An Austrian Blow at the Vatican. The Roman correspondent of the Eastern Budget, at Vienna, writing on the 19th of Feb-

The news of Count Benst's note on the Syl labus, which I was enabled to communicate to you by telegraph last Tuesday, has produced a great sensation here. The note is addressed to Count Trautmansdorff, the Austrian Ambassador at Rome. It warns the Vatican most earnostly against taking any steps which may be in opposition to the Austrian constitution, or lead to encroachments on the rights of the Austrian State, and declares the determination of the Austrian government not to suffer any such encroachments, at the same time expressing its wish to avoid conflicts between the State and the Church. This note is entirely undergradent of any agreement which mark independent of any agreement which may be entered into between the Powers in the event of any step being actually taken by the Council against their interests or those of peace and civilization with the view of a common course of action in the watter. of action in the matter.

Count Beust's warning to the Vatican was, I understand, purely a spontaneous act, consequent on his liaving received information that twenty-one canons had really been submitted for dear the country of mitted for adoption. These canons condemn certain laws which form part of the Austrian constitution, and forbid the Catholics in the empire to obey them; and the Count considered it necessary at once to express his views on the subject in order that his silence should not be constructed into consent. I learn that the government has decided to punish, with the utmest rigor of the law, any priest in Austria who may publish the new canons. It is remarkable that all the Austro-Hungarian bishops, forty-six in number, who are now present at the Council, belong to the opposition, with the single exception of the Bishop of the Hahnemann Medical College, this morning, formed one of the memorable events in the history of pilules. It was sufficiently brilliant to carry sunshine to the bosom of either Hahnemann or any other man who places due estimate upon the theory similia similibus curantur. By some people the idea of any saving efficacy in a dose that would scarcely physic a fly is never mentioned without derision. That in imaginary diseases its potency is irresistible is very certain. That a popgun should fire as effectively as a columbiad, or that a regiment of men with teaspoons could clean the streets as effectually as a co hort armed with shovels, is a matter into which many people are unable to see. The extent to which the tenets of this school are gaining ground is something most pleasantly illustrated in the Commencement at the Academy to-day. The Faculty of this College proudly point to the names of many illustrious physicians who, relinquishing the old school dectrines, have openly gone over to their ranks. The success of the Hahnemann Medical College of Philadelphia is due to the unflagging persistence of but a handful of gentlemen. The laity came handsomely to their support. The satisfaction they enjoy is that at this moment their diplomas are recognized by corresponding institutions in Germany and France. The force of the compliment will be better understood when we France. The force of the compliment will be better understood when we remember that not very long ago the only medical school in Philadelphia, recognized in England, was the medical school of the University of Pennsylvania.

Homosopathie Commencement. The annual Commencement exercises

The audience at the Academy this morning included a large representation of the élite of the city. Every arrangement made by the ithe city. Every arrangement made by the faculty was in perfect keeping. The graduating class, as will be seen elsewhere, represents all quarters of the country. Its high respectability was evinced in numerous respects. The young gentlemen received their parchments and bouquets as reverently as if Hahnemann had personally presented them. They entered the building without titles; they emerged from it so many full-fledged M. D. emerged from it so many full-fledged M. D.'s Success to 'em'

The exercises opened with prayer by Rev. Edward W. Appleton.
Prof. C. G. Raue, M. D., then delivered the valedictory address. He said: valedictory address. He said:
With many it seems to be considered a fortime to gain money, and with some this object scens to be the pre-eminent motive of all their exertions. Gentlemen, I do not propose to make use of the word "fortune" in this when same agreefally to day when it is my vulgar sense, especially to-day, when it is my pleasant duty to say a few parting words to

There is a higher aim in a physician's life than money-making, and there is a greater fortune to which man may attain than gold; and I shall try, on this occasion, to inspire you with lattice ideas of your prefession—and of with loftier ideas of your r what you have been successfully striving for the past years by hard and arduous workthan merely as means of accumulating wealth.

But let us consider these things which most But let us consider these things which most nearly concern us. About fifty years ago there arose in the East Indies a dreadful malady which mowed down a human crop with merciless rapidity. This was the Asiatic cholera. It appeared some twelve years later in Europe. The science of Therapeutics of that day was entirely destitute of means to stay this fearful plague. Then Homoopathy was yet in its infancy; and although its founder had already proclaimed the three main remedies to be used fancy; and although its founder had already proclaimed the three main remedies to be used against it,—Camphora, Veratrum and Cuprum,—yet but few took heed of this new discovery. Now look at the results which are proclaimed by the statistics of later epidemics, when the law of similia similibus had gained a stronger foothold, and you will observe a most striking change. Or, read the accounts of the ravages which yellow fever has made in the South, and how helpless, nay, even injurious, has the old school treatment even injurious, has the old school treatment proved itself to be, from the first to the last of these epidemics; and then compare the results of Homoropathy in the same epidemics, and you will surely say with me, that knowledge is the mother's heart with fear and fills the mother's heart with fear and trembling when one of her darlings is taken with sore throat, fever, headache and vomiting? It is the dread of scarlet fever. Ayo, and a fearful visitor it has been in many a family, and a destroyer of health for life, or of life itself! I hope, gentlemen, you will help to lessen this fear from year to year, by the successful application of the knowledge you have acquired, by demonstrating in your practice that only exceptional cases prove fatal have acquired, by demonstrating in your practice that only exceptional cases prove fatal—cases which seem doomed from the first start. But let me break off here, lest it might seem as though I were boasting of Homoopathy; it needs no boasting. My object is merely to show that we have gained a power over disease heretafore mikrown, and that this power is heretofore unknown, and that this power is— knowledge! But we are not at the top of the ladder yet; we have just fairly commenced climbing. * * * * * * *

I think, gentlemen, your teachers have done

I think, gentlemen, your teachers have done what they could, to prepare and incline your minds for such self-growing action. They do not expect that you have learned by heart everything which medical science has already brought to light; they have not intended to stuff you with facts and theories, either their own or others; but they have tried to make you understand facts and theories; to set you thinking of the why and wherefore of things; to inspire you with a love of our glorious to inspire you with a love of our glorious science; in short, they have tried to put you on the right track, upon which, they hope, you will move by your own steam; and become men of independent thought and judgment call thinking self-producing Climbon. ment, self-thinking, self-producing! Climb on then! It will give you mere delight, more satisfaction, and more internal hold, then all the other things you can obtain. And this is the kind of fortune, on to which, I hope, the tide of your lives may carry you. * * * * The Professor said that in the year 1833 Homeeoppahy was born in this country, in this very city, and in 1834, at Allentown, the first atvery city, and in 1834, at Allentown, the first attempt in the world was made to found a Homopathic School. In 1844 the American Institute of Homopathy was founded, and Dr. C. Hering was, by acclamation, elected first President. The speaker remarked: "But, speaking without figure; we may indeed be proud of the progress which Homopathy has made. From a few pioneers and a few adherents in this country, it has increased to found rents in this country, it has increased to four or five thousand physicians who at least sail under its flag, and to millions of adherents. By what means? By hard work! by having disseminated its truths; by having made people the personal friends of these truths; by having made them feel its beneficial influence upon their own welfare; by having thus made people become identified with our cause."

The ladies' fair in the interest of the Homeo-pathic Hospital was alluded to. The institu-tion has thus gained a start, and before many years pass by it will be an accomplished fact. Dr. Raue concluded his address as follows: "Gentlemen, you are going factors."

Dr. Raue concluded his address as follows:
"Gentlemen, you are going from us, and soon you will be scattered near and far. Do not expect to gather fruit where you have not sown seed; you will succeed only in the degree in which you work for the cause. Take this illustration along with you; and wherever you go, prepare the soil, and it cannot fall, that by your earnest and zealous endeavors Homeopathy will come out triumphantly over all the country." over all the country."

A pleasant interinde occurred in the exercises at the Academy this morning. Among the graduates was Mr. Henry M. Lewis, a young gentleman from the Territory of Montana. He studied with Doctor Henry Minton, of Brooklyn. Accompanying a package containing a splendid gold watch, bearing upon the inside of its case an appropriate inscription, the annexed note was last evening received by Professor Henry Noah Martin, of the Faculty of this College:

In brief but touching terms, upon the Academy stage, in the presence of the dense multitude that filled the stately structure, Dr. Martin made the presentation. To the recipient it was a surprise that almost debrived him of the power of whether (there prived him of the power of speech. Other presentations were made. Various young gentlemen received from their preceptors sets of valuable medical works. In an aria and chorus, given with immense effect, the exercises of the auspicious occasion were brought LOCAL CHOWDER. What the snow lost by the sun of yesterday it regained by congelation last night. In the country roads around the sleighing is excellent. To-day will, probably, erminate it.

From the side of the wall of a manufactur-From the side of the wall of a manufacturing building opposite the West Chester Railmoud depot a pipe discharges exhausted steam into the street. For shocking the nervous system of timid horses we know of nothing more effectual. To hear of a team running and small in things in contains a superaway and smashing things in general is some-thing that we daily expect. The pipe should be run up through the roof. Proper economy is commendable. The economy that perils human life is culpable.

The farmers didn't visit us this morning in the usual numbers. This was because so many of them are not owners of suitable sleighs. The consequence was a scanty sup-ply of country merchandise. Butter holds its ply of country merchances. Dutter notes to own at 70 and 80 cents a pound, while eggs own at 70 and 80 cents a pound, while eggs are exulting in sticking us to the tune of 40 cents a dozen. Poultry is scarce, to-day. Upon the stocks at the same yard is a remarkably stanuch steam vacht, made expressly for towing fruit scows down the rivers of Florida. She is one of a series to be built at the same point for the purposes of avandating to tidaweter for transport poses of expediting to tidewater for transportation the fruits of Florida. Millions of oranges are to be had there for next to nothing. In the same yard a powerful steam tug is being built for parties in New York. This work comes at a very opportune period. Of late many ship-carpenters have been obliged to turn their attention to wharf-building or trestle-laying. In connection with the big ship on the stocks of the Cramps, this work brings cheerfulness to Fishtown.

Many of the retail stores to-day are putting silver into circulation. They do this in order to impart a stir to business. Whether they add the premium to add the premium to the price of their goods people will for themselves find out. The argentiferous jingle of a half-dollar on a walnut counter brings back memories by no means unpleasant.

Prinsylvania Colonization Society.

The stated monthly meeting was held yesterday at the Society's Rooms, 609 Walnut street, Eli K. Price, Esq., President, in the chair; Rev. J. W. Dulles, Recording Secretary. The delegates to the fifty-third annual meeting of the American Colonization Society reported that there was an attendance larger than for many previous years, and that the last expedition which sailed from Norfolk last November had safely reached Liberia. Edward James Roye, the lifth President of Liberia, delivered his inaugural address at Monrovia, January 3, 1870. Several very interesting letters were read from Richard Howard, Alonzo Haggard and other emigrants, expressing their joy in reaching Liberia, and hoping that their friends would follow them. One who had been a soldier in the 3d Regiment, U. S. C. T., writes to his mother:—"This is the richest place I ever saw in my life. If you were only here and could see this place, you would never work to go back to America. here and could see this place, you would never want to go back to America. I am rejoiced in the country." The Corresponding Secretary, Rev. Thomas S. Malcon, gave an account of his visit to Richmond and Petersburg, Va., preaching five times to very large audiences of freedmenting reference to the evangelization of Africa by their instruevangenzation of Africa by their instru-mentality. The large amount of money which has been expended during the past year ren-ders a renewed appeal necessary to all the friends of African civilization. Seven hun-dred freedmen have applied for a passage to

Mr. Kellogg reported a bill to establish a railroad and postal telegraph in the State of Texas.

Mr. Trumbull asked that the Georgia bill be-Considered.

Mr. Sherman objected.

The morning hour having expired the Funding bill was taken up and the question being on the motion of Mr. Davis, to recommit the bill with instructions, it was voted down.

Mr. Sherman moved that at 44 o'clock this afternoon the Senate take a recess till 74 P. Mr. Agreed to. Mr. Scott addressed the Senate on his

Mr. Scott addressed the Senate on his amendment to have the proposed bonds negatiated by the officers of the Treasury, and always to be open to public competition.

Mr. Morrill (Vt.) opposed any loan at less-than five per cent. No long loan could be successfully negotiated for any purpose at any rate below that. He would prefer a six per cent. loan and have it all taken at home.

House—[Continued from the Fourth Edition.]

The Speaker announced the point well taken.

[Loud laughter.]

Loud laughter. [Loud laughter.]

Mr. Wood explained that he could go into Wall street with the charter proposed and raise twenty millions of dollars on it without delay.

Mr. Ingersoll said that the bill was demanded as a public necessity, and he meant business by it and not speculation. The bill provides that the organization shall be perfected within ninety days and the read finished within three years, otherwise the charter is forfested. He thought this was as equitable an affair as any he knew of.

Mr. Cox suggested to Mr. Ingersoll that if he would only strike out the names of the present incorporators and insert the names of the present members of Congress, the bill would go through with a rousing majority and would go through with a rousing majority and perfect hurran to it.

Mr. Ingersoll—I will yield the floor for the gentleman to make that motion. [Laughter.]

Amidst considerable confusion, several gentlemen attempted to offer amendments.

men attempted to offer amendments or to state points of order.

After quiet had been restored, Mr. Ingersoll demanded the previous question but the House refused to second the demand. Ayes, 67; Mr. Swann proceeded to speak against the bill at some length.

Pending his remarks, the morning hour expired, and the bill went over until to-morrow.

Mr. Jenckes addressed the House in favor of the bill reported yesterday by Mr. Laffin, from the Committee on Printing, to change the manner of printing and distributing the Patent Office Reports.
