Local Chowder.—The corporators of the Pennsylvania College of Dental Surgery have added to it two more professorships. They have established a chair of anatomy and a chair of physiology. The prosperity of the college is such that the courses in question will be as thorough as in the medical schools. will be as thorough as in the medical schools. Doctor J. Ewing Mears has been elected Professor of Anatomy. In this capacity he represents Jefferson Medical College. Doctor Jas. Tyson, in the chair of Physiology, represents the Medical University of Pennsylvania. The lectures on these two branches will not only be set full and as compatibuting as those those than be as full and as comprehensive as those given on the same subjects in the strictly medical colleges, but regular surgical clinics will be held by Doctor Mears throughout the season. The college building is at Ninth and Arch streets. The institution was founded in 1852. streets. The institution was founded in 1852.

—If ever there was a time when first-class mechanics were overrun with demands upon mechanics were overrun with demands upon their skill, that time is the present. At the watering-places an army of painters and paperers, plasterers and plumbers is finding lucrative employment. We saw a half distracted "boss" paper hanger from Cape May this morning, imploring even second-class talent to accept employment from him at first-class prices. The force of Hogarth's representation of the "Industrious Apprentice" is as valid at this moment as it was a century ago. The only people among our industrial classes who aren't thritty are the people who, during the past winter, indulged in the expensive luxury of a "strike."

that assembles at St. Andrew's this afternoon. The number of divines registered at noon today was about the average. Many more are expected by evening trains. Many of the delegates bring their families with them. If any sojourn in hotels, it is because of a disinclination for the acceptance of private hospitality. The Convention will probably remain in session until Friday afternoon.

sugar of lead. The principal cost of this fitting pensable item in so many of our manufactures is the labor that it involves. In this respect, John Bull possesses over both the Quaker and Yankee an at present insurmountable advantage. For this reason the fraternity of advantage. For this reason—the fraterinty of chemists are now experimenting, with a view to solve a chemical problem. What they expect is to find a means of euchering their transatlantic rivals by chemical combinations by which the existing labor can be dispensed with. If successful in this, we shall hear as little, in this market, of English sugar of lead as of English toilet pins or English axes.

—Many of the Aldermen now complain that their office receipts are not sufficient to meet their expenses. Constables complain with less acerbity. Some of these gentry have sources of fevenue that to their chiefs, the

—For the June celebration at Williamsport, the Knights Templar in this city and vicinity are making extensive preparation. The encampment will endure for six days. The assemblage of participants will include a large representation of the wealth and the learning of this Commonwealth.

Having no parasol she was a perspiring vic-tim to a very uncomfortable principle. The freekles upon her face were as plentifully dis-tributed as those upon the shell of a turkey's egg. The lady wasn't bewitching.

The twinge in the pedals of those having corns has, for the last twenty-four hours, been an infallible prediction of an early visitation of rain. After accumulating the small sum required, in addition to his existing capital, to make him a millionaire, our reporter proposes to write a volume upon the subject of corns. The remedies for these nuisances are various. The Mullica Hill Hera'd annually publishes the best of the bunch. It consists in the purchase of a three-shilling hatchet, and an immediate excision of the entire toe. For the extirpation of these pests the religious press is unanimous in the recommendation of cataplasm of bruised cranberries, changed every two hours, Sundays excepted. By journals devoted to the turf and to horseshoeing, the virtue of a plaster made of the skin of a salted codish, as an eradi-cator of those evils, is extravagantly extolled. A homocopathic physician, uptown, is said to remove them immediately by the ap-plication to the boot-heel of the sufferer of the thirty-thousandth trituration of a dried whor-de-berry. This statement is to be received with caution. The stope-cutters' remedy of knocking off the protuberance with a cold chisel is effective, but somewhat violent. The chiropedists operate first by means of solvents, and afterwards with the kuife. To banish corns do this: Set with your feet in water as hot as the pedals can endure it, until said pe dals take on the appearanc of the hands of a laundress after a hard day's wash. With a little assistance from the extremities of the digits the entire crop will be painlessly re-

ROBEING HIS EMPLOYERS.—William Smith has been employed in the Keystone Mills, at Twenty-fifth and Callowhill streets. For some time past he has been suspected as having abstracted woolen yarn. Two large boxes of yarn have been recovered, and a warrant for the arrest of Smith was placed in the hands of Detective Lukens. Mr. Lukens went to the house of Smith, No. 615 North Thirtyeixth street, this morning, and arrested his man. He found him up stairs, and Smith requested to be allowed to bid his wife and children good by. Lukens said that he would go with him. As he got near the door Smith bolted. Lukens ran after him, but stumbled in the myd and severally cut his hand. in the mud and severely cut his hand. He got up and resumed the chase, however. Smith leaped two fences. Lukens did likewise. Smith rushed into a cow-stable and hid himself. Lukens entered the place and declared that he would shoot Smith if he didn't appear at once. Smith didn't want to be shot, and surrendered immediately. He was taken to the Central Station and was locked up for a

UNDER SUSPENSION.—Policeman Charles Max, who shot and killed two men in the Nineteenth Ward some time ago, is neither on duty nor receiving pay, as has been stated by some of the papers. He was suspended by some of the papers. He was suspended by Lieutenant Pritchard immediately after the occurrence, and until the trial of the case is concluded the suspension will continue.

DELEGATE ELECTION.—A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Republicans of the wenty-fifth Ward was held last evening. The object was the election of a delegate at large to the Congressional nominating convention. Enoch Clifford was chosen. He is understood to be in favor of the nomination of Mr. Alfred C. Harmer.

Five hundred and forty-seven received charity, in food or in clothing, and three thousand five hundred and fifteen meals were given in the Mission Building. Good homes were secured for twelve children and two unfortunate females. Employment was obtained for several grown persons. Sixty soup tickets were issued by the Missionary on the Griscom Street soup bouse. This generous institution supplied the soup for the meals given during week-days in the Mission Building. The number of persons who have received medical aid, principally under the direction of Dr. D. M. Barr and his assistants, was two hundred and rine revenue.

On the subject of free baths the report says:
"Over ten thousand (10,000) baths have been given since the 1st of April last. The most degraded portion of the community, who are excluded from other establishments, were freely admitted to these baths. The immedi-ate results to all classes who used them, were pleasant sensations arising from a clear skin, increase of self-respect, and absence of all disease of a pestilential character. Through the ease of a pestilential character. Through the generosity of J. Hinckley Clark and R. H. Lamborn, Esqs., the money was principally supplied for their maintainance. The cost of the baths was but little more than $300, including wages of attendants, 'fuel, plumbing, temporary houses, soap: towels, bath-tubs and water tax, (which we hope the city will remit. The actual cost was about 3 cents per bath. Free public baths are the great want of the very poor of Philadelphia, especially during the hot season. The total receipts were $3,133 99, and, after paying the necessary expenses, the balance in the treasury was $32 02.

The fifteenth annual report of the Ladies' Bedford Street Mission says:
"The Mission schools are filled with bright faces and inquiring minds. Our appeal, then is in behalf of the little ones who are so utterly uncared for. Will not the friends of all the poor, and of the Bedford Street Mission, sendpoor, and of the Bedford Street Bission, send-us means to properly clothe those for whom Christ died? John S. Clarke in the Play. The N. J. Standard speaks as follows of the comedy entitled Fox vs. Goose, produced in New York last night by John S. Clarke. The play is the production of Mr. John D. Stockton, editor of the Philadelphia Morning Post:

It is not without sufficient reason that Mr. J. D. Stockton's play of Fox vs. Goose was enacted for one hundred nights in London, for acted for one hundred nights in London, for it combines some of the purest elements of humor that have ever been brought together in modern comedy. Its chief interest does not arise so much from general absurdity of plot as from the contrast of several strongly-marked and eccentric characters, the ridiculous situations into which one individual, "Jack Gosling," is betrayed, and the antithesis that one phase of cowardice is made to present to another. The substance of the three acts may be briefly cowardies is made to present to another. The substance of the three acts may be briefly said to be the series of perplexities into which young Gosling is seduced by his falling a dupe to "Fox Fowler," a roving adventurer, and to the cunning of his lady-love, "Rose," who has made up her mind that she will marry some one clse. These perplexities give Mr. Clarke the opportunity of using his most artful resources for creating merriment, a drunken scene and a duel scene combining the most absurd idiosyncracies of "Bob Acres" and "Toodles," without being an attempt to imitate either. In the last act, particularly: Mr. Stockton has not scrupled to particularly: Mr. Stockton has not scrupled to draw upon that fund of geniality and humor of-which-he-possesses so-abundant a share. The arguments, the devices, the inventions, the explanations, the artifices resorted to by "Jack" in order to escape the duel, exhaust the lexicon of poltroonery, and employ every tint and shade that can be used in the delinea-
