AMUSEMENTS.

The French Dramatic Company produced, at the Amateurs' Drawing Room, last even-ing, a three act piece called Miss Multon, taken from the story of East Lynne, though not re-sembling the English dramatization with which theatre-goers are familiar. Mme. Moreau's acting in the part of the wife and mother personating a governess was full of pathos and intelligence, and totally free from rant and extravaganc. M. Moreau and M. Rousseau were also very good. In the vaude-ville called Les Petites Miseres de la Vie Humaine M. Edgard was exceedingly droll. This evening there will be an extra performance, when will be given Le Meurtrier de Théodore, or "Who Killed Cock Robin?—a comedy in three acts. On Monday evening Sardou's comedy, La Popillome, will be produced. M. Juignet has been induced to undertake another season of a week, commencing next Thursday, the subscription list for which is open at Mr. Boner's music store, No. 1102 Chestnut street. The Company has lost money, and we hope that the new list will be so full as to indemnify it for such loss, and show a handsome balance in its favor. ### THE LOSS OF THE ONEIDA.

Straphic Letter from W. W. Grownin-shield Describing the Catastropho-How He Fortunately Escaped.

We are permitted to copy the following interesting extracts from a letter written to his sister by Mr. W. W. Crowninshield, the clerk of Captain Williams, of the United States steamer Oneida. It will be observed that Mr. steamer Uneida. It will be observed that Mr.
Crowninshield got out of, the cabin window, over the stern to the poop deck, and thence gained the quarter-deck and bridge previous to the vessel's sinking. This seems to render it conclusive that the Bombay did not go entirely over the Oneida, but must have backed away from her before continuing on her heed-

1 Heaven, I am one of the survivors of an awful catastrophe. We started two days ago with our ship for Hong Kong, and in two hours our good vessel was at the bottom—having been run into by an English steamer belonging to drowned but Dr. Suddards, Mr. Yates, the boatswain, fifty-two men and myself.

My escape was most miraculous. At the time of the collision I was asleep in the cabin, on the transom, at about 10 minutes to 7 in the evening. The steamer struck us near the fore part of the cabin. I found myself on the floor, just coming to from being stunned, and on opening my eyes I saw the whole stern was cut off and all exposed to the starlight.

I had sense enough to climb out of the stern over to the spar-deck, and to look down into the cabin to see if Captain Williams was there, but could not see him; I seized a cap within reach and put it on, with the strap under my chin; I had on a thick suit, overcoat and boots; I went to the quarter-deck, met Paymaster Tullock, and inquired how the disaster happened; I met Captain Williams and told him how serious the damage was; he was going on the bridge; I spoke to one or two more officers, and, inding the ship was sinking, I went into the main rigging, and in five minutes our good ship commenced to sink rapidly; I was ten feet above the rail; when she had sunk so as to have the water reach me, I pushed myself as far away from the ship as I could, but the vortex carried me down, and it was a long time ere I came to the surface. When I did I saw nothing of the ship, but many heads above water. I saw one of our boots were by we are leading to the of our boats near by me, and had just strength enough to reach her. I was pulled on board exhausted, and found Mr. Yates with thirtyseven of the crew on board. We steered for the nearest land, four miles away as well as I could judge. I was nearly frozen, and soon had a chill; but after a while we came near the beach, and made a landing in the surf, where I was just able to get ashore, being very stiff with the cold. We reached a Japanese village, and found shelter and rest for the night, twenty-eight miles from Yokohama.

ness village, and found shelter and rest for the night, twenty-eight miles from Yokohama. My heart is too full to tell you more of my-self, although all I had went down in the ship. Capt. Williams acted as bravely as he has always done. He would not leave his post on the bridge, although he was almost pulled away, and when urged by Mr. Yates, replied, "I go down with my ship." A petty officer urging him to go, he grasped the iron rail and said, "No, this is my place, and here I remain." God bless him! the country, and the world have lost a noble officer, who died rather than leave what he considered his post of duty. This heroic conduct was followed by every officer and man on board the ship; not a soul who had a station left it, but faced death in such a manner that makes me feel proud; we were Americans, and were it not for you all at home, I could wish I was locked in their arms. Through all that I have passed during my life, nothing has made such an impression upon me. I can see each and every face of those who have gone, and they all loved each other so much! They were proud of their country, and took such interest in its prosperity! In that devoted band there were many thoughts, but only one heart.

The Onenda was the favorite ship of the station. Could you see what the popular feeling was here from every one, you would think all loved the ship and her officers better than I did. We left the port under the most favorable auspices, the ship homeward bound. All

I did. We left the port under the most favorable auspices, the ship homeward bound. All the men-of-war cheered us, the merchant ships dipped their flags, telling us of their good wishes for a safe and pleasant passage home But in one hour we were facing death as only Americans can do, for not a murmur, not a

Americans can do, for not a murmur, not a cry was heard when the good ship Oneida (which had done her duty through the war) was sinking, and every one knew that meant death. Through all my experience during the war, I saw nothing to compare with it. But I cannot write more—my heart is too full. Shall I ever get over it? is what I ask myself.

Monday, Jan. 31, 1870.—The investigation drags slowly along. Last evening they found the ship, and have marked the spot. The ends of the masts are visible some foot or two at low water. No bodies have been found yet; but it is hardly time for any to appear, the water and weather being so cold. In a day or two we shall have the melancholy duty of identifying them, as all Japanese fishermen have orders, under penalty of death, to bring all effects saved to Yokohama.

A Graphic Account.

The following extracts are from a letter written by one of Col. Baker's command:

At daybreak, on the morning of the 23d, we struck the Marias river, about 60 miles south of the British possessions, and came upon a tepee, occupied by Gray Wolf and his family, numbering in all 15, who were made prisoners as quietly as possible. From

THE DAILY EVENING BULLETIN-PHILADELPHIA SA TURDAY MARCH 12, 1870. Gray Wolf we forced the information that Black Eagle and Big Horn, with the main camp of the Piegans, were at Big Bend, eight miles down the river, and that Mountain Chief, with a few warriors, was camped a few miles further down.

miles further down.

The command at once started on full gallop for Black Eagle's camp, and found the distance about 16 miles; this they had covered by Tance about 16 miles; this they had covered by 7 o'clock A. M., when they burst like a hurricane upon the camp, which they found to consist of 32 lodges, 11 on the north and 21 on the south side of the river. The Indians attempted resistance, and fired a few shots, one of them taking effect on a soldier of Company L, Second Cavalry, killing him instantly. This so infuriated the command that they at once put an end to resistance by charging right in so infuriated the command that they at once put an end to resistance by charging right in among the tepees, and shooting down every one they could find.

The work of slaughtering continued for about three hours, when the troops could find no more Indians to kill, except a few squaws and papooses; these they made prisoners, together with Wolftail, a notorious chief, whom they afterward killed. The results of the expedition have been variously stated by the different newspapers, but the correct result is as follows: 175 Indians counted dead on the field; 39 lodges destroyed with all their property; over 300 horses captured, among them some stolen stock. Big Horn, Red Horn, Heavy Runner, Wolftail and Spotted Wolf, chiefs, were all killed. Black Eagle managed to escape, but we afterward found out from to escape, but we afterward found out from the Bloods that he was wounded.

CITY BULLETIN.

CONCLUSION OF THE BAILEY AND HASEL-TINE ART-SALE.—The sale of pictures which terminated last night at the Haseltine Galleries is thought to have been the largest in money value yet held in Philadelphia. The company participating represented the whole fraternity of connoisseurs in Philadelphia, with a number from other cities and European representatives, forming such an assemblage as has scarcely attended at an auction here previously. The liveliest days of the Paris Hôtel Drouot are imitated at such a sale, and the competition, to a mere looker-on, sale, and the competition, to a mere looker on, is amusing in the extreme. Mr. Scott, the auctioneer, was kept hard at work, the bldders of Philadelphia being, it is said, especially reserved and "backward in coming forward," even when they intend to secure a lot by a liberal bid. The prices obtained for the whole collection of 146 pictures amounted to about $32,000. We have only space to enumerate a few brought at last night's sale. The "Love a few brought at last night's sale. The "Love Letter," by Meyer von Bremen, (121) was sold for $1,325, to Mr. Gibson. The "Jupiter and Antiope," by Gustav Müller, (128) for $1,225, to the same. The "Windstorm," by O. Achenbach, (125) for $1,200, to the same. The "Bremer-haven," by Herzog, (106, for $755, to Mr. McAilister. The "Ave Maria," by Salentin, (78) for $405, to Mr. De Vue. The "Atlantic Beach," by James Hamilton, (108) for $160. The "Court Jester," by Zamagois, (113) for $345, to Mr. Shaw. The "Objects of Art," by Desgoffe, (119) for $550, to Mr. Mercer. The "Arab Scouts," by Schreyer, (110, for $500, to Mr. Wolff. The "Maternal Love," by Lejeune, (122) for $500, to Mr. Mercer. Numbers of canvases brought prices ranging from one hundred to three hundred dollars.

Mr. Scott will hold another large sale of pictures in April. WHITMAN'S CONFECTIONS.—The great confections manufactured by Messrs. Stephen F. Whitman & Son, S. W. corner of Twelfth and Market streets, maintain their great sale at all times and seasons.

These Bonds, at present price of gold, yield over 9 per cent. interest, and as an investment they are fully secur as U.S. 5-20's, which now only pay 6% per cent.

They are only issued upon each section of the Road as as fast as the same is completed and in successful operation. Over two and a half millions of dollars have been expended on the Road. Eighty-three miles are about completed and equipped, and already show large earnings; and the remainder of the line is rapidly progress ng toward completion.

The State of Iowa, through which this road runs, is one of the richest agricultural sections in America. Its large population, extending with surprising rapidity, and its immense yield of grain, pork, wool and other agricultural products, create a pressing demand for the construction of this road, which affords the best possible guarantee for the bondholders, especially as the line runs through the wealthiest and most thickly populated section of the State.

The road also runs through the rich and growing State of Minnesota. Reference to the map of the United States will show that it traverses the most enterprising and growing portion of the West, and forms one of the great trunk lines in direct communication with New York, Chicago and St. Louis, being to the latter city ninety miles nearer from Northern Iowa and all portions of the State of Minnesota than by any other road now built or projected, and also the nearest route from Central and Southern Iowa.

The road is opened for local traffic as rapidly as con structed, and thus RECEIVES EARNINGS ON ITS COMPLETED SECTIONS GREATLY IN EXCESS OF THE AMOUNT NEEDED TO PAY THE IN-TEREST UPON ITS BONDS BEFORE THE ROAD IS FINISHED. The buyer of these Bonds 18 therefore guaranteed, by a great business already in existence on the route of the road, as well as by now current nornings, and has not to risk any of the contingencies which always attend the opening of roads in a new and unsettled country.

A limited quantity only of these Bonds are now offered at 95.

A thorough investigation of the above enterprise, we recommend these Bonds as a first-class invest prise, we technicut uses bounds as a first-class invest-ment, affording absolute safety, and paying an unusually liberal rate of interest. All marketable securities at their full price, free of commission and express charges, received in payment. Pamphlets and maps furnished on application.
