LONDON, April 22.—The police have ingreased their vigilance in watching the movements of parties suspected to be in connection with the cause of the Fenians. Suspicions have resulted in the seizure there of many revolvers and an immense number of pistol

gress, last evening, the Chicago Congress delegates demanded, as a basis of union, that the directing power of the organization should consist of an Executive Council of nine persons, instead of the present Senate, and that this Executive Council shall at once summon to its aid the best military talent, to proceed to combine with the Secretary of War in arranging a military programme, and concentrate resources for a movement. On condition of accepting these propositions, they guaranteed one half of the means necessary to place an arrmy in the field. A warm debate, lasting until after midnight, ensued. The adoption of the scheme was bitterly opposed by the military delegates, who insisted that in an immediate raid alone lay all the hopes of the organization, and on immediate action only would success attend the Fenian movement.

Philadelphia Money Market. FRIDAY, April 22, 1870.—There is no apparent improvement in the money market to-day. The application for loans come in slowly, and the supply is far in excess of the demand. The result is almost nominal rate for all classes of loans, good borrowers, whether on car or discounts, generally controlling the market. The bulk of the former were made this morning at 5 percent. rency, to-day, the bill to afford additional facilities to the Southern and Western State was considered, section by section, and nearly or discounts, generally controlling the market. The bulk of the former were made this morning at 5 per cent., and the latter at 6 per cent., both at the banks and outside. If a cheap and easy money market could tempt trade into life and activity, the present opportunity is certainly highly favorable to that end.

Gold opened at 113, declined to 112%, and stood at 112% so far as agreed upon this morning, authoments of parties suspected to be in connection with the cause of the Fenians. Suspicions have lately been aroused that quantities of arms and ammunition have been purchased and secreted in various sections of the country, awaiting an opportunity to convey them to disaffected districts of Ireland, and the authorities have redoubled their exertions to ferret but the hiding-places of these contraband.

A suit, interesting and important to the owners of patents for designs, under the act of Congress of 1851, was decided in the United States Ulrcuit Court, this week, before Judge Cadwalader. The complainants, the Lowell Manufacturing Company, a corporation chartered by the State of Massachusetts, were the owners of a certain design for a carpet pattern. The defendants, Meesrs, Larned & Starr, of this, city had adopted this design or pattern for their carpets, varying the figures in some of their details. The learned Judge before whom was argued the application for an injunction restraining the defendants from using this altered design, being in doubt whether the difference in the designs was not such and so great as to make the defendants' design a new one, and therefore not an infringment of the complainants', sent the parties to an action at law, to determine their rights. The jury found for the plaintifis, the Lowell Manufacturing Company, and the Court accordingly entered a decree in favor of the complainants, perpetually restraining defendants from the use of the said design, and awarding five hundred dollars damages to complainants. The complain ants were represented by Horace Barnard and Ludovic O. Cleemann, Esqs., and the defendants by Victor Guilloù, Esq.
