TRANCE AND THE NEW PLEBISCITUM Louis Napoleon apes Caesar, and he desires have modern France resemble old Rome. So he calls a decree of his Senate a Senatus Consultum, and a vote of the French people ette. The existing trouble in his government, he now proposes to fulfil them. He proposes superintendent, unless, indeed, the Board, in its who shared his guilt in an equal degree. to have the Constitution of France amended, but he insists on his own way of amendhis orders, puts it into the form of a Cenatus-Consultum, and the people are expected to adopt it by a Plebiscitum. The popuhr branch of the national legislature is not expected to have anything to do with adopting or rejecting this or any future constitutional amendment. Indeed it is the work of the Emperor from the beginning, and if the people do not approve of it by their votes, it is to be regarded as a sign that they are opposed to reform, and desire to remain under an absolute personal government. The constitution must remain unaltered and unamended. This seems to be the plain English of the existing political difficulty in Paris. It is not that the promised reform is not a real one, but the mode of Heretofore this power was confined to the Senate, which is a body made up of his creatures. But under the new order of things, when the Senate will be more of a popular body, it will not have the right to touch the Constitution, except under direction of the Constitution of the Constit Emperor. When he graciously offers it, the Senate must ratify it, and then it must be submitted to a vote of the whole people.

The opposition to the Senatus-Consultum seems to grow and even to become virulent. "I congratulate you that these principles of the service of the servi have been at length made a part of the su-preme law of the land. Nor does the amendment impair the real rights of any State. It leaves the whole regulation of suffrage to the whole people of each State, subject only to the fundamental law that the right of no citizen to vote shall be denied or abridged on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude. It is to be hoped that each State will so conform its constitution and laws to this fundamental law that no occasion may be given for legislation by Congress. But the best windication of the wisdom as well as the justice of the amendment must be found in the conduct of the large class of citizens whom you represent. On the occasion to which I have referred, I ventured to say that the best way to insure the peaceful dwelling together of the different races is the cordial reciprocation of benefits, and not the mutual infliction of injuries. I cannot now give you better counsel than I offered then. charity. Why not signalize your rejoicings in the rights secured under the Fifteenth Amendment by urging upon Congress the prompt removal of all political disabilities imposed upon our fellow-citizens by the Fourteenth Amendment, so that through universal suffrage and universal amnesty, peace, good-will and prosperty may be established throughout our country? Every good man must rejoice in the progress which the colored citizens of the United States have made in education, in religious culture and in the general imprevenent of their condition. Every good man must earnestly desire their continued and accelerated progress in the same direction; all public and private interests will be promoted by it, and it will insure at no distant day the cordial recognition of their rights, even from those of their fellow-citizens who have most earnestly opposed them. No man can now be found who would restore slavery. A few years hence, if the colored men are wise, it will be impossible to find a man who will avow himself in favor of denying or abridging their right to vote.

The effect of the bad bank statement of Saturday has not been entirely overcome. Although the banks are freely lending to good customers and discounting prime paper the rate on call was firmer to-day and a great deal of new husiness was transacted at seven per cent. The general rate was six per cent, but the exceptions at five were fewer and confined almost exclusively to the leading government dealers. No essential change was reported in discounts.

The sulvancein gold yesterday induced large sales of bonds, the bills drawn against which weakened exchange, which declined to 1807,as00 for sixty days steriling, although the nominal quotation for prime was 1994. Washington, April 13. SENATE.—The resolution providing for a joint select committee of the two Houses of ongress to have charge of the Indian affairs of the country was taken up for consideration.

Mr. Nye addressed the Senate against the content recurrences of changes in our Indian policy. It was out of these changes that most of our Indian troubles came. They keep the Indians unsettled and uneasy.

Mr. Harlan favored the resolution in a few oli for Centrals and 841 for Unions.

The Stock market is strong and higher.
Northwest common advanced to 1a1, and was the leading feature of the market. Mr. Stewart spoke to the general subject on Indian affairs, and advocated the proposed measure.

Mr. Hamlin moved that the resolution and pending amendments be laid on the table.

Mr. Pomeroy moved to place the resolution yeas, 18; nays, 38.

Mr. Hamlin withdrew his motion to lay on the table.

The question being on the adoption of the resolution, it was adopted. Yeas 29, nays 28.

Mr. Wilson moved that the vote be taken on the Georgia bill to-morrow at four o'clock.

Mr. Drake objected, because of the importance of the question involved in the bill.

Mr. Trumbull, from the Judiciary Committee made an adverse or prosection. tee, made an adverse report on the applica-tion of O. B. Hart, contesting the seat of Senator Gilbert, of Florida. Ordered to be printed.

The Georgia bill was taken up, and Mr. Norton addressed the Senate in favor of th on Elections, asked the unanimous consent of the House to call up and dispose of the con-tested case of Taylor vs. Reading. Objection the morning hour. 11.
Mr. Burdett, from the same Committee, re ported a resolution, which was adopted, that Francis E. Shober be sworn in as representa-tive from the Sixth District of North Caro-lina, but not to the prejudice of Mr. Boyden,

Mr. Kellcy, from the Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures, made a long speech on the bill for the unification of the international coinage. He made an argument in favor of the metrical system of coinage, as opposed to the French or decimal system. He thought it was foolish to accommodate our system to the French system, when Russia, backed by Germany, asks to stand by the metrical system, It will require a change of only three one-hundredths of one per cent. to conform our currency to close of the century a hundred millions, united by steam and electric cables with the whole earth. At the beginning of the next century San Francisco and New York will be the great money centres of the world, and our coinage will be the standard of commercial inter-course throughout the nations. Mr. Kelley waxed eloquent upon this supposed-to-be very dry subject, and was listened to with consi-dry subject, and was listened to with considerable interest.

Mr. Heaton, from the same Committee, reported a bill to establish an assay office at Helena, Montana, and appropriating one hundred thousand dollars for that purpose. Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

The contested case of Hunt vs. Sheldon, Second District, Louisiana, on which the previous question was seconded vesterious.

The McFarland Trial.

The McFarland trial was continued this morning. Persons who have obtained admittance to the proceedings are very generally of the opinion that the prisoner will be acquitted. animated conversation with little Percy, who came in and greeted his father and the lady.

At 11 o'clock the court opened. Mr. Davis, for the prosecution, read the letter from Mr.

Calboun, which has already been published.

Mr. Gerry, for the defence, read a letter from Mrs. Callioun to Mrs. McFarland, dated August 20th, 1866, which contained very little important matter, beyond the phrase:

"You have beautiful patience to be made a victim, and I think I shall make you one."

Judge Davis then read another letter from Mrs. Calhoun, which has already been pub-

Mr. Graham replied they would show that this woman put Mrs. McFarland on the stage.
