voters furnished by the City Com-missioners, and that , none of the requirements of law were regarded in ascer-taining the qualifications of these people; it is also alleged that they received 153 votes of persons who voted in the names of others. If persons who voted in the names of others. If these facts were true, it changed the result in the case of the Receiver of Taxes; and yet the Court below was asked to strike off that which, if true, would change the result. There were other allegations, and the Court had to look at the petition as a whole. As to the right of the Court to strike out a precinct, e concluded that this question did not come before this Court upon the record. The record merely shows that a petition was filed; that an examiner was appointed; that testimony was taken; that there was an argument, after which the Court decreed that A B and C were elected. This is all that the record shows and while the C were elected. This. is all that the record shows, and while the Court may know it to be a fact that polls were excluded, with the record before it, the Court has no right to consider it in reaching a decision upon this appeal. Comment has been made as to the right of a voter, and the wrong done in depriving him of his vote. But he may lose that vote from a variety of causes, and no more hardship is imposed in the one case than the other. He referred to the gross frauds in the divisions attacked, and especially in the Eighth division of the Third Ward, In these divi-sions "the innocent voters" feel so much ag-

Mr. Mann discussed at length the objection to the oath and to the fact that the case of the rothonotary was not decided at the next the contended that there was a substantial compliance with the act of 'Assembly in the affidavit, and that the meaning of the "next term" was that the Court should speed the cause. As to the amendment in the District-Attorney's case he avered that the law did not require specifications to be filed, nor was there any limit of time for the filing, and therefore this amendment was not opt of time, and the Court could not have done substantial justice if this amendment had not been allowed. Judge Strong followed on the same side, and proposed to avoid all reference to the merits of the case, as something not before the Court, but would consider it as a certiorari, which brought before the Court the record and the judgment. No one can pretend that the reasons that led to motion to quash and motion overruled, an-swer filed, examiners appointed, testimony filed, and judgment. These are all the facts for the consideration of the Court. The argument was not concluded when our report closed.
