Extravagant Expenditures of the King of Spain.—Remonstrance of the King.—Loss of Temper and High Words.

The Root of All.—But did you ever see a man proof against the subtle power of gold? It gives courage, knaves and honesty, delects women constancy.

Now, as everybody knows the power of gold, no sooner does a wealthy person make appearance here than a swarm of parasites flock around the new comer.

A Royal Groom.—It was notorious here the Queen contemplated a still more energetic political campaign during the coming six months.

A Royal Rupture.—The King grew angry. The Queen lost her temper. High words were exchanged.

Aristocratic Turmoil.—The Faubourg St. Germain was thrown into a fever of excitement and annoyance by this intelligence.

The Queen Reappears.—While this quarrel was in progress, Queen Isabella's daughter, Countess Girgenti, brought suit to get the control of her property.

The Oneda Calamity.—Opinions of the English Press.

The Oneda Calamity.—Opinions of the English Press.—The Poll Mail Gazette of March 9 says: When the news came from America that the Captain of the Bombay, after running down the Oneda, had captured and destroyed her.
