successful, and it is no palliation of his offence that Mrs. Waite was acquitted of the crime with which she was charged; and if there were any force in this view of the case, we must not not lose sight of the fact that the evidence upon the trial of the arson bore very hard upon Mrs. Waite. I have no doubt the jury acted from conscientious motives and upon the best light they had. I desire to cast no censure upon them, but I am free to say that if they had come to a different conclusion the Court would have had no hesitation in sustaining their verdict. The case was tried with great care and ability upon the part of the Assistant District Attorney Pratt, and no point was omitted in the proofs laid before the jury or in the argument enforcing those facts. The Commonwealth officers did their whole duty, in this as in every other case which they have to hold that because Mrs. Waite's jury were not satisfied of her guilt, beyond all reasonable doubt, that we should have any question of Reichard's guilt, when his perjury was com-

and stands confessed by his plea.

It may be that Reichard was the dupe of some one else in this matter. But the man who could stand up in open Court, as this man did, and go through his false story without the oving of a muscle or changing of counte mance, can hardly be a novice in crime. I watched his face closely at the time, and I never saw an instance of such perfect coelness and assurance in the commission of such an offence. That he has been disappointed in the result is possible, and even probable. But if men will allow themselves to be put forward as "dupes" in such transactions as this, it is time they understood the severe penalty they will have to pay in case of detection and conviction. A man who commits perjury for pay is hardly entitled to merciful consideraon as a dupe, or for the reason that his crime has not been as profitable as he anticipated.

This man's punishment was heavy, but his offence was heavy also. He has not even this poor excuse of being tempted by self-interest to swear falsely in a proceeding to which he was a party. It was committed in a bold attempt to obstruct the administration of public justice. And because it was so committed, ad because this offence has become so com mon as to require prompt and severe treatment, I administered to this defendant the full measure of the law. It falls heavily upon him, and I would gladly lighten the blow if I could loso consistently; but the interests of society juire that this sentence, which was imposed for its protection, should be enforced. discharged. QUARTER SESSIONS—Judge Peirce.—In the QUARTER SESSIONS—Judge Peirce.—In the case of the Commonwealth ex rel. Joshua Spering and Joseph K. Fletcher vs. E. Coppée Mitchell and C. M. Husbands, brought to test who are properly the counsel to represent the city before the jury to assess damages for land taken for Park purposes, the Judge decided in favor of the plaintiffs.

—In Chestnut street, above Thirty seventh, is an excellent public school. It is, of course, free to all. Within a square distant from it, greatly relieves from over-crowding the school we first named. The building in question is of pressed brick, three stories in height. Its entrances are of ample width, and its staircases are of corresponding dimensions. The various rooms upon each floor are separated by partitions of sash, at a moment's notice susceptible of being so put out of sight as to throw three taken in the face of many discouragements. Whatever may be the difference in instruction or precept, our reporter did not venture upon the liberty of inquiring. What he did see was that upon the entrance of a visitor no child looks from slate or book to stare at he intruder. The school has been open but or a few weeks. At this moment the boys' department is occupied by two hundred and ninety pupils, and that of the girls by but a few less. The boys' department is in the charge of Miss M. E. Hennessey, Principal; Miss A. M. Boyle, Miss R. Hagan, Miss M. Metcalfe, ment. Take away the prisoner.
