It is, perhaps, owing to the frequent sacrifice of Orpheus to Gambrinus that the Ger-man singers of Philadelphia have achieved less han they might have done. With a few orable exceptions, the societies show but tle evidence of a desire to improve. Anothe rirenmstance unfavorable to their progress is that most of them possess no female members, nd are thus debarred from attempting the larger compositions which are written for a mixed chorus. In spite of these drawbacks, he Junger-Männerchor (an offshoot of the nnerchor) and the Sangerbund have been so well trained as to prove very formidable competitors of the New York Liederkranz, as the prize concert during the Baltimore Sängerst fully proved. Of the American societies, the first in order, as regards age or numbers, is the Handel and dn. It is under the leadership of Mr. L. Engelke, and gives some three or four concerts uring the season. The Vocal Union, led by Mr. Wolsieffer, is a male chorus, numbering about as many memhers as the Abt Society.

Finally, there is the Amphion Club, which, although a social organization, devotes one or two evenings of every week to music. It also gives concerts with light, pleasing programmes. t these performances, which are always de ightful reunions, there are very considerable e-enforcements of outsiders, without whose aid the concerts would be noticeable rather as social than artistic successes. Among Philadelphia amateurs, there are many of great proficiency who cheerfully contribute to the success of the societies already established. Musical life is active enough, and musical circles are, in this country at least, nowhere more charming. The great need, however, is the presence of some one possessing the musical knowledge and the administrative ability required to combine forces, which are at present, too much divided to accomplish anything very remarkable.-Correspondenc of the Nation.

What M. Haussmann has Expended in Paris. So many contradictory reports as to the amount expended by M. Haussmann on the rebuilding of Paris have been circulated, that it may not be out of place to give the exact figures according to an official return just pub-lished. News Items of General Interest. Correspondence of the Philadelphis Evoning Bulletin.] WILMINGTON, Feb. 11 .- A correspondent of the Commercial, writing from Roxana, Sussex county, declares that a local preacher there recently joined in marriage a man and woman residing there, though it was perfectly well known to the officiating preacher, and to the community generally, that the man had a wife and child living in Wilmington, and that he Understand the second sec was not only net divorced, but had never so Ohio-Aggregate much as applied for a divorce, or stated to his Spirits, wife his reasons for deserting her. Wilmington cannot afford to get much virtuous indignation on this subject until she sweeps clean before her own door. It is a fact known to hundreds of people that igamy, if not polygamy, is openly practiced in this city. A member of one of our manufacturing firms lives with two women in the same house, acknowledging both as his wives, and it is alleged that he has another wife in Missouri-Aggregate England. This is no matter of gossip whispered around, but a notorious fact, and has been known as such for several years.

The Wilmington and Reading Railroad Co. has purchased a lot of ground having a front of feet on the Christiana, just above the Harlan & Hollingsworth Company's Works, for coal wharves. The first of the boats of the new line of steam propellers to run via Delaware River, and Raritan Canal between this city and New York, has arrived and is being overhauled for service. The steamboat Samuel M. Felton, which had a hole punched in her bottom last fall by running on a rock in the Delaware river, has had the damage then received repaired, and was launched from the marine railway on Monday, and now lies at the Har-lan & Hollngsworth Company's wharves, undergoing extensive alterations and repairs. Her main saloon is to be greatly enlarged and improved, and she will resume trips in the spring. between this city and Philadelphia. An important case is now pending before the United States District Court, sitting as a Court of Admiralty. It is an action for damages brought by the United States Government against the steamboat Major Reybold, ownedv the Delaware City, Salem and Philadelphia Steamboat Navigation Company, for sinking the United States steam light-house tender General Putnam, off New Castle, in Novem-ber, 1867. The accident occurred on a foggy morning, at about 10 o'clock. The Government claims that the Reybold was running at an immoderate and dangerous rate of speed, while the defendants claim that the Putnam did not display proper signals and was auchored in an improper place. The amount claimed is $37,000. The trial pro-gresses very slowly, as the evidence has to be written down as given in and it is probable. ment claims that the Reybold was running at
