Mr. Dawes explained that the excessive amount called for this year is owing to the al-olition of printing in the Treasury and other departments of the Government, requiring all printing to be done at the Government printing-office. The increased amount of printing thus thrown into that establishment by the Treasury and Postoffice Departments, Commissioner of Customs &c. Departments, Commissioner of Customs, &c., n cost amounts to $350,000.

[By the American Press Association.]

A Loss of Loss Association.]

Mr. Ela declared that the number of pages printed and amount of paper consumed is less this year than last, and yet a larger, appropriation is called for. The fault is not in the workmen, but in the inefficient supernumeraries who for some purpose or other have been literally packed into the Government printing office. He moved to amend by inserting $401,000.

Mr. Butler said the House must have heads of departments to judge how much printing.

of departments to judge how much printing and paper they required. He thought however, the amount called for excessive.

Mr. Dawes alluded to General Butler's sudden conversion to an opposition of the bill, and den conversion to an opposition of the bill, an compared his mutation of feeling to that Saul (Paul) when on the way to Damasous.

Mr. Butler rose to a personal explanation There were three things that might as well be left out of the Globe, or kept standing, so as to save composition. First—That he had once voted for Jefferson Davis. Second—That his explosion here this morning. The retort of conversion had been sudden. Third—That he the chemical works of Charles Pfiser & Co. had not been in the Republican party as long as some others. He had been likened to Saul of Tarsus on an average of once every day. He suppose the reason he had not been compared t of the apostles. [Merriment.]

After further debate, Mr. Ela's amendment was lost, and the original item was adopted In the item of $450,000 for paper for the public printing, Mr. Cleveland moved to amend by inserting $300,000.

This amendment was advocated by Mesers. Benjamin, Ela and others, and opposed l Mr. Dawes, who alluded to the extra cost the census.

Mr. Haldeman said that under the ill advised, short-sighted and blundering action of the Senate upon the House census bill, the country was to have a census that would be a privilege and in cutting down the appropria-tion for folding documents.

Mr. Laflin said members were mistaken in upposing that such action of the House would do away with the public printing. It must continue to be large under the present law. The Committee would bring in a bill during the session greatly reducing the amount lisgrace to this Congress.

The amendment was not agreed to. Considerable debate occurred on Mr. Ela amendment cutting down the appropriation from $450,000 to $350,000. Mr. Ela sent up a pamphlet to be read, which showed how grossly the Government Printing Office was dismanaged.
Mr. Dawes objected to the reading and noved to close the debate on the item.

The amendment was put to vote and lost, and the original item was adopted as it stood. PER CENT. GOLD BONDS

DONCERNING TELEGRAPHIC NEWS. "It is a week since the EVENING BULLETIN received notice from the association of old morning papers that it would no longer be allowed to receive any part of the news fur wished by the New York Associated Press. During several days, owing to the general sippling of the telegraphic wires by the storm, the news we received was not as copious as it or about one-fifth, lived in Philadelphia. Allowing for a year's increase, and for the sake of the slimplification of round numbers, we estimate that in 1870 the taxable inhabitants in Pennsylvania are 1,000,000, of which one-fifth. or 200,000, are in Philadelphia. The United States census, to be taken this year, will, we are confident, show about this proportion; and estimating five persons to each tax-payer, it will appear that the State has about five million inhabitants, of whom one million live in York monopoly. Take yesterday's BULLLE-the most generous moments of the New York Associated Press, it never gave us half as much this, except on the President's Message day, when it could not avoid doing better. A large part of the news received by th BULLETIN is obtained through the agents of the American Press Association, the new or ranization which has already been joined by the BULLETIN, the Star, the Herald, the Morning Post, the Day, and several of the Sanday papers. The Evening Telegraph is will allowed to receive the New York Associated Press's news; but if its owners continue 25 wise as they have heretofore shown themassociation, which is bound to go ahead, improving its arrangements and extending its onnections every week. As for the morning papers that still buy their news from the New American, Inquirer, Press and Age-they are eclipsed every morning, in the matter of telegraphic news, by the Mornng Post and the Day, as may be seen by any one who will candidly compare their columns with those of the older mornng journals. And this advantage will become more obvious as the machinery of the

The Report clearly shows that the Superintendent is most earnestly engaged in developing every capacity of the system for the physical, mental and moral improvement of the children. The extension of the idea of industrial nstruction is worthy of all encouragement, and there should be, as we believe there will be, the most cordial support extended to Superintendent McFarland by the Governor and the PLAID SUMMER SILKS AT 87 1-2.
