But the energy of the Practical Member was something marvelous. We could only repress) our feelings, and follow submissively where we could be. We always supposed ourselves to have the ordinary amount of self-assertion, and "a will of our own." But already the she led. We never knew before how resigned and "a will of our own." But already the unquestioning submission required of good Romans had possessed us, and we went meekly from door to door, and climbed lofty stairs unmurmuringly, and uttered the stereotyped phrases of question and answer, and made our report. Only the first house excited remarka remark that all were entitled to, but which. once made, it was unnecessary to repeat. "What a dirty entrance !-- what dirty passages and stairs!" And they were dirty, they are dirty, and probably will be always dirty.
