LOCAL CHOWDER .- Practical jokes of all in-LOCAL CHOWDER.—Practical jokes of all innocent kinds are the order of to-day. We witnessed one this morning that was far from being so. It was wickedly cruel.
Some wretch had placed on the sidewalk a reversed hat, filled with cobblestones. A lad undertook to see how far he could kick it. The shock to his foot inflicted unuttorable anguish. The poor fellow was taken home in a condition of helplessness. The demon who set the share for him is unknown. demon who set the share for him is unknown. Bricks, neatly tied in paper, lay around the sidewalks, this morning. A gentleman who stooped in front of us to pick up an envelope, was disgusted at finding its inclosure to be a dead mouse. A greenhorn errand-boy came to borrow this morning a quart of editorial. To carry it, his comrades had provided him with a tin measure. Gentlemen got up this morning to find the bottoms of their trousers, legs or their pockets sewn up by mirth-loving wives or mischievous children. A young lady clerk exhibited her entire stook to us when we asked her for "plaid sewing silk." A sister saleswoman turned the tables for her by pinning an auction circular to the continuation of our coat. All-fools Day is an institution that demon who set the snare for him is unknown. our coat. All-fools Day is an institution that carries us back to the days of spelling-books and dirt pies—the days when we extracted more enjoyment from a rocking-horse than Bonner finds either in Dexter or in any other quadruped comprising his stud. The biggest sell we saw during the day was in the shape of the crowd that gathered to witness a colored men's celebration in Independence Square. The announcement which drew them together was a hoax.

Captain Chasteau, of the Park Police, is eminently the right man in the right place. To his innate gentleness of manner he adds the firmness of a soldier. What he didn't know about a horse before entering the army he learned during his three continuous years in the cavalry service. Captain Chasteau is the only good-looking man we ever knew to be unconscious of the par value of his "shape." As a reporter he was the best-dressed man in the corps. On horseback he is an Adouis in plaid breeches.

English suipe are coming to the game-dealers in unusual quantities. The birds are always in sufficient demand to keep up the prices. As long as gourmands continue appreciative, the respectability of sulps and woodcock will remain unimpeached. Wild pigeons are so plentiful that they sell for $1.50 per dozen. They are fat as seals. Served in per dozen. They are fat as seals. Served in the form of a pie, and the oftener what remains uneaten at one meal is "warmed over" for another the more enjoyable becomes the taste. The birds are abundant, just now, in Delaware and Maryland.

The pleasing vagaries with which the children of Africa celebrated the Promulgation, yesterday, by no means ended with the day. It was prolonged until, as a Hibernian policeman remarked to us:—"Last night's doins was wilder than ever this mornin." Just after midnight, in the characteristic middle of Middle Alley, a little festival was improvised that was more like something in the tropical scenes of Mozart's opera than a Quaker City demonstration. Beneath pendant flags and swart Moorish figures that leaned from the windows, and might almost have embraced across the street, stood a quartette of brown-skinned youths with guitars, executing a series skinned youths with guitars, executing a series of concerted rongs. The singing was quite good until the crowd swelled, and an excess of obligate performers deteriorated the quality, while adding to the quantity of sound. The scant lamp-light striking on the ragged crowd, the musical instruments, and the dark, hanging faces at the windows, revealed a scene like one of Doré's illustrations to Don Quixotte. Even the Caltic policeman who appreached Even the Celtic policeman, who approached the scene with hosdle intentions, was mol-lified, and allowed the musical excitement to wear itself out.

The big clock at Ninth and Ridge avenue was not in position this morning. In its place was a circular piece of paper. Upon it was painted a face with a hand, with extended digits held thumbward to the nose.

The Auril fool to these accustomed to gainted a race with a hand, with a consideration of the mose. The April fool to those accustomed to time themselves by it, was complete.

The cars of the Spruce and Pine Street Road are now handsomely painted in white. New horses have been purchased, and every appurtenance to the line is now first-class. The abolishing of the Slawson fare-box has improved the fare on that thoroughfare until the cars themselves have assumed a fair color.

Look phara for our annual Amil Kool effect. Look sharp for our annual April Fool effort to-day. We pride ourselves particularly on it.

directed to be taken down six wooden buildings and six dangerous buildings and chimneys. WIFE BEATING .- John Tolbert, residing on Church street, in Frankford, has been held in $600 ball by Alderman Stearne, to answer the charge of beating his wife.

Music Trachers in the Public School Signature.

At a meeting of the Board of School Directors of the Fifteenth Section, held at their room last evening, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the action of the Board of Control in presuming to elect music teachers for this section is the entering wedge to a dangerous diversion of powers wisely vested by law in this Sectional Board, and being an attack upon a vital part of our Sectional School law in this Sectional Board, and being an at-tack upon a vital part of our Sectional School system, is not to be surrendered without ex-press enactment of law.

Resolved, That the music teacher sent to this Section by the Board of Control, without authority, is hereby dismissed and forbidden to teach in any of the schools of this section; and the Visiting Committees of our several schools are hereby directed to see that this resolution are hereby directed to see that this resolution is duly enforced.

Resolved, That, believing in the influence of music for good, as well as the necessity for teaching it as a regular study in all of our schools, a special committee of three be appointed to inquire and report to this Board what proportion of the appropriation for music this Section is entitled to, and also to report the pages of a converted to music teacher to port the name of a competent music teacher to be elected by this Board.

A SWINDLER TRIPPED UP.—James Burns, who said that he resides on Penn street, bewho said that he resides ou Fenn strees, be-low South, was arrested at Front and Master streets by Officer Harring yesterday. He had been swindling a number of grocers doing business in that locality. He would enter a store, talk in a very business-like way and then order a barrel of flour sent to a certain place. When about departing he would horplace. When about departing he would borrow a dollar and a half for about ten minutes. In almost every instance he got his money, when the flour was sent as directed. The ac-cused was taken before Alderman Burns and committed in default of $2,000 ball to answer

No Compromise.—Among the rumors in regard to the case of Richard Ficken, charged with shooting the little boy Arthur D. Curran, was one that the family of the wounded lad received $7.500 from Ficken as a settlement of the case. We are assured by Mr. Curran, the father of the lad, that this rumor is entirely without foundation. No money has been rewithout foundation. No money has been re-ceived or offered. Mr. Curran intends to con-tinue the prosecution by every means which he can command, and it is to be hoped that he will be successful.

The flames originated from the stove in the kitchen. The back building was almost entirely destroyed. CITY NOTICES.

THE LADIES' SOROSIS CLUB, Of New York, recently changed their discussions from Woman's Suffrage to Hair Preparations and Pimple Banishers. They declared that, where nature had not endowed them with beauty, it was their right—yea, their duty—to seek it where they could. So they all voted that Maguelia Balm overcame Sallowness, Bough Skin and Bing-marks, and gave to the complexion a most distingue (Borosian) and marble-like appearance (dangerous to men. no doubt); and that Lyon's Kathairon made the Hair grow thick, soft and awful pretty, and moreover pre-vented it from turning gray. If the proprietors of these articles did not send the sisters an invoice they are not emart.
