CITY BULLETIN.

A TOUCH OF WINTER. Jack Frost put in an appearance last night, and to-day the weather feels very much like winter. The mercury in the thermometer ran down some distance below the frequency and at an mercury in the thermometer ran downsome distance below the freezing point, and at an early hour this morning the gutters were all coated with ice. Muddy streets have been converted into dusty thoroughfares. The skating-park people have contracted their vis-ages a little bit. They have been in utter de-spair during the past two months. One or two parks had aday early in December, but realized an amount scarcely sufficient to pay for putting the places in order for use. Now prospects have brightened slightly, but the weather has been so fickle during this season that no de-pendence can be placed upon it. While overcoats are very comfortable to-day, it may be necessary to trot out summer rigs to-morbe necessary to trot out summer rigs to-mor be necessary to trot out summer right of the row. The ice men are in a worse fix than the skating park fraternity. They haven't been able to gather in a particle yet. The capacity of many of the ice-houses along the Schuylkill has been increased so that a supply for two years can be held, but thus far there hasn't been a chance to get in enough to make a cooktail. How we are to manage about sherry oobblers, mint-julens, etc., next summer, it is impossible to say. The prospects look very dismal for lovers of "cooling beverages." As before intimated, there is no knowing what before intimated, there is no knowing what may turn up with the weather however. The ponds to-day are iced about the edges. To-inorrow they may be entirely covered with good, thick ice. Two or three days of severe weather will be all that is required to fill our ice-houses and relieve the anxiety of thousands of monitor of people

THE RIFLE CLUB.-Heretofore the head-quarters of the Philadelphia Rifle Club for practice, &c., have been at Washington Retreat and there the annual festivals have been given for years past. As the "Retreat" is a portion of the property to be incorporated within the limits of Fairmount Park, it becomes necessary to seek a new locality for the exercise of the Club. Recently a fine farm, comprising nineteen acres, and located on Indian Queen Lane, near the Falls of Schuylkill, has been purchased for $30,000. The property is to be properly fenced in, and fitted up with all the appliances required for the festivals of the German Singing and other societies, as well as those of the Rifle Club. There is already a large and sub-Rine Chub. There is aready a large and sub-stantial mansion upon the ground. The lo-cation of this new Park is very advantageous. The cars of the Philadelphia, Germantown and Norristown Railroad Company stop within a few yards of its boundaries, and the Schuylkill River Steamboat Landing and the Ridge Avenue Passenger Railway are but a short distance away. Everything will be in readiness for opening in time for the summer festivals. As Fairmount Park also takes in Engel & Wolf's Farm, and that place will soon be numbered among the things that were, the Park of the Philadelphia Rifle Club will, no doubt, become the popular place of resort for the Germans hereafter.

ORIMB. WIFE ABANDONMENT.

A Recusant Husbaud in a Tight Place-A Philadelphia Family in Trouble in Philadurgh. The Pittsburgh Commercial of last night

The Pittspurgh Commercus of any management Bays: Mrs. Helen Morgan, a resident of Philadel-phia, arrived in this city on Tuesday, and made information before Mayor Brush, charg-ing her husband, Daniel Morgan, with aban-donment, and refusing to Support her and their children. The information sets forth that on the 15th of October, 1865, in the city of Philadelphia, and now in Pittsburgh, the said Daniel Morgan had abandoned his, wife and children, and neglected and refused to con-tribute to their support.

children, and neglected and refused to con-tribute to their support. A warrant was issued and the neglectful husband was arrested at his place of employ-ment, the liquor store of Messrs. Diorker & Speck; on Smithfield street, where he has been engaged as driver for some time. Ho gave ball for a hearing yesterday morning at ten o'clock. At that hour his wife was on hand in the Mayor's private office, but, from some cause or other, her counsel, John Coyle, Esc., one of the most prompt attorneys at the Esq., one of the most prompt attorneys at the bar, failed to put in an appearance.

bar, failed to put in an appearance. Messrs. Moreland and Moore, attorneys for the husband, appeared for him, and out of courtesy to Mr. Coyle, waited until after eleven o'clock. As he did not appear and could not be found by the officers sent to notify him, Mr. Moreland stated that the de-fence could wait no longer, and desired to go on with the hearing. The Mayor suggested that it would be no hardship to postpone the hearing until four o'clock in the afternoon, and in the meantime Mr. Coyle would be notified to appear.

Mr. Moreland objected to this, and insisted

Mr. Moreland objected to this, and insisted on going on with the hearing. Mrs. Morgan stated that she had a right to the advice and assistance of her counsel, and would prefer not to proceed without him. Mr. Moreland said that the defendant was present to answer, and if Mrs. Morgan had anything to say, she had better be sworn and go upon the witness stand. Mrs. Morgan expressed a determination to stand upon her legal rights. Mr. Moreland, to cut the matter short, said : Mrd. Acounsel for Mr. Morgan, I an

Madam, as counsel for Mr. Morgan, I am authorized to say that he is ready and willing to take you back to his home, as his wife, and to take you back to its home, as its wife, and render you such support as his circumstances will justify. I am also authorized to say that he has two friends here, both reputable citi-zens, each of whom is willing to take one of zens, each of whom is winning to take one of the children, clothe and educate it, and give it all needful attention. Under the law, Madam, you must accept this proposition to make his home yours, and live in such a man-ner as his means will justify, or you must abandon this prosecution. Are you prepared abandon this prosecution. Are you prepared to go with him? Mrs. Morgan—No, sir; I am not—not hore in Pittsburgh. Where is his home here? If he will return with me to Philadelphia, I may consent to live with him. That is a strange proposition to make about the children—sup-port them by giving into the custody and keeping of strangors! I cannot consent to that.

that. Mr. Moreland-Well, your Honor (addressing the Mayor), I say, as a matter of law, that this action cannot be maintained if the de-fendant was before the Court of Quarter Sessions, and the plaintiff would refuse to live with him, as his wife and the nother of his children; the Court would dismiss, the .com. plaint.

The Mayor-Suppose, Mr. Moreland, that the wife should consent to live with her hus-band and withdraw tills prosecution, what guarantee has she that he will not abandon her and flee to some other city, just as he left her in Philadelphia to come there? Mr. Moreland—With such consequences your Honor has nothing to do. I merely state the law. The Mayor expressed an unwillingness to force the lady to a hearing without her counstiending him. The man Haggerty has not yet been arrested. FRAUDS ON THE NEWARK, N. J., TRBA-SURY.

A Forged $20,000 Warrant-Supposed Flight of the Forger. Yesterday afternoon the Treasurer of the city of Newark received a call from a boy of city of Newark received a call from a boy of 17, who presented a city warrant, drawn outin proper form and signed by Mayor Ricord, for $20,000. The boy demanded payment, and the Treasurer took the warrant and com-menced counting out the money. He had counted out $15,000, when he found that he had not money enough to pay the warrant in full. He therefore requested the bearer to call again, and he would draw on the city funds in bank for the remaining $5,000. The boy took his warrant and left.

in bank for the remaining $5,000. The boy took his warrant and left. It was not then known that the warrant was traudulent; and the signature of the Mayor a forgery. But the subsequent confes-sion of the youth who presented it, and who had become alarmed, and had refused to go again to the Treasurer, proves that it was a fraud concocted with great care, by an assist-ant in the City Clerk's office, and part of a series of frauds perpetrated by him on the City Treasury.

ant in the City Cierk's onder, and part in a series of frauds perpetrated by him on the City Treasury. According to the statement of the lad, made to his employer in Jersey City, the forger has for a number of months been engaged in a systematic course of embezzlement, and that his thefts have amounted to $15,000. These frauds could be concealed no longer, and the perpetrator determined to wind up his affairs with a larger swindle, and leave for Califor-nia. He took the Jersey City lad into his con-fidence, paid him $300 for his services, and sent him to the City Treasurer with the forged warrant. Upon learning that the money could not be paid yesterday, the boy returned the warrant to the forger, saying he would have nothing more to do with it. The latter, learning of the failure of his plans, im-mediately left the city, it is stated, for San Francisco. Francisco.

These facts were communicated last evening to a private detective in Jersey City, who im-mediately went to Newark to obtain the aid of Chief of Police Clark in tracing the facts of the case, and to apprehend, if possible, the fugitive clerk. Whether the frauds have extugitive clerk. Whether the trauds have ex-ceeded the figures named, in what precise manner they have been carried on, or whether the forgery of the $20,000 warrant is the first that has been perpetrated, cannot be known until the officers of the Newark City Govern-ment are apprised of the facts, and have had time to make their investigation.—Tribune.

HEAVY SMUGGLING FRAUDS.

Over 40,000 Cigars Seized on a Havana Vessel Yesterday in New York---Cigar Boxes Secreted in Bundles of Lumber ---The Detection of the Scheme.

The Times of this morning says: The steamer Eagle, which arrived at this contained among its cargo twenty-one large bundles of pine planks or boards, each being marked with the letters M.M.D., the initials of the name of the person to whom they were con signed. These bundles were seized on board of the vessel yesterday by Custom House officers, the result of which was the discovery of a cun-ningly-devised plot for cheating the Govern-ment. In the centre of each of the bundles were snugly hid twenty-one full boxes of Havana cigars, making a total of 441 boxes The manner in which the boxes were con cealed gave evidence of ingenious smuggling skill. Each of the inner boards of the various bundles was found to have had a piece cut out bundles was found to have had a piece cut out of uniform size and shape, and to have been nicely fitted together, so that they presented large oblong openings. Into these twenty-one receptacles so formed the cigar boxes were compactly packed, but were covered with several uncut planks on both sides in order to keep them from being seen. Exactly how the fraud was detected has not been ascertained, obloaved Mr.Les a shorn detective connected although Mr. Lee, asharp detective connected with the Seizure Department at the Custom House, is said to be deserving of credit in the matter. LARCENY .- John Donnelly, aged 17 years was arrested yesterday, upon the charge of the larceny of a watch valued at $25, belonging to Mrs. Baird, residing at No. 426 North Nine-teenth street. It seems that the watch was left at a jewelry store for repairs several weeks ago. Donnelly and another boy got it upon paying the expenses, amounting to $2. The watch, it is alleged, was then pawned for $2 50. The juveniles realized fifty cents by the transaction. Donnelly will have a hear-ing at the Central Station this afternoon.

SOMNAMBULISM. - This morning, between twelve and one o'clock, a young man named Philip Kegeny, residing on Wood street, be-low Seventeenth, arose in his sleep, and after walking about in his room in the third story for a few moments, fell out of the window He had a leg broken, and was otherwise in-jured. He was conveyed to the Pennsylva-nia Hospital by Policemen Larkin and Meagher.

ANOTHER.-Frank Hopkins was arrested yesterday, upon the charge of having been concerned, with Lamb, in the larceny of the case of surgical instruments from the office of Dr. Muhlenburg, No. 1805 Chestnut street, and a coat from the house of Dr. Newer, No. 1506 Walnut street. Ho will have a hearing this afternoon, at the Central Station.

CARRLESSNESS.—During the past week no less than 40 houses in the Fifth Police Dis-trict, (Seventh and Eighth Wards) were found open by the police. Of course this carelessness is an invitation to walk into houses and commit depredations.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT .- John Rice, hailing from Coatesville, was arrested last night as he was leaving the yard of a house at Tenth and Berks streets with a bundle of washed clothing under his arm. He was taken before Alderman Hood, who sent him to prison.

THE STAR COURSE .- Nasby's lecture at the Academy of Music last night was delivered to an immense number of persons, all of whom seemed pleased with the entertainment. Mr. Locke discussed the woman question from the Locke discussed the woman question from the Conservative standpoint, and, as in his famous letters, contrived to make that side of the sub-ject ridiculous by the absurdity of the posi-tions assumed. The next lecture of the Star Course will be delivered on Monday evening next by Ralph Waldo Emerson, who will discuss "Social Life in America." In speakang of Mr. Emerson, Mr. Pugh's circular says, with some degree of truth: "It is not claim-ing too much for Emerson to say that he has done more to mould American thought than any man who lives in this country. Hazlitt essays might be found all that was worth anything in philosophy or morals; and it may be affirmed in like manner of Emerson that not only is there nothing in American thought that he has not mastered, but that there is very little of which he is not the master,—the originator and elaborator.

THE BALE OF ENGRAVINGS, last evening, at Hazeltine's Galleries, was a melancholy affair. Fine engravings of great value were slaugh-tered at low prices, at which we are sur-prised, as the collection was the finest over

The sale will be continued to-night and tomorrow night, at 71 o'clock precisely.

SALE OF PAINTINGS.—A contribution sale of paintings will take place on Monday, Tues-day and Wednesday evenings, at Scott's Art Gallery, 1117 Chestnut street, Girard Row. Open on Monday, 7th, for exhibition.

Agricultural Information.

It may be fairly assumed, from what we see, even in the neighborhood of Panama, that many tracts of land are now covered with brushwood, which were cultivated in the time of the Spaniards. Although even that was never to a great extent, notwithstanding they had the advantage of slave labor, the very po-sition of the Isthmus has always fomented a spirit of trade, more than any serious or per-manent attraction towards agricultural pro-ducts. The ruins of the great works of our predecessors confirm this view; and show the ge-neral tendency of men's min is at the time. We have the massive remains of forts, churches and mines; with one or two well-made roads between the fortified points. Here and there we may meet with a well built of stone and a house overlooking a cattle farm, but nowhere do we meet with any remains of mills, or any such like establishments connected with agri-cultural pursuits. Even during the periods of the severest commercial depression which oc-curred from time to time in our colonial history, agriculture did not extend beyond the production of rice, beans, Indian corn, plan-tains, &c., and only enough of them for domestic consumption. In view of this, it is encouraging to know that a company of merchants have resolved to introduce the culture of indigo on the Isthintroduce the culture of indigo on the lath-mus. Although modern chemistry has ex-tracted many beautiful dyes from coal tar, yet good indigo always brings a good price in the markets. Neither in its culture nor elaboration does the indigo require so many hands as other products of tropical agriculture, provided the number necessary is always forthcoming at the time mhon the chemical changes occur which separate the indigo from the plant when separate the indigo from the plant. The place chosen for the experiment, we be-lieve, is near Sona, in Veraguas. We have no doubt that equally favorable localities might be found nearer Panama. We remember to have seen in the Island of Taboga the indigo plant growing wild, under the shade of some veteran famarind frees and not far off, two cocao, and about a dozen of coffee trees. Who brought the seeds and who planted them; the answer was-Quien sabe? The indigo plants have gone; but the rest are there, showing at least the adaptability of the soil and climate for any and all of these important tropica productions. The only agricultural establish-ment worth mentioning on the Isthmus is the sugar plantation founded by our friend Dr. Kratochwil on the banks of the Bayano —

The Gold Hill (Nevada) News has the follow ing among its local items: We noticed a very comfortable and genial-locking party of Piute females, yesterday morning, near the railroad crossing on Main street, at the upper end of Gold Hill, seated on the ground in the pleasant sunshine, deeply on the ground in the pleasant sunshine, deeply engaged in a game of cards. Five or six of them were playing, and about a dozen younger squaws, "little injuns," and old bucks, were very intently looking on. They had plenty of cards, about a hatfull, apparently collected promiscuously from the sweepings of saloons, and each squaw took a grab from the main pile as often as she got out, each playing a card or two in turn took a grab from the main pile as often as she got out, each playing a card or two in turn upon a certain pile. The game might have been whist, euchre, seven-up, or peker, for aught we could discover, but if it was either of these popular games, they certainly had their own peculiar way of playing it, and pre-cious little regard for Hoyte. They appeared to enjoy it, however, fully as well as their dusky lords do high-toned poker, at a bit ante.

THE SPANISH-CUBAN [DUEL |AT NIAGARA FALLS.

Another Meeting .-- Rumored Death of the Cuban.

[From the Rochester (N. Y.) Union and Advertiser of February 1st.]

Some time last summer a Spaniard and a Cuban, the first-named connected with a paper in New York city, fought a duel in Canada, near Niagara Falls. The Cuban was seriously wounded, it will be remembered. Yesterday it was runored at the Falls that the same par-tics on Friday last had another "set to" of a ties on Friday last had another "setto" of a similar character, in about the same locality, in which the Cuban was instantly killed. After the termination of the affair, it is re-ported, the parties quietly returned to this side, conveying the body of the dead Cuban to the depot, where they took the train again for New York.

Mr. Moreland then waived a hearing, as he had a right to do, and tendered bail for Morgan's appearance at the next term of Court. The Mayor fixed the bail at $1,000, which

And now comes a part of the story which did not develop until after the hearing. Mrs. Morgan alleges that she had her husband arrested in Philadelphia, for abandonment, and got a decree of the Court requiring him to pay to her the sum of five dollars per week until such time as the order should be altered or revoked. He paid this sum for a time, and then fled from the city. She never ascertained his whereabouts until recently, when she learned he was in this city and came on and ordered his arrest. She does not want to live with him, but is very anxious to have him taken back to Philadelphia, on a bench warrant; with a view to compel him to obey the order of the Court there. Morgan does not desire to live with her, and says he would rather cut his arm off than take her back. He knew he would be safe in offering to live with her, as she would certainly reject the offer, and the legal effect would be in his favor. But Mrs. Morgan is determined to get him back to Philadelphia, if such a thing be possible, and gave his counsel to under-stand as much. Mr. Moreland informed her that she could not take him beyond the juris. diction of this Court, while he was under bonds for trial here, but she was lawyer enough to say that when she got things in readiness, she would withdraw the prosecution here, and see whether there was not some process to take him back to Philadelphia. the case stands at present.

the case stands at present. We may state, in justice to Mr. Coyle, that he appeared just after the bail had been en-tered, and that his absence was owing to the fact that he mistook the hour.

HAGGERTY'S VICTIM.

Reddy the Blacksmith Will Recover if Lockjaw Does Not Intervene--The First spmate of the New Accident Ward--Remembers Nothing of the Fight. The New York Sun of this morning says:

The New York Sun of this morning says: As stated in the Sun of yesterday, the Hon. William Varley, alias Reddy the Blacksmith, was fearfully beaten in Florence's saloon, Houston street and Broadway, by one James Haggerty, a notorious rough, of Philadelphia. The evening papers, as a general thing; posted on their bulletins yesterday: "The Death of Reddy the Blacksmith." A Sun reporter visited Bellevue Hospital, and was courtcously received by Warden Brennan, who said that Reddy was still alive, and there was little hope but that he would recover. The doctor, however, had ordered him to be kept very quiet, and not to talk much. The Warden, however, kindly consented to lef the ground-floor known as the Accident Ward, Reddy can claim the honor of being the first inmate of this ward. He lay on one of the cots inmate of this ward. He lay on one of the cots to all appearances asleep. His head was in a frightful condition. There are three cuts on the forchead, which are dressed and bandagod. There is also a cut under one of his eyes, and the other eye must have been considerably damaged, for Reddy finds it impossible to open damaged, for Reddy finds it impossible to open either. His lips are swollen to an enormous size, so much so as to prevent a person hear-ing what Reddy says, unless he is very close to him. His hand is frightfully lacerated, the fiesh and muscles having been torn in a terrible manner. by the broken glass. The-out on the hand is the only thing which makes Reddy's case look dangerous, for lock-jaw may set in. Beside the bed sits Mrs. Varley, who does all in her power to make her husband as comfortable as possible. Reddy lay still for several moments, until his wife said he was awake, when he moved a little to one side, and muttered that he guessed one side, and muttered that he guessed he would be able to go home to-night. He asked his wife once before to remove him home, but the warden told Reddy that it would be better for himself to remain that it would be better for nimsen to remain where he was for three or four days, and it is very likely that he will take his advice. Reddy, it appears, had been on a drunk for five or six days, and was almost crazy. In himself that he does fact, he says himself that he does not remember going into Florence's; that he recollects no one who was there, and nothing about the muss. He was perfectly exhausted after his debauch, and slept from one o'clock Thursday morning un-til three yesterday afternoon. When he awoke he inquired of his wife where he was and what was the matter with him. Dr. Mc-Lean, house-surgeon of Bollevue Hospital, is was shipped on board of the steamer Eagle in a surreptitious manner, while the vessel was being loaded at Havana. All of the cigars are of first class quality, and will be a heavy loss to the owner, whoever he may a neavy loss to the owner, whoever he may be. It is understood that his name is known or suspected by the officers who made the seizure, but they do not care to have it become public for some personal reason. It is not probable that he will make any claim for the cigars, which are valued at about $15,000 rather preferring to acquiesce in their for-feiture than to render himself liable to crimi-nal action. The moieties which will be re-ceived in case the smuggled property is con-demned will be very large.

Another Tragedy in New Jersey. New Jersey has been the scene of another tragedy. In this case the victim is a negro, whose name has not transpired. The alleged murderer is a young man named John Wana-maker, whose father formerly kept a butcher shop in Jersey City. From what can be as-certained the accused, who resided with his father at Rock Hill, Bergen county, became enraged with a colored man, on Tuesday night, and struck him so violent a blow that he fell down and almost instantly expired. The down and almost instantly expired. The young man subsequently quarreled with his father, who afterwards hearing of the murder became so disordered in his mind that is feared he will have to be sent to the asylum at Trenton. Young Wanamaker has not yet been arrested. The negro was a servant of the elder Wanamaker.

OUR CHINESE FRIENDS.

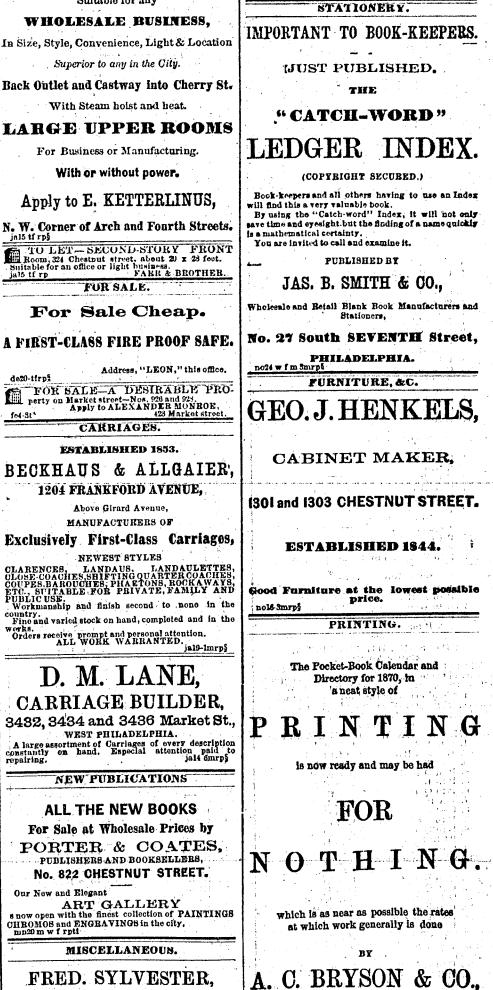

Arrival of the Secretary of the Burling-ame Mission with the Ratified Treaty-Satisfaction of Prince Kung with the Stipulations. The Washington correspondent of the Herald savs Mr. J. McLeavy Brown, Secretary of the Burlingame Chinese mission, arrived here to-day, bearing the ratified treaty made with our government. Mr. Brown came here by way of California from China, and represents the of California from China, and represents the Chinese government as entirely satisfied with the conduct of the Burlingame mission thus far. Mr. Brown got to Pekin last October, and had along interview with Prince Kung the head of the Chinese administration. Prince Kung welcomed Mr. Brown in the most cordial manner, made inquiries regarding Mr. Burlingame and his associate Ministers, read over the American treaty, and after weighing over the American treaty, and after weighing over the American treaty, and after weighing every article and paragraph in the most care-ful manner declared that it met his entire sat-isfaction. The proper ratification was put to the treaty and Mr. Brown was entrusted with the duty of bearing it to our government. All the stories about unwillingness on the part of China to accede to the terms of the treaty are pronounced by Mr. Brown to be entire fabrications. The delay in returning with the ratified copy was caused by a wish expressed by Mr. Burlingame to have the document retained in China until the labors of the mission should be wound up, so that document retained in China until the labors of the mission should be wound up, so that then he might return to China and have the pleasure of bringing it to Washington him-self. This plan was subsequently changed. It appears that no formal treaties have been made with England, France or the other European Powers. Mr. Burlingame has simply made agreements with those Powers, settling in a satisfactory manner the claim to intercourse in the in-ternal affairs of China. All these Powers give ternal affairs of China. All these Powers give up their extraordinary claims in that regard and to have accomplished that much may wel be regarded as a triumph of Chinese diplo-macy. Treaties with European govern-ments of exactly the same kind ments of exactly the same kind as that with our government could not be expected. The conditions are different. We have here a state of aflairs that has no parallel in Europe. The Chinese are settlers here, and claim legal rights, which are guar-anteed in the treaty, but nothing of that kind is required of Europe. Mr. Brown did not see Secretary Fish to-day, but left the treaty with Mr. J. C. Bancroft Davis.¹ Mr. Brown will have an interview to-morrow with the President and Mr. Fish. President and Mr. Fish.

ARTHUR.

The Prince Visits the Forts in New York Harbor. The New York Times has the following: Prince Arthur took a look at our harbor and its surroundings yesterday. He was es-corted from his hotel to the dock, near the Bat-tery, by Lieut. Coster, at about ten o'clock, where he was received by Gen. McDowellan (
