DEMOCRATIC STUPIDITY Opinions of the Democratic Press

The action of the Democratic State Central Committee of Maryland, in recommending that the Fifteenth Amendment be quietly sub-mitted to in Maryand, does not meet the ap-probation of all the journals of the Democratic party-guite a difference of opinion bring ex-pressed upon the subject. We give below ex-tracts from a few of the Democratic sheets : No Conciliation of the New Voter.

The Salisbury Eastern Shoreman bitterly as-sails those Democrats who are endeavoring "to conciliate the negro element and secure its

"to conciliate the negro element and secure its votes to the Democratic party." It says: ' "We can hardly discuss this subject with that patience which might properly be expected of us by our cotemporaries throughout the State. We are unalterably opposed to any policy which compromises manhood, justice and right. In Maryland-of every other State south of Mason's and Dixon's line-there is less necessity, if necessity for such a thing exists at all, for our prostrating ourselves as willing victims before the Radical Juggernaut about to be dragged across our borders. We should not hasten to crush our bodies and dawn our souls in token of our terror, or in hope of securing favor from the hideous idol-powerless for good or harm if, we stand by as powerless for good or harm if we stand by as unbellevers instead of falling down as super-stitious, false or pretended devotees. * * "We cannot, if we would, propifate the ne-gro yoto, and the effort to do so at the first humiliation to failure in the attempt. We do not want the negro vote. * * * * "We want no policy-dodges, no time-serving resorts. We want the State to be true to it-self and the traditions of the past. Our cause is just, our principles pure and upright, and if we show the maniness to maintain them we will assuredly and perpetually triumph. At-tempts to conciliate are only evidences of weakness—confessions of terror in the presence of mere threats.

Down With the Amendment.

The Westminster Democratic Advocate sug-gests the following solution of the difficulty the Democracy finds itself in at present: "There is but one sentiment in the Democratic party, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the St. Lawrence to the Rio Grande, and from the St. Lawrence to the Rio Grande, touching the so-called Fifteenth Amendment, and that is, that it is no amendment at all, but utterly void and of no effect, rightfully and con-stitutionally, in law. It may be enforced for a brief time by a usurping and despised Con-gress, but it cannot stand. EXPUNCE is the word—the key-note—of the Democracy, through the length and breadth of the land. But that would be revolutionary, exclaims some Republican. No Republican should raise an objection like this, since the course of that party has been marked by revolution for the last decade. Besides, it is the rightful for the last decade. Besides, it is the rightful recort of freemen, when all other means have

The Situation This Morning.--What the Defence are Going to Bo.--Mr. Gerry's Splendid Preparation of the Case.--Free Love and Free Lovers to be Put on Trial, with McFarland as Obief Spectator of the Scene--A Bitter Fight Between Mr. Graham and Mr. Davis.

The N. Y. Sun says; The sixth day of this trial opens this morn-ing, and that the readers of the Sun may be able to comprehend the complicated and exciting scenes which are to follow, we will give a resum of the facts of the case as they have been thus far presented, and also the theory of the defence as far as it has been developed on the trial. The

on which the defence turns is, that McFar-land was not a responsible being when he shot Richardson; and surrounding this central point is the theory that there was a precon-certed scheme on the part of the friends of Richardson, first to alienate the affections of Mrs. McFarland from her husband, and then, by persistent persecution, to drive McFarland to a lunatic asylum or the grave, in order that Richardson might possess Birs, McFarland in

We were always men-now we are citizens and men among men. We admit the responsibility of our new relation, but do not shrink from it. We start in the race of civilization with many hindrances attaching to us from our past condi-tion-but we shall be sure to shake off these indiances in the sad race, and sweep onward in the pathway of improvement, in a manner which will be as graifying to our friends as griorous to our enemies. CRIME IN CHICAGO.

Attempted Midnight Assassination of Judge McAllister at his Residence.

(From the Ohicago Republican, April 8.j " Terrorism in this city has become a feature in the relations between malofactors, their sympathizers, and the administrators of the sympathizers, and the administrators of the law. From recent developments it would ap-pear that Judge McAllister, of the Recorder's Gourt, has been signalized by the untried and unimprisoned rowdies as a particular victim of their wrath. Only a few months have gone by since the Press of Chicago recorded a dastardly attempt made by villains on the son of Judge McAllister. To-day we have to re-cord an attempt at his own life. About midnight, yesterday, when Judge McAllister—whose residence is situated at the corner of Warren avenue and Wood street, fronting on the former—was about re-tring to bed, his wife heard a noise down stairs as of some heavy body falling on the floor. She insisted on going out to the stair-

floor. She insisted on going out to the stair-head, and Judge. McAllister immediately procured a couple of revolvers and followed her. Mrs. McAllister called out to know who was there. No answer was returned, but there was evidently a hasty exit from the kitchen through a back window. Judge and Mrs. Mc-Allister descended the stairs, and found that the window had been scientifically operated upon by burglars. Judge McAllister fixed the place up as well as could be done under the circumstances, and, with his wife, retired again to his room. They were not left long at rest, however, for Miss Mc-Allister, their daughter, came into the apart. ment in a little while, and stated that she had just seen a man in the rear of the house. The Judge and his wife rose immediately, and after listening for a little while, heard some one at work evidently on the kitchen win-dow. Mrs. McAllister insisted on going in dow. Mrs. McAllister insisted on going in advance to reconnoitre, and in doing so dis-covered some villain trying to enter the house. She told the Judge, who went down into the store-room (his brave wife accompa-nying him) and stealthily opened a door, which faced the kitchen. and gave him an opportunity of observing the intru-ders. He cocked his revolver and watched the kitchen window whereat the intended as-sassins were working. Soon he observed the curtain move as if a hand had clutched it from the outside. Immediately the Judge leveled his weapon and fired in that direction. There ardson to his wile which was read to the jury on Friday last, and appeared in the Sun on Saturday morning; that letter still further un-gles to regain his children, the sneers and taum's of Richardson, the Indiana divorce of came to his window and observed three men more energy in meeting their antagonists than before, that the effect would be produced through means which the society did not conthrough means which the society did not con-sider quite justifiable. Consequently, when the entertainment began at the Agricultural Hall on Monday night, a number of the offi-cers placed themselves in a part of the enclo-sure in which they could most effectively ob-serve its progress. The performance pro-ceeded until the fourth bull was brought upon the scene, and then they felt that they had seen enough to justify them in interforing. Mr. John Colam, the Secretary of the So-ciety, rushed into the ring, and was quickly followed by a number of other gentlemen and police. Mr. Colam seized one of the darts which had been thrown at the animal, in the end of which a sharp spike was fixed. He which had been thrown at the animal, in the end of which a sharp spike was fixed. He then intimated to the members of the Spanish troupe that the performance would not be tol-erated any longer and should not proceed. When the reason of the altercation was known throughout the hall, the ex-citement became immense. The Span-iards present, who mustered in consider, able force, yelled vehemently, and their up-roar was intensified by the should of hundreds of roughs. A scene of utter confusion fol-lowed, some saying that the matadores and banderilleros were arrested, and were rescued by the erowd; whilst others gave what was probably the more correct account that do to who supported Mr. Colam had enough to do to fight their way out of the hall. Any how the probably the more correct account—that those bull fight came to an end.

monev recovered : The boldest robbery ever perpetrated in Oleveland occurred at about 121 to-day, and it was so far successful that the robber escaped $20,000 in currency, taken from the vault with of the Citizens' Savings and Loan Association, in Atwater Block. All the officers and em-ployes of the bank had gone to dinner, with the exception of Mr. C. W. Leper, the cashier, who was "alone in the bank," At "about 12] o'clock a well-dressed and gentlemanly-appear-ing fellow went to the railing and engaged Mr Leper in conversation in regard to de-positing some money in the bank for hissister. by what took place at the Astor House, all the facts and circumstances surrounding the case from beginning to end will be deployed The two stood talking for some five minutes, when a third party approached from the di-rection of the Directors' room, and stepping up to the stranger, said, "It is all satisfac-As Mr. Leper had not seen this third party enter, he at once suspected that some robbery had been committed, and started after involuntarily placed in an attitude of either the men, who were about leaving. the man seen to enter was talking busily with the cashier, crept around the counter and sneaked through the directors' room to the vault, from which he abstracted $20,000 in money, which had been placed there during the forenoon. He then walked quietly out and the two sloped. The money would have been deposited in a safe place a few minutes later —as soon as some of the clerks had returned from dinner so that the cashier could leave. But the robbers dently understood their game, and they played it shrewdly. THE DEATH OF LINCOLN.-The Grand Army of the Republic, Department of the Potomac, being desirous that some notice should be taken of the coming anniversary of the assas-sination of Abraham Lincoln, conferred with Mr. Murdoch on the subject while that gentleman was in our city recently, and he, with his accustomed patriotism and generosity, at once acceded to the proposition to return to this city on the evening of the 14th inst. for the purpose of delivering his beautiful lecture, en-as they returned no more. , Yesterday morning an observation was made of the window through which the Judge had fired. It was found that the pistol ball had grazed the window casing, and, passing off obliquely, struck the wall, against which it was flattened, and so was picked up from the ground. As the flattened bullet bore the mark of iron upon it, it evidently had struck some implement in the hands of the burglars and had probably inflicted a wound upon some of them, which is most devoitly to be wished. In addition to the above outrage, it is ru-mored around town that a similar attack was made at about the same time on the residence of Charles H. Reed, Esq., State's Attorney, at Grove Park. The attack, like that on Judge McAllister, was happily frustrated.

ABCTIC EXPLORATIONS.

Views of Dr. Hayes, the Arctic Explorer The Washington correspondent of the New York Herald says :

As previously stated in my despatches, Dr. Hayes appeared before the Committee on Foreign Relations, on Thursday, and gave his views relative to Afetic exploration, the ques views relative to A'enc exploration, the ques-tion being upon the propriety of appropriating $100,660 to aid Mr. Hall. The doctor, after explaining to the committee his discoveries and the general features of Arctic geography, advocated a full investigation of the scientific problems involved. He declared himself in favor of a government expedition, but confessed that it was not likely to be of any immediate practical use, except to science. The expedition, he said, being of necessity a nautical one, must be commanded and officered by nautical men, and that since its operations would be wholly beyond the regions occupied by Esquimaux experience with those people was not re-quired. As for food, this must be wholly prepared at home or at winter quarters, since the region to be traversed was, so to speak, a desert, into which Esquimaux would not go. Since an expedition could not possibly be filled out this season he saw no occasion for immediate legislation, except that it would give a whole year for preparation, an advantage not to be lost sight of; but he favored the reference of the whole matter to the National Academy of Sciences, which begins its an-nual meeting in Washington on Tuesday. As for an expedition in his own behalf, he dis claimed any intention of making a personal application at the present time, owing to the inancial state of the country; yet at some fa-ture, day he proposed to lay his plans, before Congress, and he hoped to see well-equipped scientific expeditions fitted out, not only for exploration at the North but at the South Pole 2s well. If an expedition is to be fitted out by the government, it should be equipped in the best manner, so as to insure success and redound to the national credit. Dr. Kane and himself had done the pioneering.

How Parliamentary Elections are Con-ducted. A Catholic Priest on Fenian-ism. Curious Revelations in Court. A mail telegram from Dublin, March 29, re-

The hearing of the Longford petition was resumed to day. Daniel Crossie deposed that on the 15th of December, before the election, the Rev. Mr. Fitzgerald, while officiating in the Rev. Mr. Fitzgerald, while officiating in Kilbeggan chapel, said, before commencing second mass, that there had been a placard put up in favor of Martin, the head Fenian, Orangeman and priest hunter. He denounced Fenianism in strong terms and then commenced second mass. My cursing the Fenians, he said, this day won't go for nothing, and he prayed the tears he shed might fall on them and not be dried says by the burning flames of hell. And then he added, "You savages, I would take little and leave you without mass this morning." After mass he called Martin an Orangeman, and said he would, if he could, behead all the priests and overturn the Catholic institutions of the country. The Rev. Mr. McGovern deposed that when Lord Greville was about to be vaised to the peerage he wrote to witness, saying Captain Greville was anxious to represent the country ; witness wrote back, saying they could not have a better representative, and asked Gre-ville to come down to St. Mels College to be introduced to the priests; at a meeting held of about thirty priests Greville was adopted; mobs in Greville's interest were formed to protect the voters, and it was only after the mobs of the other side had put them in terror on the polling day that Greville's voters could get to the booths without the protection of the military or police.

Patrick Cabill swore that because he supported Martin, Father O'Farrel refused to hear his confession. Joseph Smith deposed that Father Fitz-gerald threatened to send the names of Mar-tin's supporters to the Pope for excommunication.

James Gunty heard Father Fitzgerald's denunciation, but thought it applied to members of secret societies only.

Evidence was also given that large quantities of drink were supplied.
