March 18th, 120.—There can be no longer reason for doubt that the recent rapid decline in gold was the result of artificial influences to bring about a heavy short interest in the market which will necessitate a violent reaction. Be this as it may, the strong upward movement of the premium has sorely disappointed many and dissipated their day dreams of early specie resumption. and dissipated their day-dreams of early specie resumption.

There is so much uncertainty as to the future course of the market that it is impossible to tell how far it may be carried up by the excitement, but it is very doubtful if gold can be permanently kept down below 15 per cent. The sales this morning opened at 112; the lowest point reached 111%, and at noon it was selling at about 112%. Government bounds are greatly depressed, save the carrency 6's, which are firm.
