(Correspondence of the Phila, Evening Bulletin.1. PARIS, Tuesday, April 5th, 1870. -The constitutional machinery won't work; on t contrary, it is getting out of gear, and threatens to bring on a state of chronic confusion, which is far from being without peril, and of which it is impossible to foresee the result The Schatus-Consultum, of which I sent you a sketch last week, is turning out to be a very awkward and somewhat clumsy piece of business, and has involved the new ings have been held by the different parties in the Chamber, at which great confusion and difference of opinion have prevailed, and no definite conclusions have been arrived at;

Constitution-makers always seem to delight in puzzling themselves with, as well as the whole puzzling themselves with, as well as the whole world besides. But I will endeavor to elucidate just one or two of the principal points which are creating the present hitch.

In the first place, then, it seems suddenly to the French Senate, a non-elected and non-representative body-men who are mere nominees and pensioners of the Emperor—about to discuss and settle the most vital interests of the French people and nation, while to really representative Chamber, or that which ought to be such, sits close by without

The first place then, it seems suddenly to have occurred to every one that here we have the French people and nation, while a peal to the French people to reconsider and whole the really representative Chamber, or that which ought to be such, sits close by without Legation of the United States, Madrill, March 27, 1870.—Sir: The official gazette of this morning publishes a decree abolishing the regulations that have been in force in the colonies requiring proofs of purity of blood as a requisite for admission to public employment, schools, etc. In the preamble of the decree, the Minister of the Colonies justifies the abolition of these tests, not only because they are at variance with the spirit of the constitution, but also because they are practically inoperative, and a fruitful source of deception and perjury. It is understood that another decree will immediately be issued, establishing freedom of worship in the Philippines and Fernando Po. The Minister of the Colonies has introduced in the Cortes bills for a law of municipalities for Porto Rico, and an electoral law for the same island; and has laid before the council of ministers, for their discussion and approval, bills in relation to the following important subjects: 1. Law of provisional legislature and civil government: 2. Law of public order. 3. Alien law for all the colonies. 4. Law for the emancipation of slaves for the island of Porto Rico. 5. Law law of the colonies and provided in the colonies. 4. Law for the emancipation of slaves for the island of Porto Rico. 5.
